Attack Is 13th Made In Series

Raid Is 100 Miles Off China Line

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — Forty-two U.S. Navy fighter-bombers struck again today at North Viet Nam's radar installations on Bach Long Island, following up a raid Friday against that military target in the Gulf of Tonkin.

Enemy ground fire downed a Skyhawk jet in the area. The pilot was reported rescued uninjured.

13th Attack

The attack was the 13th in a series of raids launched against North Viet Nam Feb. 7. Bach Long, only 80 miles west of Red China's Hainan Island and 100 miles south of the Chinese mainland, is the northernmost point to be hit.

Radio Peking charged that eight U.S. military planes intruded into Communist China's territorial air space near Hainan Island in two groups during the day. The Chinese maintain their water and air space rights extend 12 miles from their coasts.

Today's raid was led by Cmdr. Henry P. Glindeman of Coeur D'Alene, Idaho, skipper of Airwing 15 on the carrier Coral Sea.

Damages Objective

Glindeman, who flew directly to Saigon following the raid, said his primary objective had been substantially damaged.

A participant in four or five previous raids, he said the ground fire on this one was "about same as usual."

Glindeman said a Phantom jet fighter he was flying was not hit but that he did not know how many other aircraft had been struck by ground fire.

"We did not see any enemy aircraft or people on the ground," he said, "although small arms and automatic fire was moderately heavy. I could not tell how effective last week's raid had been, but there is a difference now."

Halt Freighters

Six Japanese shipping firms decided today to halt sailing of their freighters to North Vietnamese ports because of increased risk to shipping in North Vietnamese waters. The six firms had 10 ships making monthly calls to North Viet Nam, hauling an annual total of about 500,000 tons of coal from North Viet Nam's Hongay mines to Japan.

A powerful Viet Cong unit smashed a government militia outpost 17 miles from the North Vietnamese border today, killing 24 defenders.

The Communists also wounded five of the defenders and captured one. Twenty-five weapons and a stock of ammunition were taken from the post.

Communist sources in Moscow said Red China is obstructing delivery of Soviet arms to North Viet Nam across its territory.

The Chinese are refusing to let the Russians fly the supplies across China, and movements by rail are running into delays.

Like Giant Wave Over 100 Ft. High

BY JOSEPH BENHAM

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — A massive earthquake rumbled across central Chile Sunday, shattering a dam that buried a village of 400 people under a deluge of mud and water. At least 26 others were killed elsewhere, hundreds were injured and thousands were left homeless.

Only eight villagers were known to have escaped when the 230-foot-high dam burst, cascading two million tons of mud and water on the copper-mining village of El Cobre, 80 miles north of Santiago.

Between 60 and 70 farmhouses and cottages were swept away by he torrent that thundered into the valley beneath the dam.

Like Giant Wave

"It was like a gigantic wave, more than 100 feet high, made of sand, mud and water," said one survivor, Carlos Munchel.

"It came on top of us, but I managed to run to a nearby hill. When I looked over my shoulder the avalanche had passed already and then I could not see the houses any more."

President Eduardo Frei toured the stricken areas by plane and helicopter. He told newsmen that the situation was under control and praised the people for remaining calm and helping in rescue efforts.

Confined to Area

"The situation in El Cobre is terrible," Frei said, "but it is fortunate it was confined to this small area."

Sharp after-shocks continued through the night but the only major result reported was fresh rockslides on the highways. Crews were working to clear the slides and repair road damage. All main roads were open, but detours were necessary on many.

The quake shook the 2,650-mile-long mountain nation from end to end, but it hit hardest in the central provinces of Aconcagua, Valparaiso, Coquimbo and Santiago, where a third of the South American nation's 7.8 million people live.

Fires Break Out

Dead and injured were reported in dozens of cities. Scores of fires broke out.

The upheaval was the worst the quake-prone nation has suffered since May 1960, when an earthquake and tidal wave killed an estimated 5,000 people.

Heaviest destruction in Sunday's earthquake was reported in communities just north of the capital.

At Valparaiso, Chile's second largest city and largest port 60 miles northwest of Santiago, two deaths were reported. About a third of the houses were reported destroyed or heavily damaged.

In Llay-Llay a rail and highway junction 50 miles above Santiago, almost every building was destroyed or heavily damaged.

In Nogales, 65 miles north of

Merger Recommended Of Penn, NYC Roads

WASHINGTON (AP)— Merger of the Pennsylvania and New York Central railroads was recommended today by examiners for the Interstate Commerce Commission.

If finally approved by the ICC, the Penn-Central would be the the United States' largest rail system.

Strict conditions were laid down, one of which would require the two railroads to provide freight service over the lines of the New Haven Railroad.

But the examiners—contrary to expectations in the railroad industry — did not recommend that the merged Penn-Central system support the New Haven's bankrupt passenger operations "unless a plan is provided to offset the present operating deficits on a sound economic basis."

Would Cover 14 States

The merger, if approved by the full commission, would create a 19,631-mile system that would operate in 14 states, the District of Columbia and Canada.

It would serve most major population centers between the East Coast and the Mississippi River.

Examiners Jerome K. Lyle and Henry C. Darmstadter, who conducted extensive hearings on the complex proposal, concluded:

"It is our belief that the overall benefits to be derived from consummation of the proposed merger clearly outweigh any injury which has not nor cannot be protected through the imposition of conditions" (sic).

The examiners did not recommend inclusion of the financially troubled Erie-Lackawanna Railroad in the merged Penn-Central.

But they left the record open for 10 years to permit future consideration of such action if the Erie-Lackawanna is not successful in its attempt to be admitted to the Norfolk & Western Railway System. That system has indicated it will consider taking in the Erie-Lackawanna whenever the railroad's financial condition improves.

About Other Roads

As another condition of the recommended merger, the examiners would require the Pennsylvania and New York Central to attempt to locate the Lehigh Valley Railroad — controlled by the Pennsylvania — in one of the other two major eastern railroad systems: the Norfolk & Western or the Chesapeake & Ohio-Baltimore & Ohio.

The condition was imposed, the examiners said, to bring about "the best possible competive balance between the merged company and other eastern railroads."

The examiners also recommended inclusion of the New York, Susquehanna & Western Railroad in the merged company, and the granting of trackage rights to the Delaware & Hudson Railroad to provide a link with the Norfolk & Western.

Two railroads that sought inclusion in the merger were turned down by the examiners — the Delaware & Hudson and the Boston & Maine. But the recommendation calls for con-

Two Klan Leaders Ask Meeting With LBJ About Bigots

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two Ku Klux Klan leaders have asked for a face-to-face meeting with President Johnson following his denunciation of the organization as "hooded bigots."

There was no immediate comment from the President. A White House spokesman said the request made in a telegram sent by Georgia Grand Dragon Calvin F. Craig and Imperial Wizard Robert M. Shelton Jr. had been received and routinely referred to Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach.

Johnson attacked the Klan Friday when he announced the arrest of four Alabama members in the night-rider slaying of Viola Gregg Liuzzo, 39, of Detroit, a white civil rights worker. She was shot on a lonely stretch of highway near Selma.

The President called for a congressional investigation and warned klansmen to quit and "return to a decent society — before it is too late."

Declared Johnson: "We will not be intimidated by the terrorists of the Ku Klux Klan any more than by the terrorists of the Viet Cong."

The Klan leaders said, however, they hoped to talk with the President about more than just that criticism.

School Board Nominations End April 14

Candidates for membership on the Kingston Board of Education were reminded today that the last day for the filing of their nominating petitions is Wednesday, April 14, at 5 p. m.

In compliance with the Education Law candidates for membership on the Board of Education must submit petitions signed by at least 100 persons who are qualified to vote at the school election in the consolidated district to be held on Tuesday, May 4, 1965. The clerk of the Board of Education is required by law to refuse to accept petitions signed by an insufficient number of qualified voters, or petitions which are not timely. The office of the clerk of the Kingston Board of Education, Consolidated, is in the office of the Superintendent of Schools at 67 Wall Street.

Following the presentation of nominating peitions the Clerk of the Board of Education will have official ballots printed containing the names of all the candidates who have been properly nominated by petition. The names of the candidates will be arranged alphabetically on the ballot according to their surname. Blank space will also be provided so that voters may vote for candidates who have not been nominated for membership on the Board of Education.

German Ship Sinks

Old Thompson Plant, Millens Office Burn

A two - alarm fire of suspected origin damaged buildings at the former Thompson processing plant, 122 Hunter Street, Sunday night and an earlier blaze swept through an office area of the B. Millens & Son junkyard property at 290 East Strand.

Firemen fought the Hunter Street fire for some two hours and used nine hose lines.

It was noted that fire had apparently started in four separate areas of the complex of buildings involved, and police were notified. No esimate of fire loss was available.

Involved were a three-story main brick building, a two-story, brick garage, another two-story, brick unit consisting of three smoke houses, a one-story brick office and storage room, and a one-story, frame shed.

Join Main Buildings

All of the unoccupied structures are joined at the rear of the main building.

A first alarm from Box 3231, German and Ravine Streets at 7:44 p. m., was followed by another at 7:50 p. m. The first mobilized units from Central and Cornell stations, Wicks, Cordts, Union and Rapid companies, Units from Wiltwyck Station, Excelsior and Wiltwyck volunteers answered the second. Chief James M. Brett, and Deputy Chief Julius E. Buchholtz were in charge.

The property is owned by Frank W. Thompson Jr., of 109 Fair Street. It had been operated for many years as a meat processing plant.

Suspect Heater

An afternoon blaze, which damaged the Millens building, firemen said, could have been caused by a space heater.

It started in a first-floor office, damaged it and equipment, spread to a storage area, wash room, and burned through flooring to the cellar. Floor and ceiling areas were cut through to get at the blaze.

Seven Are Hurt In Three Separate Highway Mishaps

Seven persons were injured and a motorist was cited for a traffic violation as the result of three separate highway accidents investigated by Highland State Police on Sunday.

Vincent Burns Jr., 19, of 167 Bayard Street, Port Ewen, was summoned by State Trooper Wallace Mahan on a charge of driving at a speed not reasonable or prudent.

Proceeding North

Sergeant D. J. Suttlehan said Burns was driving north on Route 213 south of Kingston, when the vehicle went off the highway, glanced off a utility pole and continued down an embankment. Burns sustained lacerations of the mouth. A passenger, William Blair, 20, of 124 Smith Avenue, this city, received bruises of the right wrist.

The injured were treated at Benedictine Hospital. Burns will appear later before Justice of the Peace Allan Dargie on the motor vehicle charge. The mishap occurred at 12:10 a. m. yesterday.

Three persons were treated at Kingston Hospital for injuries sustained in a traffic accident which occurred on Route 32 about three and a half miles north of the Village of New Paltz.

Trooper Mahan reported a car

Ulster College Seeks Additional Work Study Fund

Officials at Ulster County Community College announced today that an application had been submitted for funds under the College Work Study Program of the Economic Opportunity Act to support a considerably expanded Work Study Program for the next academic year.

The pdovisions of the Public Law make it possible for public and private non-profit agencies to cooperate in the Work Study Program by serving as sources of appropriate employment. The funds which are being sought for next year, if granted in the requested amount of approximately $180,000 will enable the college to assign students to approved positions with the following agencies:

Extension Service, Jewish Community Council, Kingston Boys' Club, Kingston City schools, Kingston Engineering Department, Kingston Laboratory, Kingston Library, Kingston Recreation Department, New Paltz schools, Public Works Department, Rondout Central school, Saugerties schools, Shawangunk schools, Ulster Board of Cooperative Educational Services, Ulster County Planning Board, YWCA, YMCA.

Work in Harmony

Each of the foregoing organizations have worked closely with Robert Sharpe, coordinator of the Work Study Program at Ulster County Community College, in describing the positions which could be covered by this program and in developing operating principles for the entire project. Within the provisions of the law a student can work up to or a maximum of 15 hours per week while classes are in session, or 40 hours a week during vacation periods or summer periods. The work with off-campus organizations is to be related to the student's educational objective or to be in the public interest and be work which would not otherwise be provided.

Basic Objectives

The basic objective of the Work Study Program under the Economic Opportunity Act of 1964 (Public Law 88-452) is to enable more qualified students from low income families to attend college without the necessity of incurring an unduly heavy burden of indebtedness which would seriously handicap them in their future careers.

Robert Sharpe, coordinator of the Work Study Progran at the College, and Donald Crout, admissions officer at the College, are working closely with school officials and guidance personnel

400 Attend Kennedy School Dedication, Tour Building

More than 400 persons attended the formal dedication of the John F. Kennedy Elementary School Sunday afternoon.

The school, on Gross Street, opened last September. Guests had an opportunity Sunday to tour the 22 classrooms, two-station gymnasium, auditorium, library and other facilities.

The program opened with a prologue by the school ensemble, Miss Martha A. Eddy, director. Donald E. Sweeney principal was master of ceremonies.

Invocation was given by the Rev. Edward I. Farrelly of St. Mary's Church. Benediction by the Rev. John H. Gilmore of Riverview Baptist Church and reading by Rabbi Harry Z. Schectman of Congregation Ahavath Israel.

Welcome was extended by Lt. Col. Frank Fabbie, president of the JFK Parent-Teachers Association. Formal presentation of the new school was made by Harry Halverson, architect with David Kline, president of the Kingston Consolidated School District board of education, making the acceptance speech.

Also participating were Dr. W. Wendell Hoover, superintendent of schools and Arthur H. Withall, vice president of the board of education.

Presentations were made by Albert O. Sonneberg, Commander of Kingston Post 150, American Legion and Lester L. Lawrence, president of the Kingston Teachers Association. The Legion gift was a portrait of John F. Kennedy and KTA gave a library of Kennedy books. The P-TA presented a bust of the late president.

Pupils made formal presentation of a flag which once flew over the nation's capitol building in Washington, D. C., obtained through Representative Hugh L. Carey of New York City. The flag is being flown over the school for the first time today and will be used on all national holidays and special occasions in the future.

Vincent Burns Jr., 19, of 167 Bayard Street, Port Ewen, was summoned by State Trooper Wallace Mahan on a charge of driving at a speed not reasonable or prudent.

Proceeding North

Sergeant D. J. Suttlehan said Burns was driving north on Route 213 south of Kingston, when the vehicle went off the highway, glanced off a utility pole and continued down an embankment. Burns sustained lacerations of the mouth. A passenger, William Blair, 20, of 124 Smith Avenue, this city, received bruises of the right wrist.

The injured were treated at Benedictine Hospital. Burns will appear later before Justice of the Peace Allan Dargie on the motor vehicle charge. The mishap occurred at 12:10 a. m. yesterday.

Three persons were treated at Kingston Hospital for injuries sustained in a traffic accident which occurred on Route 32 about three and a half miles north of the Village of New Paltz.

Trooper Mahan reported a car

Ulster College Seeks Additional Work Study Fund

Officials at Ulster County Community College announced today that an application had been submitted for funds under the College Work Study Program of the Economic Opportunity Act to support a considerably expanded Work Study Program for the next academic year.

The pdovisions of the Pubile Law make it possible for public and private non-profit agencies to cooperate in the Work Study Program by serving as sources of appropriate employment. The funds which are being sought for next year, if granted in the requested amount of approximately $180,000 will enable the college to assign students to approved positions with the following agencies:

Extension Service, Jewish Community Council, Kingston Boys' Club, Kingston City schools, Kingston Engineering Department, Kingston Laboratory, Kingston Library, Kingston Recreation Department, New Paltz schools, Public Works Department, Rondout Central school, Saugerties schools, Shawangunk schools, Ulster Board of Cooperative Educational Services, Ulster County Planning Board, YWCA, YMCA.

Work in Harmony

Each of the foregoing organizations have worked closely with Robert Sharpe, coordinator of the Work Study Program at Ulster County Community College, in describing the positions which could be covered by this program and in developing operating principles for the entire project. Within the provisions of the law a student can work up to or a maximum of 15 hours per week while classes are in session, or 40 hours a week during vacation periods or summer periods. The work with off-campus organizations is to be related to the student's educational objective or to be in the public interest and be work which would not otherwise be provided.

Basic Objecti s

The basic objective of the Work Study Program under the Economic Opportunity Act of 1964 (Public Law 88-452) is to enable more qualified students from low income families to attend college without the necessity of incurring an unduly heavy burden of indebtedness which would seriously handicap them in their future careers.

Robert Sharpe, coordinator of the Work Study Progran at the College, and Donald Crout, admissions officer at the College, are working closely with school officials and guidance personnel

400 Attend Kennedy School Dedication, Tour Building

More than 400 persons attended the formal dedication of the John F. Kennedy Elementary School Sunday afternoon.

The school, on Gross Street, opened last September. Guests had an opportunity Sunday to tour the 22 classrooms, two-station gymnasium, auditorium, library and other facilities.

The program opened with a prologue by the school ensemble, Miss Martha A. Eddy, director. Donald E. Sweeney principal was master of ceremonies.

Invocation was given by the Rev. Edward I. Farrelly of St. Mary's Church. Benediction by the Rev. John H. Gilmore of Riverview Baptist Church and reading by Rabbi Harry Z. Schectman of Congregation Ahavath Israel.

Welcome was extended by Lt. Col. Frank Fabbie, president of the JFK Parent-Teachers Association. Formal presentation of the new school was made by Harry Halverson, architect with David Kline, president of the Kingston Consolidated School District board of education, making the acceptance speech.

Also participating were Dr. W. Wendell Hoover, superintendent of schools and Arthur H. Withall, vice president of the board of education.

Presentations were made by Albert O. Sonneberg, Commander of Kingston Post 150, American Legion and Lester L. Lawrence, president of the Kingston Teachers Association. The Legion gift was a portrait of John F. Kennedy and KTA gave a library of Kennedy books. The P-TA presented a bust of the late president.

Pupils made formal presentation of a flag which once flew over the nation's capitol building in Washington, D. C., obtained through Representative Hugh L. Carey of New York City. The flag is being flown over the school for the first time today and will be used on all national holidays and special occasions in the future.

Classified Want Ad Week Will Be Held April 5-10

Newspapers throughout the country will turn the spotlight on Classified Advertising during International Classified Want Ad Week, April 5-10.

The Kingston Daily Freeman, in cooperating with this promotion is offering its readers a Classified Want Ad Week special of six want ads for the price of three. Here is an opportunity to get an extra saving on the price of a want ad and chance to either sell or buy various types of articles.

Classified Advertising is printed lines serving people from all walks of life. It finds the castle for the newlyweds and a home for the aged. The ad finds a business for the giant industry and a little shop for a widow's livelihood. It recovers the lost pets of weeping children and restores lost persons to anxious friends and relatives.

The Want Ad also sings the praises of artisans, proclaims the skill of craftsmen, finds labor for the man of muscle as well as opportunity for trained and active minds.

Classified Ads are an index of friends, a barometer of commerce and a forecaster of coming events. No other medium, no other method, plan or scheme can duplicate its pure speed of action or assurance of success. In multiple, the Classified Ad is the world's greatest market of service and things. It can do anything for anyone at any time.

To take advantage of The Freeman offer during the week's celebration an ad must be started on Monday, April 5. If the ad starts Tuesday, the Classified Want Ad Week Special will be five times for the price of three.

Ads may be placed with either the uptown or downtown offices of The Freeman.

Experienced ad-takers will be waiting to be of service.

For your convenience both the uptown and downtown offices will be open from 8:30 a. m. to 3:30 p. m. Saturday, April 3. Normally, the Classified Department is closed on Saturdays.

Deadline for ads starting Monday, April 5 is 9 a. m.

Slate Hearings Apr. 5 on Buses, Billboard Laws

A public hearing will be held Monday, April 5 at 8 p. m., prior to the regular meeting of Saugerties Village Board of Trustees on the enactment of two ordinances, one regulating the use of village streets and highways by omnibuses, the other regulating the placing of billboards within the village limits.

The omnibus ordinance would limit to one hour the parking or stopping of an omnibus or vehicle with a seating capacity of more than 12 persons on a village street.

Also, no similar vehicle shall use the village streets as a terminal for receiving or discharging passengers without the express permission, consent or by franchise from the Public Service Commission, or previous consent by the village.

The village also reserves the right to further limit the parking privileges on certain streets of these vehicles.

The penalty for violations is fixed at $20 and costs in the proposed ordinance. The new ordinance would also subjucate and amend the previous ordinance regulating omnibuses.

The proposed billboard ordinance would limit the size of billboards erected in the village to six feet in height and six feet in width, except if special permission is granted by the Board of Trustees, or written consent is provided by the owner or owners of all properties located within a distance of 200 feet from the proposed billboard site.

The penalty for violations is $50 for each violation and constitutes disorderly conduct.

All persons concerned with the adoption of these two ordinances will be heard by the Village Board.

Beautification Is Gardens Group Project of Year

Beautification of the village was discussed as the project of the year at last week's meeting of Saugerties Society of Little Gardens held at the home of Mrs. David Jones. The meeting was conducted by Mrs. Norman Boliner, president. It was announced that Mrs. Richard Klicks was the new Ulster County Chairman of the Third District.

Conservation Chairman Mrs. Gordon Keeley brought an article on Conservation of the Hudson River to the group's attention and announced that the theme of National Wildlife Week this year was "Fight Dirty Water."

The club's project for the year of beautification of the village was discussed. Various eyesores around the village and town were noted with various methods suggested for cleaning them up. The plantings for the Chamber of Commerce village entrance signs were also discussed.

Mrs. Donald Becke program chairman, announced that a flower arranging workshop would be held on May 12. Reservations are now being accepted. This program will be from 10 until 3 and will be conducted by Mrs. Lambert D. LeMaire. It should be an interesting program and it is hoped that many members will attend.

A change was announced for the next meeting on April 14. It will be held in the basement of the Dutch Reformed Church. Mrs. Ruth Reynolds Glunt will present the program.

Timely Topics was given by Mrs. William Wadele. She told of the use of Vermiculite in starting seeds and cuttings now for spring planting. Each member received a bag of vermiculite.

It was mentioned that tulips should receive heavy watering with a soaker before the blooms appear and that the amount of feeding determines the size of the blooms.

Miss Jane Ziegler presented the program. She gave a paper entitled, Improving Our Gardens With Mulches.

Some important points made for using mulches were the elimination of weeding, holding moisture in the ground, improvement of the soil and eliminating the need to cultivate too often. Some of the mulches mentioned were sawdust, leaf mulch, peat moss, buckwheat hulls, ground corn cobs, and pine needles.

Saxton Auxiliary Activities Listed

A bus trip to New York City, a card party social, and plans for the annual banquet were outlined at last week's meeting of Saxton Fire Company Auxiliary held at the fire hall.

Mrs. Jean Pirtazky, presided at the session with 23 members attending.

Mrs. Ethel Joers presented a report on the meeting of the Citizens for Decent Literature committee.

The bus trip to New York City will be held on Saturday, May 1, leaving Saugerties bus terminal at 8 a. m. and leaving New York on the return trip at 9 p. m. Reservations may be made with Mrs. John Lasher Sr.

A card party and social will be held at the firehouse Saturday, May 8. Mrs. Hilda Valk will be chairman. An award will be presented to everyone and refreshments will be served. The public is welcome.

The annual banquet will be held Wednesday, June 9 at a place to be announced. The special award of the evening was presented to Mrs. Jessie Ethridge.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Scherrell Morton, Mrs. Doris Valk and Mrs. Hilda Valk.

Methodist Notes

Activities this week at Saugerties Methodist Church were announced by the Rev. Joseph Rainear, pastor.

Wednesday, a cafeteria supper will be served 5:30 to 6:30 p.m., sponsored by the WSCS. The menu will include barbecued beef on bun, hot dogs, beans, escalloped potatoes. All the proceeds will be sent to the Rev. Alfredo Cotto-Thorner for his mission work at the South 3rd St. Methodist Church in Brooklyn.

Thursday, 10 a.m., the pastor will attend a district educational staff meeting at Phoenicia. Plans will be discussed for district and sub-distirct workers in the field or children, youth, young adult, family and camping program. At 7:30 p.m. the final session on the study of Genesis will be held at the parsonage.

Four Are Arrested For Operation Plan

DUNKIRK, N.Y. (AP)—Four women and a man have been charged with conspiracy to perform an illegal operation on a teen-age girl, state and city police report.

They were arrested Saturday night at a residence here that police said had been under 24-hour surveillance for three days.

The operation was not performed on the 15-year-old girl, who police declined to identify. Police said, however, the girl had expected to pay for the illegal operation.

Those arrested were:

Mrs. Marian Pearl Pollice, 54, of Hamilton, Ont.; her 38-year-old son, Albert E. Frewin, also of Hamilton; Mrs. Norma May Fox, 28, of Fredonia; Mrs. Jean A. Schwrtfager, 20, and Mrs. Veronia R. Lindermuth, 28, both of Dunkirk.

Mrs. Pollice was scheduled to perform the operation, police said.

To Increase Speed

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Speed limits on sections of the Northway and North-South Expressway will be increased from 60 to 65 miles an hour Thursday.

The Northway, Interstate Route 87, connects with the State Thruway at Albany and extends north to the Canadian border, near Champlain. About 90 miles will permit the 65 limit.

The North-South highway, Interstate Route 81, will have the 65 limit on 68 miles between Syracuse and the Watertown area.

HONORED FOR WORK AS AUTHOR—Frederick C. Myers, (left) son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Myers of RD 1, Saugerties, was honored recently by the U. S. Army Engineer Geodesy, Intelligence and Mapping Research and Development Agency (GIMRADA), Fort Belvoir, Va., for his work as an author. He is seen here being congratulated by Col. Lloyd L. Rall, director, who presented him with two Special Act and Service Awards. He received $125 for authoring a paper, "The Use of Conventional Contact Screens for Reproducing Half-tones Directly on Zinc Oxide-Resin Coated Lithographic Plates," which was published in the Proceedings of the 7th International Conference of Printing Research Institutes held in London. He also received an award of $37.50 as co-author of an article, "Electrophotographic Paper Requirements for Multicolor Electrostatic Printing," published in a recent issue of TAPPI. A graduate of Saugerties High School, Myers attended Alfred Unifersity where he received a BS Degree in ceramics engineering in 1950. He served in the Army from 1950 to 1952, taking a position at Fort Belvoir following his release from active Army duty. He resides with his wife, the former Mrs. Barbara J. Teetsell of RD 1, Saugerties, and their son, Grant F., at 310 Adrienne Drive, Alexandria, Va. His wife's parents, Mr .and Mrs. Harold F. Teetsell, reside at RD 1, Saugerties. (U. S. Army photo)

Death of College Chef Is Probed

Dutchess County authorities today continued investigation of the death of 60-year-old Francis Joseph Dougherty, a Bennett College, South Millbrook, chef, who died in his apartment on Saturday.

District Attorney Raymond C. Baratta said a post-morten performed at Vassar Hospital and "certain types of bruises found on the body warrant further investigation." The prosecutor added, "the question is whether the markings may be part of the cause of death."

Baratta and an assistant, Peter L. Maroulis, went to the hospital Saturday after the post mortem was conducted. He noted that State Police at Dover Plains are "questioning people."

Troopers said Dougherty arose at about 4 a.m. Saturday to go to the bathroom and fell. His wife, Henrietta, 46, also a Bennett College employe, summoned a physician who pronounced the man dead.

Dr. Michael Badeen, Millerton, assistant county medical examiner, reported a decision as to the cause of death was being withheld pending completion of the investigation.

State Police Lieut. Samuel Crodelle is in charge of the investigation.

Largest redwood tree ever measured was 364 feet tall and had a maximum diameter of 18 feet, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Maple-Sugar Prospects

UTICA, N.Y. (AP)—Prospects for a sweet maple-sugar season in New York State are not too sweet, but a program is under way to make future years sweeter.

The goal of the two-year program is to select the parents of the sugar maple of the future—a tree that will yield a gallon of sugar per tap hole, instead of today's quart.

The new tree is to be developed through selective breed-

Charged With Assault

Louis Terpening, 27, of Union Center Road, town of Esopus, was arrested by Deputy Sheriffs Daniel Levy and Vincent Van Demark Sunday on a charge of third degree assault. The complainant was Mary Terpening of same address who swore out a warrant before Justice of the Peace Allan Dargie of town of Esopus. The case was adjourned to March 30 at 6 p. m. before Justice Dargie and cash bail in the sum of $25 was posted.

32 Cities Report Damage Of $3.7 Million to Schools

BY G. K. HODENFIELD
AP Education Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The unofficial "vandalism season" begins this week, an April-through-November period highlighted by the smashing of school windows.

The malicious destruction of school property costs local taxpayers millions of dollars a year.

The toll in New York City for the 1963-64 school year was $1,254,989. In Chicago it was $883,025. In Boston it was $189,700.

On another basis, says the report of a national survey by the Baltimore, Md., public schools, the nation's worst record may be in Richmond, Va.

However, this may reflect more on the thoroughness of some of the reports than on Virginia's capital.

Richmond reported vandalism damage of $122,668, less than one-tenth of New York's, but it represents a cost of $2.70 for each pupil enrolled.

Other per-pupil costs were $1.20 in New York City, $1.61 in Chicago and $2 in Boston.

At the other end of the scale, Omaha, Neb., and El Paso, Tex., reported a per-pupil cost of vandalism of only three cents. The total dollar-cost of vandalism was reported as $1,750 in Omaha, and $1,520 in El Paso.

However, 83 per cent of Richmond's reported toll was due to arson. There was damage of slightly more than $100,000 to one school alone, all of which was recovered by insurance.

The balance of the loss in Richmond came from larcenies and window breakage. Neither El Paso or Omaha reported any larcenies and Omaha, in fact, said all it's $1,750 damage was in window breakage.

On the other hand, Atlanta, Ga., reported a $17,266 loss from arson, but nothing for window breakage or any other reason.

Whatever the thoroughness of the reports, the 32 cities responding to the questionnaire reported vandalism damage of $3.7 million, of which $2.5 million was in broken windows.

A separate report issued by the Boston public schools put the cost of vandalism in these terms:

The million dollars spent in the past eight years could have paid for the beautiful John F. Kennedy School, completely furnished and ready for occupancy.

"The structure has 19 classrooms, two kindergartens, woodworking shop, sewing room, assembly hall, gymnasium, playroom, medical and dental rooms, and office and conference rooms."

The Boston report listed vandalism damage in the city at $160,000 last year — compared with the Baltimore report of $189,700 — and said that "could have paid for any one of such items as 160,000 elementary workbooks, 53,000 textbooks, 400 sound projectors, 525 educational television sets, or 1,230 tape recorders."

Hard to Solve

The Boston survey also said: "As a general rule, damage to school property occurs when schools are not in session."

Educational programs might be helpful, but some officials hesitate "for fear of inciting even greater and more frequent assaults on the schools."

Raccoon Refuges Send Petition To Commissioner

Raccoon Refuges-at-Large, an anonymous Woodstock-based organization, has submitted a petition to Conservation Commissioner Harold G. Wilm, protesting what the group feels are too stringent hunting regulations against the raccoon.

Sponsors of the petition announced that more than 200 persons in Ulster county have signed.

The petition asks that the raccoon be removed from the so-called "pest list" and requests modification of the current hunting laws which places a year-round open no-limit season on raccoons which can be hunted day and night.

Copies of the petition and the certified list of signatures will also be forwarded to Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick, State Senator Owen M. Begley, chairman of the joint legislative committee on conservation; Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson, Robert E. Young, president of the New York State Conservation Council; Gov. Rockefeller, Assemblyman Charles F. Stackmeister, Albany Chairman of the Assembly conservation committee; and Cole M. Rowan, Director of Humane Work, ASPCA, New York.

Charge Scapegoat

Signatures were collected by Marguerite Evans Isaacs, Lynn Evans Isaacs, Tobie Geertsema, and Robert Reynolds of Woodstock; the Rev. Adelmer R. Bryon of Shady and Mrs. Arthur Dinkel of Saugerties.

The petition charges that the raccoon is now being used as a "symbolic scapegoat" for a number of smaller animals that actually do what the raccoon is now being exterminated for. The petition lists these animals as porcupines, woodchucks, opossums, squirrels, muskrats and beavers.

Raccoons do not chew or destroy trees, the petition says, they only live in them. Or rather they did before industrialization and its swarms of employes moved in and robbed them of their cover and habitat. Raccoons do not rob chicken coops as often as do dogs, cats, skunks, foxes, opossums and bobcats. Skunks, dogs and cats do as much as, even more, than raccoons in their pillage of the household's unprotected garbage containers.

The petition asks legislation to protect the raccoon lest it suffer the same fate as the condors and golden eagles who now face extinction.

Bucci Purchases Rick's Parlor

Rick's Ice Cream Parlor and Luncheonette on Mill Hill Road is under new management. The new owners and operators are Mr. and Mrs. Martin Bucci of Dixon Avenue in Bearsville, who recently purchased the business.

The name of Rick's will be retained for the present, but the menu will now stress home-cooked Italian food, with a full line of Italian plates to be featured.

The Bucci's came to Woodstock about three years ago from Port Chester ostensibly to retire. However, they emerged from their brief retirement last summer to manage the snack bar at Joe Holdridge's Swim-O-Links.

George Klippel of Woodstock will be associated with them in the new enterprise.

Longer Season For Local Art

The Woodstock Artist Association is doing the unusual by lengthening the Art Season through an early start, the first exhibition being Easter Week, April 10-25 at the Woodstock Art Gallery. The artists having been busy through the winter months now have an opportunity to show their new creations and everyone will get a preview. Many of the artists are using new types of paint, new approaches and other types of media to create affects. Some are experimental and are well worth studying. In this changing civilization of ours, art methods and art thinking are also changing.

This Easter exhibition is a special accommodation for the resident artist as well as those who are opening their summer studios. There is no restriction as to style, medium or size. Each may show two works, two dimensional or in the round.

Another innovation is that the opening is held in the morning, a breakfast opening, 10-12, Saturday April 10th. Mrs. Reginald Wilson is in charge. Be sure to come but don't expect ham and eggs, just coffee and . . . .

Henri Canvases In New Display

Four new Robert Henri canvases, never before exhibited, are among the acquisitions announced by the Chapellier Gallery of New York City. The Gallery holds rights to the estate of the Woodstock pioneer.

The gallery has also announced acquisition of works by Maurice Prendergast, Ernest Lawson, William Merritt Chase, George Inness, James Hart and William Hart.

The 100th anniversary of Robert Henri's birth is being observed at the Chapellier in an exhibit entitled, "Robert Henri and His Friends" through April 10.

More than 15 never-before exhibited paintings by Henri and other members of the famous "Eight" are on display.

Publishing New OCS Newspaper

The Warrior, a monthly newspaper written and published by Junior High students at Onteora Central, has come out with its first issue. The paper is designed to give 7th and 8th graders a basis for journalism. It also gives the students an opportunity to express themselves and impart a feeling of belonging to a part of the school.

All junior high students are eligible to write for the paper and they are headed by an editorial staff of eight members.

This staff consists of: Editor-in-Chief Esther Normann, Laura Nuchow; feature editors, Dale Nelson and Jessie Wolf; sports editors, Brenda Scarth and Ralph Crotty; production editor, Mary Rickard; illustration editor, Arlene Reffelt. The faculty advisor is Waldron Post.

Miss Janice Humphrey has initiated a junior high school dramatics program. The group includes approximately 20 students who have shown interest in dramatics. The meetings held so far have been devoted to play readings and acting exercises.

When sufficient elementary training has been completed, two projects will be undertaken—the typing of a radio script for use in English classes and a one-act production in the Little Theatre.

"Charlie" Rescheduled

Because of bad weather and an unforeseen emergency, the Woodstock Performing Arts did not meet as scheduled. The play-reading group is now scheduled to discuss Negro playwright James Baldwin's "Blues for Charlie" with Mrs. Gloria Smith directing, at the Woodstock Artists Association, Tuesday, April 6, at 8 p. m.

This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form under the name Preparation H®. At all drug counters.

Family Album Low Key, But Proves Effective

Viet Cong Seeking Allegiance By Demonstrating Homey Touch

By EDWIN Q. WHITE

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Pressing a campaign to win the allegiance of the people in the Vietnamese countryside, the Viet Cong are demonstrating a homey touch.

Known for their ability to live, work and fight on a people-to-people level, the Communist guerrillas appear to believe they have found in the family photo album the anser to the West's four-color propaganda brochures.

Recent secret material obtained through Vietnamese intelligence sources included albums containing pictures of family groups, sweethearts, religious meetings, funerals and political and military gatherings.

They were taken from Viet Cong prisoners and bodies and show clearly the degree of organization that has been achieved by the Viet Cong in some areas.

One of the themes played up in the pictures apparently as designed to support the claim that there is religious freedom under Communist regimes.

Many of the pictures in one album were of a religious meeting in "Phuoc Long district." This district is believed to correspond roughly to South Viet Nam's official Phuoc Long Province. About 80 miles north of Saigon, it includes the region known as "D" zone, where the Viet Cong have found a haven for years.

Banners in the pictures proclaimed the gathering as a "religion meeting of the Free Front of National Liberation of Viet Nam." The liberation front is what the Viet Cong calls their movement.

Shown in one picture were two men in the yellow robes of Buddhist monks. They were sitting cross-legged on the floor with cups of tea in front of them.

Another picture showed a man apparently representing the Cao Dai, one of Viet Nam's religious groups, who was addressing the meeting.

Other pictures were of an apparent political meeting in a tent-like structure, where Viet Cong flags and banners were displayed. Speakers were shown addressing the audience over microphones, while members of the crowd raised clenched fists in an expression of voting.

Some of Martial Nature

Other pictures were of a more martial nature. One showed a group of well-equipped troops marching with the Viet Cong flag flying.

In many of the pictures, the subjects wore the black, pajama-type blouse and pants long associated with the Communist guerrillas. But the marching soldiers were in trim, khaki uniforms.

One thing they seemed to lack, either by choice or by circumstance, was footwear. All the parading troops were barefoot.

Informants said the photo albums undoubtedly were used by the Viet Cong to show on a personal level what they claim is their way of life. It is believed the albums are passed from hand to hand as guerrilla leaders work among the dwellers of South Viet Nam's hamlets and villages.

The campaign is low key, but people who follow such work closely believe it is effective.

CHILDREN ARE WAITING

There are many worthy organizations working for the health and welfare of children that ask and receive our support. We are a compassionate people and even the most unsentimental of us cannot bear to think of children who are waiting for help that does not come.

But how many of us stop to think that when the local Cancer Crusade volunteer worker asks us this April to help conquer cancer with a checkup and a check that our contribution will help thousands of children with cancer?

The tragic fact is that cancer is the leading cause of death from disease among school children. Authorities estimate that in 1965 that more than 5,000 young lives will be lost to cancer.

The greatest single weapon we have against cancer in both children and adults is the constant vigilance of the informed individual. Tens of thousands of Americans are alive today because they recognized the danger signals of cancer and received prompt treatment.

During Crusade against Cancer month, the Ulster County Unit of the American Cancer Society willl conduct a special educational program to make parents aware of the danger of cancer in children. So often this disease begins with some seemingly trivial ailment that is ignored until it is too late.

Parents are urged to know the danger signals of childhood cancer and to consult a doctor if any of the symptoms appear. Prompt action means real hope of a complete cure.

There is as yet no cure or preventive for leukemia, cancer of the blood-forming tissues, which takes the lives of about half of the children who are cancer victims. But, there is growing optimism that leukemia may be the first cancer to be permanently controlled. The American Cancer Society is currently spending over $2 million a year on leukemia-related research alone.

We all wait eagerly for each medical advance that means new hope in our common struggle to cure cancer. Among us are thousands of children—many too young to read these words—who are victims of cancer.

This is worth keeping in mind when volunteer workers of the Ulster County Unit ask you to contribute to the Crusade. This year's goal is $27,500.

When you are asked to support the Cancer Crusade, please remember the children are waiting.

EASY, CONVENIENT DEBT

One of the oddities of current economics is that at the height of the nation's longest peacetime boom more Americans are losing their homes through foreclosure than at any time since 1939.

How can this be?

No mystery, say the economists. Rising pay and easier mortgage credit have induced home buyers to take a deeper, dizzier plunge into the cool, inviting waters of easy, convenient debt and practically perpetual monthly payments.

Then comes the dawn, and many a harassed homesteader discovers that fringe discomforts such as taxes, insurance and maintenance—plus the status urge of "we really need this" and "we just HAVE to have this"—add up to more than the rosy pre-purchase planning had indicated. So. . .

Last year home foreclosures in the United States zoomed past the 100,000 mark for the first time since before World War II. And the foreclosure rate has doubled in the last five years!

It's wonderful, of course, to own a home. But it's even more wonderful to own it with pleasure instead of worry, and to be able to keep on owning it until it is actually owned.

The prudent family will buy—and live—accordingly.

THE AMAZING LASER

There seems to be no end to the things the amazing laser can do, from delicate eye surgery to flashing messages to the moon.

Now another possible use has been suggested by Arthur Schawlow of Stanford University, co-inventor of the method for producing an intense beam of light. He has discovered that the laser will erase typewriter mistakes. The light actually vaporizes the ink without harming the paper.

Conceivably, a laser key could be built right into a typewriter. "All it requires," says Schawlow, "is some engineering to bring down the cost."

A laser eraser may not be the boon to mankind that some of the other laser appliances are, but 20 million struggling stenos wouldn't turn it down.

Space tumbler Leonov says he "knew I wouldn't see anyone I knew out there." There was a chance, though, considering the far-out orbit Khrushchev's been in lately.

THE REWARDS OF COURAGE

The Nervous Nellies we have always with us. But recent events have rebuked them: when various nations of the West have stood up for what used to be called civilization against Communists and the more berserk type of "anti-colonial" nationalists, the dire prophecies of calamity have failed to materialize.

Thus Indonesia's Sukarno—remember?—was going to drive his neighboring state of Malaysia to the wall by New Year's Day of 1965. But the Labor government of Harold Wilson, tacitly disavowing its own pacifist Left Wing supporters, sent 50,000 British troops to Singapore, and the thunders of Sukarno have since been dissipated on the empty air.

In the Congo, when Tshombe defended himself against the Red-backed rebel simbas by employing a force of so-called mercenaries (as if the other side wasn't supported by cash outlays, too), it was freely predicted that this would turn the whole of Africa against the legitimate Congolese government. Tshombe was run out of a Cairo meeting, but instead of sulking he went home in prideful defiance. By skillful exploitation of his bold underdog stance Tshombe finally managed to split the ranks of the potential opposition. Egypt, Algeria, Kenya, Ghana, and the Brazzaville Congo are still against him, but not such states as Nigeria. It now looks as though Tshombe would come out on top in the election scheduled in the Congo. What is of particular interest to Americans who feared that we would let Tshombe down is that Lyndon Johnson seems to be listening to Senator Tom Dodd, who has all along contended that Tshombe is the most able statesman in Africa, and Ben Bella, Nasser, and Nkrumah are now dissipating their thunder on the empty air.

Then there were the threats that if West Germany were to befriend Israel the Arab states would make the Bonn government extremely sorry for its actions. For a moment the Arab blackmail seemed to be working. To keep the Egyptians from recognizing the Soviet puppet state of East Germany, West Germany Chancellor Erhard cancelled the last twenty per cent of an $80 million worth of weapons that had been promised to Israel. But the Egyptians went ahead and entertained East Germany's Ulbricht anyway. Deciding that acquiescence to blackmailers didn't pay, the West Germans turned around and recognized the Israeli government.

Nasser fumed, but he has not yet been able to deliver on his threats of a united Arab front against the West Germans. Tunisia, Libya, Morocco, and Lebanon have shown no desire to break with Bonn. Nasser could grab West German assets inside Egypt, but otherwise his thunder seems to be dissipating on the empty air.

Finally, there were the predictions that calamity would ensue if the U.S. were to carry the fight in Southeast Asia into North Vietnam and the Communist-dominated areas of Laos. The academic defeatists belonging to a score of university faculties rushed to put their names to petitions urging Lyndon Johnson to "negotiate" a withdrawal of U.S. forces from South Vietnam. A faculty group at the University of Michigan even threatened to cancel classes in protest against the step-up of U.S. help to the South Vietnamese cause. But "escalation" of the war in Southeast Asia was not followed by calamity. The Red Chinese haven't moved into North Vietnam, nor are they likely to as long as Chiang Kai-shek's 800,000 troops sit on Mao Tse-tung's flank in Taiwan. If the Red Chinese were to "counter-escalate" the Vietnamese war by sending their own forces directly against ours, they would risk the destruction of their new atomic installations.

The bold course, then, has paid off in every recent instance. No doubt the West will be put to further tests, but it need not fear the issue if it stands firm for the power of its traditional ideals.

THE WELL CHILD

Keep Children Occupied During Summer Months

If you keep your child home all summer, plan to keep him occupied. This does not mean letting him sit in front of the TV several hours a day. If there are friends his own age in the neighborhood, you won't have much of a problem. Otherwise summer school, even though he grumbles about it, may be a good idea.

For the chlid ahead of his class many summer schools now have stimulating programs to bring out hidden talents. And for the child who has a hard time keeping up with his class, remedial summer school should give him a chance to catch up and to get a better foundation for the school year ahead.

The other possibility is a summer, or a part of it, away from home. This may take the form of summer camp, a trip to his grandparents' home or an exchange visit for a week or two with an out-of-town friend.

If you plan to send your child to a camp for the first time, you should investigate the camp's health and safety provisions. If possible, talk with the camp director or one of the counselors. If swiming is featured, make sure qualified instructors and life guards are assigned to the waterfront.

All children are homesick the first few days at camp. This is because they are placed in unaccustomed surroundings with strangers. The homesickness is worse when there is no planned activity, but how long it lasts depends on how fast your child makes new friends.

An only child who has spent most of his life with adults has a harder time adjusting to camp than others because he must suddenly share the center of the stage with a group of other children he never saw before.

Learning to overcome homesickness is a part of growing up and a very valuable lesson. For this reason most camp directors ignore it.

Many a parent, in answer to a letter full of heartbreak, has appeared at camp to take her youngster home and found that he would no more think of leaving before the camp breaks up than he would wash behind the ears without being told to.

Washington News

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Top military men for some time have advocated the discreet use of nondeadly gas in South Viet Nam.

There are three reasons for this:

1. INCAPACITATING GAS CAN DISABLE a man long enough to capture him. Artillery, napalm or other conventional weapons usually leave the Reds dead or able to run away.

In hide-and-seek guerrilla war, prisoners are 10 times as valuable as dead enemy troops. This is because military intelligence (much of which comes from prisoners) is the difference between a sweep by government troops into Viet Cong territory and finding nothing—or capturing the Reds flat-footed.

It's the difference between a Red Pleiku airfield attack that destroys a sizable number of our planes and one in which the Red infiltration is nipped in the bud.

It's the difference, too, between the Reds ambushing a South Vietnamese government column of troops and the government troops ambushing the ambushers.

2. FOR SOME TIME, U.S. and South Vietnamese forces have sought to find some way to attack Viet Cong guerrillas hiding in farmers' houses without killing everyone in the infested villages.

The Viet Cong often move into a hamlet and deliberately let everyone know they're there so government forces will attack.

When the hamlet is bombed with artillery or napalm, the Reds "help" the villagers defend themselves — dig trenches, tend the wounded. With women, children, babies and old people killed and injured by government troops, the Reds find it easy to make converts.

One Viet Cong corporal told me some time back in a Cambodian border village "these bombings (by South Vietnamese) create more Communists than propagandists ever could."

Gas that incapacitates people temporarily, but does no permanent harm, solves this problem. Troops can move in after the gas attack, separate Viet Cong agents and guerrillas from noncombatant villages.

3. SINCE MANY VC GUERRILLAS are closely related to loyal Vietnamese, we'll get more co-operation from non-Red villagers if they know we're out to capture rather than kill their sons, husbands and brothers.

The presently used gases are understood to be varieties of tear gas, which causes vomiting, crying and other disabling but temporary discomforts. ("For a little while you wish you were dead," says one man who's voluntarily been gassed with one of these chemicals. "But afterward there are no ill effects at all.")

Another incapacitating gas that could be used causes the men who are gassed to be so happy and unconcerned that they don't care whether a war is going on or not. Once-serious soldiers will fool around and wander aimlesly in circles.

These gases are highly effective in suppressing riots. They're tricky to use in war. A gust of wind can blow the gas among friendly troops, who may or may not have sufficient gas masks or adequate training in their use.

Unless terrain and weather are just right, the gases dissipate quickly. Even under the best of gassing conditions, troops must move in quickly and with precision before the effects wear off.

Probe Long Overdue About Crime, Subversive Groups

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Investigations of subversive and criminal influences in connection with racial disturbances and demonstrations in different parts of the country have long been overdue. This correspondent in a dispatch two years ago pointed out that bombings of churches then should have been investigated by the House Committee on Un-American Activities. It looks now as if an investigation of secret organizations will be undertaken. But will it be broad enough?

Speeches have been made recently on the floor of Congress giving the names of persons identified with certain demonstrations as having Communist connections. This doesn't mean that the leaders of the movement are members of the Communist party or are even aware of Communist activity, but a comprehensive investigation could reveal how the mischief-making impulses of various individuals with a communist background have been influential in stirring up trouble. For it is when feelings run high that efforts made to capitalize on an existing situation can be effective.

Not all the tragedies, of course, have any connection with organized groups, and there are plenty of crackpots who become inflamed and commit or incite others to engage in criminal acts. Investigation is needed, however, as a means of bringing before the public the information which is not always available even in the formal proceedings of court trials. It is often difficult for evidence to be gathered that would secure individual convictions, but the background furnished by a Congressional committee is essential to an understanding of what legislation might be passed to classify as criminal acts the various plots and maneuvers that result in violence.

The latest tragedy, involving the murder on March 25 of Mrs. Viola Liuzzo of Detroit—a white woman and mother of five children—accentuates the depth of feeling which surrounds the racial controversy. For both this attack and the slaying recently of the Rev. James Reeb, a white minister, were undoubtedly the acts of misguided persons of brutal instinct who allowed their passions to supersede all processes of reason.

Killings of this kind are not numerous, but they have made a significant impression on the whole country because of their motivation. A spirit of revenge has been engendered which has affected some of the Negroes and the whites in the South as well as in other sections of the country. The publicity given to the demonstrations has aroused many irresponsible persons. There have been bombing of churches, schools and homes in the past few years, and some bombs have been planted which fortunately did not explode.

These acts of terrorism are disavowed by all the decent people everywhere in America. But, as has happened many times, it is not the majority which causes the trouble, but a small minority which is influenced and stimulated by demonstrations of a controversial nature.

The net result, of course, is that the cause of each side is hurt. The whole South, for example, is being portrayed as inhumane because individuals have resorted to violence. The truth is that the people of the South are as deeply grieved over these disturbances as are the people of other sections of the country. In the North, too, there have been race riots, and racial feeling has resulted in murders of whites as well as Negroes, killed in their homes, on subway trains, or in the streets.

Considered restrospectively it may well be asked whether the demonstrations over the past several weeks in Alabama were worth the loss of lives and the injury done to others. Could not the demonstrations have been confined to an auditorium or an outdoor stadium, so that full expression could have been given to the views of the demonstrators? Is it necessary to resort to street and highway demonstrations in order to hammer home a point to the American people?

Some will say in answer that only by dramatic devices can public opinion be aroused, but this view can be questioned. For the record shows that important legislative reforms have been achieved without demonstrations and that a persistent advocacy of many a cause in American history has been successful without disorderly demonstrations.

There is no doubt that the sting of discrimination has left an indelible imprint on the minds of persons in minority groups. Understandable as are these feelings, the question still remains whether, in the long run, a better relationship between the races couldn't be developed in an atmosphere in which passions and vengefulness have given way to respect and reason.

Biracial committees, for example, composed of sensible citizens on both sides, have done and can do more in local communities to obtain fair play than all the demonstrations put together can ever accomplish.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

The human being requires adornment. Without it, the best that can be said for the body is that it is well engineered. Some, of course, are pretty; others are strong; most are uninspiring and a few look as though everything had fallen about a foot.

Attire is important. Americans, I feel, are the poorest dressers this side of the Congo. They have lost the knack and the desire. At one time, good grooming and good dress were synonymous with personal pride. Today, the opposite is true. The man who wears a tie must be prepared to defend himself. "You going somewhere? No? Then why are you all dressed up?"

The men are not only poor dressers, they are also slovenly. The doctor in his office greets patients in a flapping sports shirt. The priest greets communicants in a T shirt. The lawyer affects gaudy slacks and the scientist lectures a class in open-work sandals. Comfort? Much depends upon how much a man must pamper himself.

Young men arrive at the girl's house for a date looking like 19th century Chinese laundrymen. The shirt hangs outside the trousers; the trousers have not seen an iron in weeks; the shoes are scuffed and dirty; the collar is open and, while he waits for the girl to get ready, he cannot even stand up. He must lean on something.

He is conscious only of his hair. At one time, it was a woman's crowning glory, but the young fellow now wears it long on the side and teased into a puff on top. He cannot converse because he has only one topic: love, and that one is reserved for her ears. He is fond of discussing most that which he understands the least.

His inept attire is his badge of belonging. It makes him an authentic cat. It tells everybody within sight that this one is "hep." If you ask him what a hat is, he says it is something worn by an old square when he can't find his toupe.

The average girl is even less appetizing. The only time she ever wanted to wear heels was when she was fourteen. After that, she gave them up for flats. Most of the time, she wears slacks. It doesn't matter whether her figure is attuned to them; the girl wears them like an extra layer of skin.

She has a closet full of washable slacks, dress slacks, shorts, pedal-pushers, blouses, sweaters, a cocktail dress in case something regal comes up, and a dark dress in the event a close relative dies.. The conformation of her body proclaims to the world that she is a female, but the attire is male.

Her hair, of course, is teased more than his. Usually, it is teased to the point that she appears to be fifty per cent hair and fifty per cent torso. She looks like a drawing from "Alice in Wonderland." If she is plump, she wants bouffant dresses with a couple of crinolines underneath. Should she be skinny, she leans towards sacks, in which she hangs like a mop in a closet.

A well-dressed businessman doesn't feel comfortable unless his sox are falling down. He affects loafers, often with crepe soles. His belt is cinched tight and he feels relaxed if his belly hangs out over the top. He doesn't like to wear a wrinkled suit, but he is too lazy to have it otherwise. Some have no respect for a good tie, and will not unknot them at night; just loosen the loop and lift over the head.

Most mothers do not dress at all unless they are going to be taken out. They wear nightclothes and robes all morning. The postman and the milkman wouldn't recognize them in clothes. In the afternoon, they step into slacks, "in case the bell rings", and they pat a little makeup on faces which need more care than that.

They parade through supermarkets in pants and curlers, the hair looking like something designed to kill the sex instinct in men. At night, they dress and dress and dress for whatever the occasion might be, and when they make an entrance, they appear to be back in the nightgowns again. The dress starts six inches above the waist, displaying a few yards of powdered flab, and it dies somewhere around the ankles.

The eyelids are blue, the lashes are the legs of a black widow, the lips are moist wounds. The deft touch of perfume smells as though it has been put on with a soup spoon. The coiffure, for the moment, is precise. Do not—repeat—do not open a window in the car.

Sartorially, my friend, we are a nation of slobs . . .

Learning to overcome homesickness is a part of growing up and a very valuable lesson. For this reason most camp directors ignore it.

Many a parent, in answer to a letter full of heartbreak, has appeared at camp to take her youngster home and found that he would no more think of leaving before the camp breaks up than he would wash behind the ears without being told to.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Top military men for some time have advocated the discreet use of nondeadly gas in South Viet Nam.

There are three reasons for this:

1. INCAPACITATING GAS CAN DISABLE a man long enough to capture him. Artillery, napalm or other conventional weapons usually leave the Reds dead or able to run away.

In hide-and-seek guerrilla war, prisoners are 10 times as valuable as dead enemy troops. This is because military intelligence (much of which comes from prisoners) is the difference between a sweep by government troops into Viet Cong territory and finding nothing—or capturing the Reds flat-footed.

It's the difference between a Red Pleiku airfield attack that destroys a sizable number of our planes and one in which the Red infiltration is nipped in the bud.

It's the difference, too, between the Reds ambushing a South Vietnamese government column of troops and the government troops ambushing the ambushers.

2. FOR SOME TIME, U.S. and South Vietnamese forces have sought to find some way to attack Viet Cong guerrillas hiding in farmers' houses without killing everyone in the infested villages.

The Viet Cong often move into a hamlet and deliberately let everyone know they're there so government forces will attack.

When the hamlet is bombed with artillery or napalm, the Reds "help" the villagers defend themselves — dig trenches, tend the wounded. With women, children, babies and old people killed and injured by government troops, the Reds find it easy to make converts.

One Viet Cong corporal told me some time back in a Cambodian border village "these bombings (by South Vietnamese) create more Communists than propagandists ever could."

Gas that incapacitates people temporarily, but does no permanent harm, solves this problem. Troops can move in after the gas attack, separate Viet Cong agents and guerrillas from noncombatant villages.

3. SINCE MANY VC GUERRILLAS are closely related to loyal Vietnamese, we'll get more co-operation from non-Red villagers if they know we're out to capture rather than kill their sons, husbands and brothers.

The presently used gases are understood to be varieties of tear gas, which causes vomiting, crying and other disabling but temporary discomforts. ("For a little while you wish you were dead," says one man who's voluntarily been gassed with one of these chemicals. "But afterward there are no ill effects at all.")

Another incapacitating gas that could be used causes the men who are gassed to be so happy and unconcerned that they don't care whether a war is going on or not. Once-serious soldiers will fool around and wander aimlessly in circles.

These gases are highly effective in suppressing riots. They're tricky to use in war. A gust of wind can blow the gas among friendly troops, who may or may not have sufficient gas masks or adequate training in their use.

Unless terrain and weather are just right, the gases dissipate quickly. Even under the best of gassing conditions, troops must move in quickly and with precision before the effects wear off.

Probe Long Overdue About Crime, Subversive Groups

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Investigations of subversive and criminal influences in connection with racial disturbances and demonstrations in different parts of the country have long been overdue. This correspondent in a dispatch two years ago pointed out that bombings of churches then should have been investigated by the House Committee on Un-American Activities. It looks now as if an investigation of secret organizations will be undertaken. But will it be broad enough?

Speeches have been made recently on the floor of Congress giving the names of persons identified with certain demonstrations as having Communist connections. This doesn't mean that the leaders of the movement are members of the Communist party or are even aware of Communist activity, but a comprehensive investigation could reveal how the mischief-making impulses of various individuals with a communist background have been influential in stirring up trouble. For it is when feelings run high that efforts made to capitalize on an existing situation can be effective.

Not all the tragedies, of course, have any connection with organized groups, and there are plenty of crackpots who become inflamed and commit or incite others to engage in criminal acts. Investigation is needed, however, as a means of bringing before the public the information which is not always available even in the formal proceedings of court trials. It is often difficult for evidence to be gathered that would secure individual convictions, but the background furnished by a Congressional committee is essential to an understanding of what legislation might be passed to classify as criminal acts the various plots and maneuvers that result in violence.

The latest tragedy, involving the murder on March 25 of Mrs. Viola Liuzzo of Detroit—a white woman and mother of five children—accentuates the depth of feeling which surrounds the racial controversy. For both this attack and the slaying recently of the Rev. James Reeb, a white minister, were undoubtedly the acts of misguided persons of brutal instinct who allowed their passions to supersede all processes of reason.

Killings of this kind are not numerous, but they have made a significant impression on the whole country because of their motivation. A spirit of revenge has been engendered which has affected some of the Negroes and the whites in the South as well as in other sections of the country. The publicity given to the demonstrations has aroused many irresponsible persons. There have been bombing of churches, schools and homes in the past few years, and some bombs have been planted which fortunately did not explode.

These acts of terrorism are disavowed by all the decent people everywhere in America. But, as has happened many times, it is not the majority which causes the trouble, but a small minority which is influenced and stimulated by demonstrations of a controversial nature.

The net result, of course, is that the cause of each side is hurt. The whole South, for example, is being portrayed as inhumane because individuals have resorted to violence. The truth is that the people of the South are as deeply grieved over these disturbances as are the people of other sections of the country. In the North, too, there have been race riots, and racial feeling has resulted in murders of whites as well as Negroes, killed in their homes, on subway trains, or in the streets.

Considered restrospectively it may well be asked whether the demonstrations over the past several weeks in Alabama were worth the loss of lives and the injury done to others. Could not the demonstrations have been confined to an auditorium or an outdoor stadium, so that full expression could have been given to the views of the demonstrators? Is it necessary to resort to street and highway demonstrations in order to hammer home a point to the American people?

Some will say in answer that only by dramatic devices can public opinion be aroused, but this view can be questioned. For the record shows that important legislative reforms have been achieved without demonstrations and that a persistent advocacy of many a cause in American history has been successful without disorderly demonstrations.

There is no doubt that the sting of discrimination has left an indelible imprint on the minds of persons in minority groups. Understandable as are these feelings, the question still remains whether, in the long run, a better relationship between the races couldn't be developed in an atmosphere in which passions and vengefulness have given way to respect and reason.

Biracial committees, for example, composed of sensible citizens on both sides, have done and can do more in local communities to obtain fair play than all the demonstrations put together can ever accomplish.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

The human being requires adornment. Without it, the best that can be said for the body is that it is well engineered. Some, of course, are pretty; others are strong; most are uninspiring and a few look as though everything had fallen about a foot.

Attire is important. Americans, I feel, are the poorest dressers this side of the Congo. They have lost the knack and the desire. At one time, good grooming and good dress were synonymous with personal pride. Today, the opposite is true. The man who wears a tie must be prepared to defend himself. "You going somewhere? No? Then why are you all dressed up?"

The men are not only poor dressers, they are also slovenly. The doctor in his office greets patients in a flapping sports shirt. The priest greets communicants in a T shirt. The lawyer affects gaudy slacks and the scientist lectures a class in open-work sandals. Comfort? Much depends upon how much a man must pamper himself.

Young men arrive at the girl's house for a date looking like 19th century Chinese laundrymen. The shirt hangs outside the trousers; the trousers have not seen an iron in weeks; the shoes are scuffed and dirty; the collar is open and, while he waits for the girl to get ready, he cannot even stand up. He must lean on something.

He is conscious only of his hair. At one time, it was a woman's crowning glory, but the young fellow now wears it long on the side and teased into a puff on top. He cannot converse because he has only one topic: love, and that one is reserved for her ears. He is fond of discussing most that which he understands the least.

His inept attire is his badge of belonging. It makes him an authentic cat. It tells everybody within sight that this one is "hep." If you ask him what a hat is, he says it is something worn by an old square when he can't find his toupe.

The average girl is even less appetizing. The only time she ever wanted to wear heels was when she was fourteen. After that, she gave them up for flats. Most of the time, she wears slacks. It doesn't matter whether her figure is attuned to them; the girl wears them like an extra layer of skin.

She has a closet full of washable slacks, dress slacks, shorts, pedal-pushers, blouses, sweaters, a cocktail dress in case something regal comes up, and a dark dress in the event a close relative dies. The conformation of her body proclaims to the world that she is a female, but the attire is male.

Her hair, of course, is teased more than his. Usually, it is teased to the point that she appears to be fifty per cent hair and fifty per cent torso. She looks like a drawing from "Alice in Wonderland." If she is plump, she wants bouffant dresses with a couple of crinolines underneath. Should she be skinny, she leans towards sacks, in which she hangs like a mop in a closet.

A well-dressed businessman doesn't feel comfortable unless his sox are falling down. He affects loafers, often with crepe soles. His belt is cinched tight and he feels relaxed if his belly hangs out over the top. He doesn't like to wear a wrinkled suit, but he is too lazy to have it otherwise. Some have no respect for a good tie, and will not unknot them at night; just loosen the loop and lift over the head.

Most mothers do not dress at all unless they are going to be taken out. They wear nightclothes and robes all morning. The postman and the milkman wouldn't recognize them in clothes. In the afternoon, they step into slacks, "in case the bell rings", and they pat a little makeup on faces which need more care than that.

They parade through supermarkets in pants and curlers, the hair looking like something designed to kill the sex instinct in men. At night, they dress and dress and dress for whatever the occasion might be, and when they make an entrance, they appear to be back in the nightgowns again. The dress starts six inches above the waist, displaying a few yards of powdered flab, and it dies somewhere around the ankles.

The eyelids are blue, the lashes are the legs of a black widow, the lips are moist wounds. The deft touch of perfume smells as though it has been put on with a soup spoon. The coiffure, for the moment, is precise. Do not—repeat—do not open a window in the car.

Sartorially, my friend, we are a nation of slobs . . .

Seven Are Hurt In Auto Crashes

Traffic accidents which were investigated Sunday by Ellenville State Police, resulted in injuries sustained by seven persons and the issuance of a summons to one motorist.

Sergeant E. E. Winkky said James R. Lawrence, 25, of RD, Pine Bush, was driving west on Awosting Road, Town of Shawangunk, at 12:05 a.m. Sunday when his car failed to negotiate a left curve. The ehicle went out of control and crashed into a concrete bridge abutment.

Lawrence was taken to St. Luke's Hospital, Newburgh, and treated for lacerations of the right leg and chin. Passengers in the car were his wife, Doris, 20, who sustained compound fractures of both legs and lacerations of the right eye, and Ida Mae Knapp, 21, of RD 1 Wallkill, who received lacerations of the lower lip and possible back injuries.

The injured were removed to the hospital by the Shawangunk First Aid and Rescue Squad, troopers said.

Two cars collided on Yagersville Road near Route 55, Town of Wawarsing, at about 1:30 p.m. Sunday. Sergeant Winkky said the vehicles were driven by F. G. Geiselhart, 17, of Accord and Lawrence C. Quimby, 56, of Wallkill. Quimby was cited for failure to keep to the right.

The cars were traveling in opposite directions at the time of the collision.

Geiselhart received a bump on his head. Quimby's wife, Verta, 49, sustained a bump on the head and possible injuries of the knees. Ronald Paes, of Napanoch, a passenger in the Quimby car, also received a bump on the head. The injured told troopers they would see their own physicians.

Burglary at School

Ellenville State Police are investigating a burglary which occurred at the Rondout Valley Central School sometime over the weekend. Sergeant E. E. Winkky said a steel cabinet and vending machines were pried open and the contents taken. He said approximately $100, mostly in silver, was taken.

Central States Have Snow, Hail Thunderstorms

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Turbulent weather struck the nation's central states Sunday night and early this morning, bringing more snow, thunderstorms and hail.

Almost a foot of snow fell in parts of the northern tier of states, adding to winter's heavy snow pack and increasing the possibility of serious flooding. Duluth, Minn., is covered with 3½ feet of snow and like amounts cover wide stretches of the far North. Snow was still falling this morning in Minnesota and the northern part of Michigan's lower peninsula.

Thunderstorms ranged from the southern portions of the Great Lakes to the northern edge of the Southern states. Bowling Green, Ky., was drenched with more than 1¾ inches and Huntsville, Ala., had 2.3 of an inch.

Quarter-inch hail was reported in the Nashville area of Tennessee and in northwest Mississippi.

Carroll Will Support Goldberg For Surrogate

Increasing activity by Republicans seeking the nomination for Surrogate today led Republican City Chairman Joseph F. Carroll Jr., to express his personal support for Kingston attorney Maurice Goldberg of Woodstock.

"While I speak for myself, and do not commit the members of the Republican City Committee," Carroll stated, "I feel it is my responsibility as city chairman to indicate my preference before the list of candidates swells out of proportion.

"I've discussed the situation completely with Republican County Chairman Kenneth L. Wilson, who has indicated his respect, appreciation and affection for Maurice Goldberg, and who welcomed my desire to take a public position on the Surrogate candidacy," Carroll revealed.

"There are many well qualified attorneys who have shown interest in the Republican nomination for Surrogate," Carrell noted, "but only one of these excellent men can become the Republican candidate.

"In reaching my decision," he pointed out, "I have tried to evaluate the candidates' popularity throughout the country, their potential contribution to a strong total ticket of Republican nominees, and their record of active and effective support of Republicanism over the years.

"On every count," Carroll declared, "I have been very much impressed by Maurice Goldberg's outstanding rating.

"Of his 35 years as a practicing attorney, he has spent 20 years as a member of the New York County Bar, 15 years as a member of the Ulster County Bar, and five years as Assistant Attorney General of the State of New York.

"Maurice Goldberg is well known, liked and respected in every township of the County of Ulster," Carroll stated, "because he's been in every town, every year since I can remember, giving active support to every candidate of the Republican party.

"I know of no candidate better qualified or more deserving of the Republican nomination for Surrogate than Maurice Goldberg," Carroll concluded.

Fire at Fishkill Home

A family of four fled to safety Saturday after fire broke out in their home on Givens Lane, Fishkill. Fire Chief Fred J. Nameth said the fire started in a second floor bedroom and swept through the ceiling to a crawl space and through the roof. The home was occupied by the Harry R. Smith family. The cause of the fire was not determined.

Two Are Injured At Interchange

Two persons were injured in a two-car mishap at the Albany interchange this morning.

Herbert Metzger, 67, of RD 3, Box 130-A, Kingston, driver of one car, reported head and leg injuries, and Gladys Metzger, 62, of the same address, suffered an injured left shoulder. They were taken to Kingston Hospital by Doctors' ambulance.

The other car was driven by Eugene Phelps, 28, of Fort Edward. Officers George Dougherty and James Amato investigated the mishap reported at 7:10 a. m.

German Street Man Is Booked On Four Charges

Robert Hoffman, 24, of 68 German Street, who police said had thrown beer bottles on Broadway near central post office, was booked on four charges early today.

He was charged with second degree assault, resisting arrest, disorderly conduct and public intoxication. He waived preliminary hearing before City Judge Joseph D. Saccoman later today on the assault charge and faces grand jury action on that. He pleaded guilty to the other charges and sentence was postponed to March 9 to permit time for a presentencing investigation. He was released in the custody of his father.

It is charged that he resisted first attempts of Sgt. Garvin Fisher and Officer Charles Diers to bring him to headquarters after the reported bottle tossing. The arrest was reported at 1:10 a. m.

Astronauts Get N. Y. Acclaim

NEW YORK (AP) — Clouds masked the sky today as astronauts Virgil I. Grissom and John W. Young reached New York City to receive its classic outpouring of acclaim for American heroes.

The pair landed at La Guardia Airport, where crowds had waited in the rain for the moment.

A police detail and armed forces honor guards also offered their salutes, along with cheers from spectators, as America's first dual travelers in space stepped from a plane.

It arrived from Florida, where the two had spent the weekend after their pioneering two-man orbital flight last Tuesday.

After welcoming formalities, the two entered a limousine and headed for a tickertape parade up lower Broadway.

HOWARD S. WHITAKER

Masons to Fete District Officer At Homecoming

Members of Kingston Lodge, No. 10, F&AM will honor Howard S. Whitaker Tuesday night at Masonic Temple, 31 Albany Avenue.

The meeting will mark the end of a successful year for the Greene-Ulster District. In that post, Whitaker made official visits to all the Master Masonic lodges in the district, instructing the officers in proper forms and ceremonies. He now returns to his own lodge, Kingston No. 10, for his homecoming.

Whitaker became a Mason in 1953 and advanced through the offices of Kingston Lodge No. 10, becoming master in 1962. He was appointed to the office of assistant grand lecturer in July, 1964. Whitaker is also a member of No. 10's Draftsman's Club, having served as its secretary-treasurer and president.

In addition to his other duties, Whitaker presently is secretary of Kingston No. 10 Past Masters Association and a member of the advisory board for Colonial Chapter Order of De Molay.

A homecoming dinner will be served at 6:30 p. m., followed by the meeting at 8 p. m. Many Master Masons, including District Deputy Grand Master Herman E. Story, are expected to attend.

Ralph H. Travis, master of Kingston Lodge No. 10, invites all Master Masons to attend. There will be no meeting on April 6, since the officers will be taking part in the annual convention in Cairo, Greene County.

3 Endorse Attack

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three New York State Representatives have endorsed President Johnson's attack on the Ku Klux Klan and say they will support legislation to curb Klan activities.

They are Reps. Charles E. Goodell of Jamestown, Frank J. Horton of Rochester and Howard W. Robison of Owego.

Teacher Committee Endorses Rights March to Montgomery

The Kingston Teachers' Federation Executive Committee today endorsed the Civil Rights march from Selma to Montgomery, Ala., and condemned both the Alabama Education Association and the National Education Association for what it termed "muzzling" and segregationist tactics.

KTF officials said that the local Federation sadly acknowledges that many teachers in Kingston are apparently tacitly agreeing "with a NEA policy which provides for separate groups among white and Negro teachers in the same locality.

Federation officials said the Executive Committee "wholeheartedly" supported the Alabama march led by Dr. Martin Luther King. They said that Charles Cogen, president of the American Federation of Teachers, marched in Alabama at "the personal request" of Dr. King and that Al Shanker, president of the United Federation of Teachers in New York City, also marched at Dr. King's "personal invitation." In addition, they said, the United Teachers' Federation presented Dr. King with a station wagon purchased with funds raised by UFT members to help the Nobel Peace Prize winner-CR leader with the voter registration drive in Alabama.

Discrimination in NEA

KTF officials also told The Freeman that the Federation "further feels it can no longer remain silent about the segregation policy of the National Education Association. The NEA has all white and all Negro teachers groups affiliated with it," the officials said, and, "The NEA finally, after many years of silence, reluctantly stated that by 1966 plans must be drawn to eliminate the dual organizations."

In contrast, they said, the American Federation of Teachers entered the 1954 Supreme Court Desegregation Case as a "friend of the court," and the ATF subsequently revoked the charters of segregated locals in the southern states. This cost the AFT almost 10,000 members when the total membership was 50,000," they said, but the AFT and its affiliated locals have "closely identified" themselves with the Civil Rights movement.

Kingston Federation officials said that the local organization's membership is open to teachers of both races and there has never been a "dual" membership policy. However, they said, "We call your attention to the fact that NEA membership in Kingston has doubled in the past year, according to a usually reliable source," and, "We wonder if those new members are aware of the NEA segregation policy."

The Federation's Executive Committee, in condemning the Alabama Education Association for what it said was the recent "muzzling" of the Association's outgoing president in Birmingham, said that on March 18, Mrs. Annie Mae Turner, the outgoing officer, wrote a speech on "What I Believe" which was not read.

Give in to Pressure

They said that newspaper accounts revealed that Mrs. Turner's speech attested to her belief in what she thought was "morally right for the Negro in Alabama to have the right to vote," but instead of delivering the speech, "she merely accepted a gift of appreciation at the convention, said 'thanks' and sat down." According to a New York City newspaper, they said, "Minutes before (Mrs. Turner was to speak), officials of the association, phone callers and associates advised Mrs. Turner to keep the speech folded in her purse and keep it there. Weeping, she agreed," the news account said.

KTF officials said that The Birmingham News ran portions of the speech, which were confirmed by Mrs. Turner. They said, "The KTF condemns this vicious "muzzling" in the strongest terms. As professional educators concerned with all phases of democracy in action, we find it impossible to reconcile the actions of the Alabama Education Association with the responsibilities of teachers anywhere in this country to promote the ideals of American Democracy."

The local Federation also noted that Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick (D-Ellenville) has filed a bill in the House of Representatives which would remove from tax exempt status any organization which did not ban segregation or discrimination from its state and local affiliates. The proposed legislation is aimed directly, according to KTF officials at the National Education Association and the American Medical Association.

"The KTF," Executive Committee members said, "feels that teachers who support segregation, actively or tacitly have no right to call themselves educators or professionals; they further forfeit their right to exert leadership over educational mattes; and they finally present a clear and present danger to the students entrusted in their care by the very nature of their warped social beliefs."

'Clean-Cut Kid' Held for Murder Of Elderly Pair

UTICA, N.Y. (AP)—"A clean-cut kid, not the kind we usually get around here" was locked in the Oneida County jail today on charges of first-degree murder in the slaying of an elderly couple.

A jailer applied the "clean-cut" description to brown-haired, blue-eyed Paul A. Winters Jr., who police say, has admitted he stabbed to death Arthur Salisbury, 77, and his wife, Elizabeth, 68.

Resist Robbery

State police said that Winters attacked the Salisburys after they resisted a robbery attempt early Saturday.

The youth wielded a .22 caliber rifle when he entered the home, police said. When Salisbury grappled with him, troopers said, Winters whipped out a hunting knife.

Salisbury was reported stabbed 12 times and his wife four times. They also were beaten with a blunt instrument.

A relative told police that Salisbury had a reputation as "a frugal man" and had a safe in his home. The safe was not opened.

Arrested at Home

The boy was arrested Sunday afternoon at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul A. Winters Sr.

Justice of the Peace Leo Townsend today adjourned Winters' arraignment until Wednesday night to give the Frankfort Central High School student time to obtain legal counsel.

Police let the 5-foot-10, 155-pound youth meet with his parents. He talked with them, an arm around each.

Troopers said Winters was on probation as a youthful offender. The specific charge was not given. While his parents lived in Utica, the boy lived with the George Inman family in the Town of New Hartford.

His Story

Investigators said the youth told them he had stolen an auto in Utica, drove to the Salisbury home and killed them about 2 or 3 a.m. Saturday morning. Their bodies, police said, were dragged to the stolen car and dumped in a field about four miles away.

When the stolen auto went into a ditch, police explained, Winters trudged back to the Salisbury home and took their car.

The Salisbury auto was found abandoned near a reservoir north of here. Police said Winters apparently hitch-hiked back to Utica where he was arrested.

The Salisburys had been married 14 years and had no children.

Salisbury was a retired toolmaker.

Attacks Reported

BONN, Germany (AP) — The West German Foreign Office says bomb attacks were made Saturday on a branch of the West German Embassy and the U.S. consulate in Benghazi, Libya. No one was injured, a spokesman added.

It was the third attack on a West German mission in an Arab nation since Bonn announced it would seek diplomatic relations with Israel.

Boycott of Goods Made in Alabama

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., Nobel Prize-winning leader of the civil rights movement, says he will call for a massive economic boycott of Alabama products.

King, speaking before news cameras for national television, said Sunday his Southern Christian Leadership Conference would soon call for an "economic withdrawal program."

Following the NBC program, "Meet the Press," King told a news conference he would discuss the plan with board members of the conference Thursday and Friday in Baltimore, Md.

Summoned to Albany

Members of the Marlboro Board of Education have been summoned to appear before Associate Commissioner Walter Crewsom of the State Department of Education on Wednesday night. It was not indicated what would be discussed at the session. In recent days a major controversy has taken place in the Marlboro school district over the reported discharge of Supervising Principal Paul Georgini. It could not be learned whether this matter prompted the calling of the school district trustees to Albany.

Moses Says Fair Is Ahead of Schedule

NEW YORK (AP) — Robert Moses, president of the New York World's Fair, says the exhibition "is on or ahead of schedule" for the April 21 opening of its second and last season.

Workmen have been engaged in "operation dewinterization" since mid-February at the mile-square fair. Unless bad weather occurs, the operation should be completed by Friday, Moses said Sunday.

Carroll Will Support Goldberg For Surrogate

Increasing activity by Republicans seeking the nomination for Surrogate today led Republican City Chairman Joseph F. Carroll Jr., to express his personal support for Kingston attorney Maurice Goldberg of Woodstock.

"While I speak for myself, and do not commit the members of the Republican City Committee," Carroll stated, "I feel it is my responsibility as city chairman to indicate my preference before the list of candidates swells out of proportion.

"I've discussed the situation completely with Republican County Chairman Kenneth L. Wilson, who has indicated his respect, appreciation and affection for Maurice Goldberg, and who welcomed my desire to take a public position on the Surrogate candidacy," Carroll revealed.

"There are many well qualified attorneys who have shown interest in the Republican nomination for Surrogate," Carrell noted, "but only one of these excellent men can become the Republican candidate.

"In reaching my decision," he pointed out, "I have tried to evaluate the candidates' popularity throughout the country, their potential contribution to a strong total ticket of Republican nominees, and their record of active and effective support of Republicanism over the years.

"On every count," Carroll declared, "I have been very much impressed by Maurice Goldberg's outstanding rating.

"Of his 35 years as a practicing attorney, he has spent 20 years as a member of the New York County Bar, 15 years as a member of the Ulster County Bar, and five years as Assistant Attorney General of the State of New York.

"Maurice Goldberg is well known, liked and respected in every township of the County of Ulster," Carroll stated, "because he's been in every town, every year since I can remember, giving active support to every candidate of the Republican party.

"I know of no candidate better qualified or more deserving of the Republican nomination for Surrogate than Maurice Goldberg," Carroll concluded.

Fire at Fishkill Home

A family of four fled to safety Saturday after fire broke out in their home on Givens Lane, Fishkill. Fire Chief Fred J. Nameth said the fire started in a second floor bedroom and swept through the ceiling to a crawl space and through the roof. The home was occupied by the Harry R. Smith family. The cause of the fire was not determined.

Two Are Injured At Interchange

Two persons were injured in a two-car mishap at the Albany interchange this morning.

Herbert Metzger, 67, of RD 3, Box 130-A, Kingston, driver of one car, reported head and leg injuries, and Gladys Metzger, 62, of the same address, suffered an injured left shoulder. They were taken to Kingston Hospital by Doctors' ambulance.

The other car was driven by Eugene Phelps, 28, of Fort Edward. Officers George Dougherty and James Amato investigated the mishap reported at 7:10 a. m.

German Street Man Is Booked On Four Charges

Robert Hoffman, 24, of 68 German Street, who police said had thrown beer bottles on Broadway near central post office, was booked on four charges early today.

He was charged with second degree assault, resisting arrest, disorderly conduct and public intoxication. He waived preliminary hearing before City Judge Joseph D. Saccoman later today on the assault charge and faces grand jury action on that. He pleaded guilty to the other charges and sentence was postponed to March 9 to permit time for a presentencing investigation. He was released in the custody of his father.

It is charged that he resisted first attempts of Sgt. Garvin Fisher and Officer Charles Diers to bring him to headquarters after the reported bottle tossing. The arrest was reported at 1:10 a. m.

Astronauts Get N. Y. Acclaim

NEW YORK (AP) — Clouds masked the sky today as astronauts Virgil I. Grissom and John W. Young reached New York City to receive its classic outpouring of acclaim for American heroes.

The pair landed at La Guardia Airport, where crowds had waited in the rain for the moment.

A police detail and armed forces honor guards also offered their salutes, along with cheers from spectators, as America's first dual travelers in space stepped from a plane.

It arrived from Florida, where the two had spent the weekend after their pioneering two-man orbital flight last Tuesday.

After welcoming formalities, the two entered a limousine and headed for a tickertape parade up lower Broadway.

HOWARD S. WHITAKER

Masons to Fete District Officer At Homecoming

Members of Kingston Lodge, No. 10, F&AM will honor Howard S. Whitaker Tuesday night at Masonic Temple, 31 Albany Avenue.

The meeting will mark the end of a successful year for the Greene-Ulster District. In that post, Whitaker made official visits to all the Master Masonic lodges in the district, instructing the officers in proper forms and ceremonies. He now returns to his own lodge, Kingston No. 10, for his homecoming.

Whitaker became a Mason in 1953 and advanced through the offices of Kingston Lodge No. 10, becoming master in 1962. He was appointed to the office of assistant grand lecturer in July, 1964. Whitaker is also a member of No. 10's Draftsman's Club, having served as its secretary-treasurer and president.

In addition to his other duties, Whitaker presently is secretary of Kingston No. 10 Past Masters Association and a member of the advisory board for Colonial Chapter Order of De Molay.

A homecoming dinner will be served at 6:30 p. m., followed by the meeting at 8 p. m. Many Master Masons, including District Deputy Grand Master Herman E. Story, are expected to attend.

Ralph H. Travis, master of Kingston Lodge No. 10, invites all Master Masons to attend. There will be no meeting on April 6, since the officers will be taking part in the annual convention in Cairo, Greene County.

3 Endorse Attack

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three New York State Representatives have endorsed President Johnson's attack on the Ku Klux Klan and say they will support legislation to curb Klan activities.

They are Reps. Charles E. Goodell of Jamestown, Frank J. Horton of Rochester and Howard W. Robison of Owego.

Teacher Committee Endorses Rights March to Montgomery

The Kingston Teachers' Federation Executive Committee today endorsed the Civil Rights march from Selma to Montgomery, Ala., and condemned both the Alabama Education Association and the National Education Association for what it termed "muzzling" and segregationist tactics.

KTF officials said that the local Federation sadly acknowledges that many teachers in Kingston are apparently tacitly agreeing "with a NEA policy which provides for separate groups among white and Negro teachers in the same locality.

Federation officials said the Executive Committee "wholeheartedly" supported the Alabama march led by Dr. Martin Luther King. They said that Charles Cogen, president of the American Federation of Teachers, marched in Alabama at "the personal request" of Dr. King and that Al Shanker, president of the United Federation of Teachers in New York City, also marched at Dr. King's "personal invitation." In addition, they said, the United Teachers' Federation presented Dr. King with a station wagon purchased with funds raised by UFT members to help the Nobel Peace Prize winner-CR leader with the voter registration drive in Alabama.

Discrimination in NEA

KTF officials also told The Freeman that the Federation "further feels it can no longer remain silent about the segregation policy of the National Education Association. The NEA has all white and all Negro teachers groups affiliated with it," the officials said, and, "The NEA finally, after many years of silence, reluctantly stated that by 1966 plans must be drawn to eliminate the dual organizations."

In contrast, they said, the American Federation of Teachers entered the 1954 Supreme Court Desegregation Case as a "friend of the court," and the ATF subsequently revoked the charters of segregated locals in the southern states. This cost the AFT almost 10,000 members when the total membership was 50,000," they said, but the AFT and its affiliated locals have "closely identified" themselves with the Civil Rights movement.

Kingston Federation officials said that the local organization's membership is open to teachers of both races and there has never been a "dual" membership policy. However, they said, "We call your attention to the fact that NEA membership in Kingston has doubled in the past year, according to a usually reliable source," and, "We wonder if those new members are aware of the NEA segregation policy."

The Federation's Executive Committee, in condemning the Alabama Education Association for what it said was the recent "muzzling" of the Association's outgoing president in Birmingham, said that on March 18, Mrs. Annie Mae Turner, the outgoing officer, wrote a speech on "What I Believe" which was not read.

Give in to Pressure

They said that newspaper accounts revealed that Mrs. Turner's speech attested to her belief in what she thought was "morally right for the Negro in Alabama to have the right to vote," but instead of delivering the speech, "she merely accepted a gift of appreciation at the convention, said 'thanks' and sat down." According to a New York City newspaper, they said, "Minutes before (Mrs. Turner was to speak), officials of the association, phone callers and associates advised Mrs. Turner to keep the speech folded in her purse and keep it there. Weeping, she agreed," the news account said.

KTF officials said that The Birmingham News ran portions of the speech, which were confirmed by Mrs. Turner. They said, "The KTF condemns this vicious "muzzling" in the strongest terms. As professional educators concerned with all phases of democracy in action, we find it impossible to reconcile the actions of the Alabama Education Association with the responsibilities of teachers anywhere in this country to promote the ideals of American Democracy."

The local Federation also noted that Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick (D-Ellenville) has filed a bill in the House of Representatives which would remove from tax exempt status any organization which did not ban segregation or discrimination from its state and local affiliates. The proposed legislation is aimed directly, according to KTF officials at the National Education Association and the American Medical Association.

"The KTF," Executive Committee members said, "feels that teachers who support segregation, actively or tacitly have no right to call themselves educators or professionals; they further forfeit their right to exert leadership over educational mattes; and they finally present a clear and present danger to the students entrusted in their care by the very nature of their warped social beliefs."

'Clean-Cut Kid' Held for Murder Of Elderly Pair

UTICA, N.Y. (AP)—"A clean-cut kid, not the kind we usually get around here" was locked in the Oneida County jail today on charges of first-degree murder in the slaying of an elderly couple.

A jailer applied the "clean-cut" description to brown-haired, blue-eyed Paul A. Winters Jr., who police say, has admitted he stabbed to death Arthur Salisbury, 77, and his wife, Elizabeth, 68.

Resist Robbery

State police said that Winters attacked the Salisburys after they resisted a robbery attempt early Saturday.

The youth wielded a .22 caliber rifle when he entered the home, police said. When Salisbury grappled with him, troopers said, Winters whipped out a hunting knife.

Salisbury was reported stabbed 12 times and his wife four times. They also were beaten with a blunt instrument.

A relative told police that Salisbury had a reputation as "a frugal man" and had a safe in his home. The safe was not opened.

Arrested at Home

The boy was arrested Sunday afternoon at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul A. Winters Sr.

Justice of the Peace Leo Townsend today adjourned Winters' arraignment until Wednesday night to give the Frankfort Central High School student time to obtain legal counsel.

Police let the 5-foot-10, 155-pound youth meet with his parents. He talked with them, an arm around each.

Troopers said Winters was on probation as a youthful offender. The specific charge was not given. While his parents lived in Utica, the boy lived with the George Inman family in the Town of New Hartford.

His Story

Investigators said the youth told them he had stolen an auto in Utica, drove to the Salisbury home and killed them about 2 or 3 a.m. Saturday morning. Their bodies, police said, were dragged to the stolen car and dumped in a field about four miles away.

When the stolen auto went into a ditch, police explained, Winters trudged back to the Salisbury home and took their car.

The Salisbury auto was found abandoned near a reservoir north of here. Police said Winters apparently hitch-hiked back to Utica where he was arrested.

The Salisburys had been married 14 years and had no children.

Salisbury was a retired toolmaker.

Attacks Reported

BONN, Germany (AP) — The West German Foreign Office says bomb attacks were made Saturday on a branch of the West German Embassy and the U.S. consulate in Benghazi, Libya. No one was injured, a spokesman added.

It was the third attack on a West German mission in an Arab nation since Bonn announced it would seek diplomatic relations with Israel.

Boycott of Goods Made in Alabama

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., Nobel Prize-winning leader of the civil rights movement, says he will call for a massive economic boycott of Alabama products.

King, speaking before news cameras for national television, said Sunday his Southern Christian Leadership Conference would soon call for an "economic withdrawal program."

Following the NBC program, "Meet the Press," King told a news conference he would discuss the plan with board members of the conference Thursday and Friday in Baltimore, Md.

Summoned to Albany

Members of the Marlboro Board of Education have been summoned to appear before Associate Commissioner Walter Crewsom of the State Department of Education on Wednesday night. It was not indicated what would be discussed at the session. In recent days a major controversy has taken place in the Marlboro school district over the reported discharge of Supervising Principal Paul Georgini. It could not be learned whether this matter prompted the calling of the school district trustees to Albany.

Moses Says Fair Is Ahead of Schedule

NEW YORK (AP) — Robert Moses, president of the New York World's Fair, says the exhibition "is on or ahead of schedule" for the April 21 opening of its second and last season.

Workmen have been engaged in "operation dewinterization" since mid-February at the mile-square fair. Unless bad weather occurs, the operation should be completed by Friday, Moses said Sunday.

Reach West Berlin

BERLIN (AP) — An East German couple and their three children tore their way through barbed wire shortly before dawn today and escaped to West Berlin.

The family's escape was not noticed by Communist border guards. It occurred in the Spandau district where the frontier is sealed off by three thick barbed-wire fences.

Today's Business Mirror

BY SAM DAWSON AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — For every company whose profits in the early weeks of 1965 are trailing year-ago figures there are four who are making more money this year — many of them lots more.

Point to Record High

Early returns point to a record high total for 1965's first three months when the data is all in. And many companies are expected to report their biggest after-tax earnings for any first quarter.

So far, reports from 125 companies whose fiscal year starts earlier than the calendar one, and estimates by top executives of some other companies show only 24 making less than in their 1964 first quarter. Three of these were operating in the red.

Industries prominent among the gainers include rubber, food, textiles, paper, appliances, farm equipment, electronics, retail, metals, chemicals. But the losers also came from some of these industries — paper, electronics, farm equipment, food store chains.

Annual reports show business as a whole had its most profitable year in 1964. After-tax profits rose to $31.7 billion, a $5 billion gain over 1963.

Dividend payments last year came to $19.8 billion, compared with $18 billion in 1963.

In the first two months of this year corporations paid out $2 billion in dividends, 11 per cent more than in the like 1964 period.

Those Under '64 Profits

Among corporations already reporting first quarter earnings higher than a year ago were such well known ones as Firestone Tire Rubber, International Harvester, J. P. Stevens, National Tea, J. C. Penney, and West Virginia Pulp & Paper.

Among those slipping below their 1964 profits are J. I. Case and Deere, Kimberly-Clark and U.S. Envelope, Continental Motors and American Photocopy Equipment.

Record steel production and sales, and a real boom in the auto industry, make it all but inevitable that leading companies in these fields will have highly profitable if not record first quarters. Rising backlogs of orders in the tools and machinery industry assure top production, sales and earnings. Many appliance makers are riding a crest of customer demand.

And with gross earnings thus fattened, the lower corporate income tax rates this year will help many a company executive assure his stockholders at upcoming annual meetings that net profits are indeed heartening.

Bird-Alarm False Alarm

BOWLING GREEN, Ky. (AP) —Firemen agreed that the run they made to the Farmers Feed and Hardware Store was "for the birds."

Instead of a fire, they found a red-tinted flashing light which the company had installed in its warehouse to discourage birds from entering.

Today's Business Mirror

BY SAM DAWSON — AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — For every company whose profits in the early weeks of 1965 are trailing year-ago figures there are four who are making more money this year — many of them lots more.

Point to Record High

Early returns point to a record high total for 1965's first three months when the data is all in. And many companies are expected to report their biggest after-tax earnings for any first quarter.

So far, reports from 125 companies whose fiscal year starts earlier than the calendar one, and estimates by top executives of some other companies show only 24 making less than in their 1964 first quarter. Three of these were operating in the red.

Industries prominent among the gainers include rubber, food, textiles, paper, appliances, farm equipment, electronics, retail, metals, chemicals. But the losers also came from some of these industries — paper, electronics, farm equipment, food store chains.

Annual reports show business as a whole had its most profitable year in 1964. After-tax profits rose to $31.7 billion, a $5 billion gain over 1963.

Dividend payments last year came to $19.8 billion, compared with $18 billion in 1963.

In the first two months of this year corporations paid out $2 billion in dividends, 11 per cent more than in the like 1964 period.

Those Under '64 Profits

Among corporations already reporting first quarter earnings higher than a year ago were such well known ones as Firestone Tire Rubber, International Harvester, J. P. Stevens, National Tea, J. C. Penney, and West Virginia Pulp & Paper.

Among those slipping below their 1964 profits are J. I. Case and Deere, Kimberly-Clark and U.S. Envelope, Continental Motors and American Photocopy Equipment.

Record steel production and sales, and a real boom in the auto industry, make it all but inevitable that leading companies in these fields will have highly profitable if not record first quarters. Rising backlogs of orders in the tools and machinery industry assure top production, sales and earnings. Many appliance makers are riding a crest of customer demand.

And with gross earnings thus fattened, the lower corporate income tax rates this year will help many a company executive assure his stockholders at upcoming annual meetings that net profits are indeed heartening.

Bird-Alarm False Alarm

BOWLING GREEN, Ky. (AP) —Firemen agreed that the run they made to the Farmers Feed and Hardware Store was "for the birds."

Instead of a fire, they found a red-tinted flashing light which the company had installed in its warehouse to discourage birds from entering.

Area residents needing social security numbers for federal tax purposes should contact their local Social Security office, George J. Habernig, Social Security district manager, and Victor A. Scileppi, Internal Revenue Service administrative officer said today in a joint statement.

The special program for issuing all these numbers from Baltimore, Maryland, ended last year and the Baltimore Post Office box address used for this purpose was discontinued.

The Social Security Administration said that some people are still using the old discontinued address. This means the mail has to be forwarded causing a delay in assigning a number.

While the local social security offices should be contacted to get social security numbers, all tax forms, tax payments, and questions about tax matters should be sent to the District Director of Internal Revenue, 161 Washington Avenue, Albany.

Banks, savings and loan associations, corporations, and other financial institutions send Form 3435, Request for Identifying Number, to their depositors and shareholders, as required by law. Persons receiving these requests should enter their tax identifying number on the form and return it to the organization that sent it. They should not mail the form to the Internal Revenue Service.

Today in History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Monday, March 29, the 88th day of 1965. There are 277 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1847, the city of Vera Cruz, Mexico, surrendered to Gen. Winfield Scott.

On this date

In 1790, John Tyler, the 10th president, was born.

In 1890, the first naval militia in the United States was established by Massachusetts.

In 1918, Marshal Ferdinand Koch was named generalissimo of the Allied armies in France.

In 1943, nationwide rationing of meat began.

In 1944, U.S. naval forces attacked the Palau Islands in the Pacific.

Ten years ago—Associate Sureme Court Justice John Marshall Harlan took up his duties.

Five years ago — The Soviet Union and Communist China signed a trade agreement in Peiping.

One year ago—35,000 persons attended biracial Easter services in Birmingham, Ala.

Gloves With Allure

In the ultrafeminine trend in spring fashions, gloves have not been overlooked. Many are far more ornate than in past seasons, with embrodered, straw and ribbon cuffs.

Today in History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Monday, March 29, the 88th day of 1965. There are 277 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1847, the city of Vera Cruz, Mexico, surrendered to Gen. Winfield Scott.

On this date

In 1790, John Tyler, the 10th president, was born.

In 1890, the first naval militia in the United States was established by Massachusetts.

In 1918, Marshal Ferdinand Koch was named generalissimo of the Allied armies in France.

In 1943, nationwide rationing of meat began.

In 1944, U.S. naval forces attacked the Palau Islands in the Pacific.

Ten years ago—Associate Sureme Court Justice John Marshall Harlan took up his duties.

Five years ago — The Soviet Union and Communist China signed a trade agreement in Peiping.

One year ago—35,000 persons attended biracial Easter services in Birmingham, Ala.

Gloves With Allure

In the ultrafeminine trend in spring fashions, gloves have not been overlooked. Many are far more ornate than in past seasons, with embrodered, straw and ribbon cuffs.

Firemen Respond To Brush, Grass Building Fires

Firemen in many districts of Ulster County spent a busy weekend quelling brush, grass and building fires. A spokesman at the fire control center said 25 calls were received by dispatchers Saturday, Sunday and early today.

Highland firemen, it was reported, responded to an alarm for a house fire and handled two emergency calls in addition to three alarms for brush fires. Plattekill volunteer firefighters reported two fires, a brush fire and a building that was damaged by fire on Unionville Road near the old schoolhouse.

Ellenville firemen were called out twice to quell brush fires. Malden fire company answered a call for a heater fire, and brush fires were reported in the following districts: New Paltz, Glasco, Centerville, East Kingston, Accord, Lomontville, Bloomington, Hurley, and Saugerties.

At 4:52 a. m. today, Hurley firemen quelled fire in a truck on Route 209.

Esopus firemen fought a brisk brush fire in their district for more than an hour.

Mintz Suffers Another Heart Attack

Assemblyman Hyman E. Mintz, (R), Sullivan County, is back on the "critical" list at Albany Medical Center Hospital today after suffering another heart attack Sunday. After an attack of abnormal heart fluttering late Sunday, he was fitted with an electronic pacemaker device which delivers an electric impulse to the heart in order to keep its beat regular, officials said.

Hospital authorities said Mintz suffered the attack Sunday while dressing prior to leaving the hospital where he was admitted for the same condition for the third time this year on March 18.

Mintz had been served with a subpoena last week as he stood in a hospital corridor. That document called on him to appear last Thursday in New York before a grand jury which is investigating suspected conspiracy involving the licensing of the Finger Lake flat track, in which a $100,000 bribe allegedly was passed. His physician, Dr. Samuel Kantor, notified Manhattan District Attorney Frank Hogan that Mintz was a cardiac and could not appear.

Highland School Bond Issue Is Again Rejected

Highland Central School District voters rejected for a second time on Saturday, a $190,000 bond issue for a site development program at the elementary and junior-senior high schools. The vote was 478-256.

The proposition was disapproved last Nov. 20 by eight votes, 206-198. The same issue lost on Saturday by 222 votes.

Frank J. Roberts, president of the Board of Education, said he was "terribly disappointed" by the latest vote. "This seems to be the pattern these days," he was quoted as saying. He said the school board is faced with the problem of seeking approval of next year's budget, and did not have any immediate plans for finishing the work on the two new school buildings.

The proposition would have provided funds for installation of underground and surface drainage work, a lighting system for the parking areas, paving walks and curbing, completing the athletic field and track, and providing a water supply for drinking, and the installation of bleachers at the athletic field.

Total cost for this work would have been $165,000. The elementary school was scheduled for $25,000 for similar work, with the total cost not to exceed the bond issue limit.

South Avoids Leading Clubs

By JACOBY & SON

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The annual Intercollegiate Bridge Tournament gives the contestants a chance to play 18 hands which furnish tests in both bidding and play. In each case after the actual bidding there will be a directed contract and declarer will usually play against a directed lead.

All players get to be declarer, but in these articles I will always move declarer to the South seat in accordance with custom in bridge columns.

Bidding par for the first hand was for North and South to reach four spades. The simple and normal way to get there would be through the bidding in the box and we guess that most of the contestants bid the hand that way.

West was directed to open the king of diamonds and we assume that this lead would have been made without direction at practically all tables.

South is supposed to make his contract and his problem is to avoid the loss of three club tricks. The hand has been set up so that South will lose three club tricks if he has to start the suit himself, but there is a way to force his opponents to help him out.

He must win the first trick. Then he must time the play of hearts and trumps in such manner that he will discard one of his diamonds (not a club) on one of dummy's high hearts, ruff out both dummy's low hearts with two of his trumps, lead trumps twice to pull the enemy's teeth and eventually to lead a second diamond from either hand. It won't matter which opponent wins the trick. He will either have to lead a club to give declarer a sure club trick or a diamond to give him a ruff and a discard.

Socialist Labor Party Convention Saturday

The New York State Convention of the Socialist Labor Party will take place Saturday, April 3 in the Crystal Room of the Henry Hudson Hotel, 353 W. 57th Street, New York City.

Delegates from Buffalo, Rochester, Utica, Syracuse, Jamestown, and other parts of the state will attend.

An Ellenville member of the Socialist Labor Party, Nathan Pressman, will be a delegate to the convention.

Nathan Karp of Leonia, N. J., 1964 National Campaign Manager of the Socialist Labor Party, will represent the parent body at the convention.

Renaissance Beginning

The Renaissance, or "rebirth," began in Italy with the rediscovery and study of the old Greek and Latin writings which largely had been neglected during the Middle Ages.

Fire Kills Three In Harlem; State Death Toll Is 8

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) —Three fourth-grade boys who perished in flames that swept their rooftop clubhouse were among the eight persons killed in weekend accidents in New York State.

The death-toll from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Sunday counted four dead in traffic accidents and four in fires.

The three boys, all from East Harlem, used an abandoned pigeon loft atop a six-story tenement as their clubhouse, fire officials said.

The boys and a dog died Saturday.

They were identified as Michael Castellina, 10; Vito Sciarillo, 10, and Faustino Serrano, 9.

In another fire, Yolanda Fuentas, 6 months old, died Friday night when fire swept an apartment in Brooklyn's Greenpoint Section. Her father, Eulgio Fuentas, 19, was arrested on a charge of endangering a minor's life. Officials said he went to a neighborhood bar, leaving the infant unattended in her crib.

Other accidents by community included:

Syracuse—Larry D. Edinger, 18, of Brewerton, his automobile struck a sign along Interstate Route 81 Friday night.

Perrysburg—Milton L. Snow, 51, of Lawtons, struck by car.

Seaford— Frank Kurz, 17, of Seaford, two-car collision Saturday.

'City on Top'

Acropolis, which literally means "city at the top," is the name in ancient Greek history for citadels built on elevated and easily defensible sites, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Legislature Should Say More on Schools

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The Legislature should have a greater voice in making state policy on higher education says a committee of four Republican senators.

The minority committee was appointed by Senate Majority Leader Earl W. Brydges earlier this month to study the Legislature's role in the field of higher education.

Committee members were D. Clinton Dominick III of Newburgh, William T. Conklin of Nassau and Jeremiah J. Moriarty of Cattaraugus County.

Socialist Labor Party Convention Saturday

The New York State Convention of the Socialist Labor Party will take place Saturday, April 3 in the Crystal Room of the Henry Hudson Hotel, 353 W. 57th Street, New York City.

Delegates from Buffalo, Rochester, Utica, Syracuse, Jamestown, and other parts of the state will attend.

An Ellenville member of the Socialist Labor Party, Nathan Pressman, will be a delegate to the convention.

Nathan Karp of Leonia, N. J., 1964 National Campaign Manager of the Socialist Labor Party, will represent the parent body at the convention.

Renaissance Beginning

The Renaissance, or "rebirth," began in Italy with the rediscovery and study of the old Greek and Latin writings which largely had been neglected during the Middle Ages.

Fire Kills Three In Harlem: State Death Toll Is 8

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) —Three fourth-grade boys who perished in flames that swept their rooftop clubhouse were among the eight persons killed in weekend accidents in New York State.

The death-toll from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Sunday counted four dead in traffic accidents and four in fires.

The three boys, all from East Harlem, used an abandoned pigeon loft atop a six-story tenement as their clubhouse, fire officials said.

The boys and a dog died Saturday.

They were identified as Michael Castellina, 10; Vito Sciarillo, 10, and Faustino Serrano, 9.

In another fire, Yolanda Fuentas, 6 months old, died Friday night when fire swept an apartment in Brooklyn's Greenpoint Section. Her father, Eulgio Fuentas, 19, was arrested on a charge of endangering a minor's life. Officials said he went to a neighborhood bar, leaving the infant unattended in her crib.

Other accidents by community included:

Syracuse—Larry D. Edinger, 18, of Brewerton, his automobile struck a sign along Interstate Route 81 Friday night.

Perrysburg—Milton L. Snow, 51, of Lawtons, struck by car.

Seaford— Frank Kurz, 17, of Seaford, two-car collision Saturday.

'City on Top'

Acropolis, which literally means "city at the top," is the name in ancient Greek history for citadels built on elevated and easily defensible sites, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Legislature Should Say More on Schools

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The Legislature should have a greater voice in making state policy on higher education says a committee of four Republican senators.

The minority committee was appointed by Senate Majority Leader Earl W. Brydges earlier this month to study the Legislature's role in the field of higher education.

Committee members were D. Clinton Dominick III of Newburgh, William T. Conklin of Brooklyn, Henry M. Curran of Nassau and Jeremiah J. Moriarty of Cattaraugus County.

Hollywood News, Views

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "I'm still big. It's the pictures that got small."

Those words were spoken by the faded film star Norma Desmond in Brackett-Wilder's baroque classic, "Sunset Boulevard." The role was played by Gloria Swanson, but it could have been patterned after the personality of Mae Murray, who died last week at 75.

Miss Murray, a Ziegfeld girl and star of "The Merry Widow" and other movie extravaganzas of the 1920s, died at the Motion Picture Country Hospital.

Unlike Norma Desmond, who retained her ancient limousine and her cobwebbed mansion on Sunset Boulevard, Miss Murray lived on film-industry charity in her last years.

"Once you are a star, you are forever a star," she declared. And she acted like one, right to the end.

Miss Murray, with her live-for-today spirit on the screen and off, epitomized the 1920s, and her film career died with that nervous decade. Afterward she became an item of Hollywood curiosa, a name and figure to be revived for reminiscent value.

My first encounter with her was when she ended a long period of inactivity to appear in a dancing act at the Mocambo on the Sunset Strip. Her performance had moments of charm, especially when she glided over the floor in the "Merry Widow Waltz," her chiffon gown flowing around her.

I wrote a story which attracted attention from long-memoried editors. Her reaction? She telephoned to protest the inclusion of her age, which was 57. 'How could you print such wrong information?" she protested.

In the intervening years I often saw her, making a grand entrance at a night club opening, hurry down Hollywood Boulevard with short steps of her still-lovely legs. The last encounter was a year ago at the garden court apartments, where she ended out her years. Although the Motion Picture Relief Fund was paying her bills, she declined residence at the Woodland Hills Home.

Dear Abby . . .

Repeat Request

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have been reading your column ever since I can remember, and now I am a freshman at Columbia University. When I was in high school I recall having read something in your column about students who "ratted" on one another, and how you felt about tattletales. It made more sense to me than anything I have ever read on that subject. If you can locate that letter, please print it again. These are times when the question of "informing" on classmates who cheat is timely. Thank you.

DAVID AT COLUMBIA

DEAR DAVID: With the help of an efficient secretary, I located the letter. It was first printed on November 14, 1961, and here it is:

* * *

"DEAR ABBY: In our class at school we got into a big discussion about "tattling" and we would like to know how you feel about this subject. Thank you.

HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS

DEAR STUDENTS: For some reason, teachers, and even parents, teach young people that it is "unethical" or downright disgraceful for one child to tell someone in authority that another child has disobeyed, misbehaved or even broken the law. Is it any wonder we have hoodlums and vandals who count it a virtue not to "squeal"?

This is not to be confused with running to Mama or the teacher with, "Johnny hit me!" If children are to grow up with a sense of civic duty, they cannot be taught that it is "noble" to remain silent when they know who has destroyed public property or committed other serious anti-social acts. (It is their parents who must pay for such deeds.) Also, it is unfair that a guilty child should "get by" unpunished; the next time he will try something a little bolder. I think it's time we adults reviewed our attitude on "tattling."

DEAR ABBY: Is it impolite to ask for a recipe? A friend of mine recently attended a dinner party (all friends) and asked the hostess for her recipe for a dessert which she found delicious. The hostess replied, "I never give out my recipes."

Was the hostess right in refusing? Or was my friend wrong for asking?

JUST CURIOUS

DEAR JUST: It is not "impolite" to ask for a recipe. Most cooks are complimented when their guests inquire. Those who refuse to give out their recipes (professional chefs excepted) are selfish. After all, but for the generosity of others, THEY would not have a collection of recipes themselves.

President From Upper Volta Is To Arrive Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — Maurice Yameogo, the pro-Western president of the little republic of Upper Volta in the heart of West Africa, arrives today for a state visit with President Johnson.

Hollywood News, Views

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "I'm still big. It's the pictures that got small."

Those words were spoken by the faded film star Norma Desmond in Brackett-Wilder's baroque classic, "Sunset Boulevard." The role was played by Gloria Swanson, but it could have been patterned after the personality of Mae Murray, who died last week at 75.

Miss Murray, a Ziegfeld girl and star of "The Merry Widow" and other movie extravaganzas of the 1920s, died at the Motion Picture Country Hospital.

Unlike Norma Desmond, who retained her ancient limousine and her cobwebbed mansion on Sunset Boulevard, Miss Murray lived on film-industry charity in her last years.

"Once you are a star, you are forever a star," she declared. And she acted like one, right to the end.

Miss Murray, with her live-for-today spirit on the screen and off, epitomized the 1920s, and her film career died with that nervous decade. Afterward she became an item of Hollywood curiosa, a name and figure to be revived for reminiscent value.

My first encounter with her was when she ended a long period of inactivity to appear in a dancing act at the Mocambo on the Sunset Strip. Her performance had moments of charm, especially when she glided over the floor in the "Merry Widow Waltz," her chiffon gown flowing around her.

I wrote a story which attracted attention from long-memoried editors. Her reaction? She telephoned to protest the inclusion of her age, which was 57. 'How could you print such wrong information?" she protested.

In the intervening years I often saw her, making a grand entrance at a night club opening, hurry down Hollywood Boulevard with short steps of her still-lovely legs. The last encounter was a year ago at the garden court apartments, where she ended out her years. Although the Motion Picture Relief Fund was paying her bills, she declined residence at the Woodland Hills Home.

Dear Abby . . .

Repeat Request

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have been reading your column ever since I can remember, and now I am a freshman at Columbia University. When I was in high school I recall having read something in your column about students who "ratted" on one another, and how you felt about tattletales. It made more sense to me than anything I have ever read on that subject. If you can locate that letter, please print it again. These are times when the question of "informing" on classmates who cheat is timely. Thank you.

DAVID AT COLUMBIA

DEAR DAVID: With the help of an efficient secretary, I located the letter. It was first printed on November 14, 1961, and here it is:

* * * *

"DEAR ABBY: In our class at school we got into a big discussion about "tattling" and we would like to know how you feel about this subject. Thank you.

HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS

DEAR STUDENTS: For some reason, teachers, and even parents, teach young people that it is "unethical" or downright disgraceful for one child to tell someone in authority that another child has disobeyed, misbehaved or even broken the law. Is it any wonder we have hoodlums and vandals who count it a virtue not to "squeal"?

This is not to be confused with running to Mama or the teacher with, "Johnny hit me!" If children are to grow up with a sense of civic duty, they cannot be taught that it is "noble" to remain silent when they know who has destroyed public property or committed other serious anti-social acts. (It is their parents who must pay for such deeds.) Also, it is unfair that a guilty child should "get by" unpunished; the next time he will try something a little bolder. I think it's time we adults reviewed our attitude on "tattling."

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: Is it impolite to ask for a recipe? A friend of mine recently attended a dinner party (all friends) and asked the hostess for her recipe for a dessert which she found delicious. The hostess replied, "I never give out my recipes."

Was the hostess right in refusing? Or was my friend wrong for asking?

JUST CURIOUS

DEAR JUST: It is not "impolite" to ask for a recipe. Most cooks are complimented when their guests inquire. Those who refuse to give out their recipes (professional chefs excepted) are selfish. After all, but for the generosity of others, THEY would not have a collection of recipes themselves.

Crisis on the Campus

Penetrating Look Taken At Berkeley Situation

By HAROLD V. STREETER

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — The arrest of a nonstudent led to the Free Speech Movement on the University of California's troubled Berkeley campus.

A nonstudent triggered an obscenity incident which almost toppled the university's administration.

Nonstudents use loudspeakers provided by the university to harangue campus crowds with their views on the university.

How much of the six-months crisis at Berkeley is attributable to the nonstudens on a campus of 27,000 students?

Very Controversial

It is a most controversial question.

The trouble began last fall when nonstudent Jack Weinberg, 24, was arrested while collecting funds on the campus for the Congress of Racial Equality. A fulltime activist with handlebar moustache, he sat cheerfully in a university police car for 32 hours while students surrounded it.

Mario Savio, then a student but since withdrawn, stood atop the car and harangued the crowd. Savio, 22, a New Yorker with a wild mass of hair, shouted that the university had no right to arrest Weinberg.

The result was a series of sit-in demonstrations, mass arrests and continuing uncertainty over university discipline.

The next uproar was touched off by nonstudent John Thomson, 23. A long-haired New Yorker who says he has shoes but goes barefoot, Thomson paraded the campus with a crude sign. On it was an obscene four-letter word.

Nonstudents Figure

Nonstudents figured prominently in the still unsettled crisis which ensued. It involved the president of the university system, the Berkeley chancellor, the board of regents, the faculty, the state Legislature and the governor.

Six nonstudents and three students were arrested for shouting the obscene word. They contended they were exercising free speech.

Later some were chased off campus for selling a noncampus magazine, "The Spider," which featured the same obscenity.

Savio contended the ban was censorship, but the magazine is on sale in a Student Union shop.

Nonstudents are running the show at the university, says Capt. William Beall of the Berkeley police. One of his officers attends every demonstration and has built up a fat file.

Nonstudents are not running the show, retort free speech leaders. They say police exaggerated the number of nonstudents involved in last December's massive campus sit-in, which brought nearly 800 arrests.

Takes Over Microphone

Acting Chancellor Martin Meyerson declined to answer a written question whether nonstudents were the moving force in the campus troubles.

The nonstudent himself is more talkative.

Wednesday, for example, a long-haired young man in a beret and blue jeans took over a university microphone on the steps of the administration building. He said he was Steve Decanio, a Berkeley graduate, formerly of the University of Oklahoma and San Francisco State College, and now on the staff of "The Spider."

Decanio, one of those arrested in the obscenity case, told the noon crowd: "We cannot allow the content of speech on the campus to be regulated. This is specifically prohibited by the Academic Senate resolution of Dec. 8 and by the U.S. Constitution."

The university, he said, "needs a left-wing radical magazine."

Left and radical are terms readily acceptable to students and nonstudents in several political organizations. These range from various Socialist groups to the "May Second Movement" espousing China's brand of communism.

All such groups must be quartered off campus, but they are represented daily at the main entrance, proclaiming such slogans as "Stop war in Viet Nam."

Number Secret

They collect funds, sell buttons, pass out propaganda.

No one can or will say how many nonstudents are involved.

Said police Capt. Beall, "My impression is that the main leadership is nonstudent. Some are former students, but many never have been affiliated with the university in any way."

This is heatedly disputed by Hal Draper, a university library employe who says he is an independent Socialist.

"After the Sproul Hall sit-in demonstration which led to the mass arrests, one policeman came up with a fanciful figure on outsiders involved," Draper said. "He had to trim it down sharply because it was clearly shown that four out of five were students."

Draper ignored his own implication that 20 per cent were nonstudents.

Goateed Eric Robinson, 21, said he came to Berkeley after being deported from Mexico for picketing the U.S. Embassy to protest American policy in Viet Nam. He is one of many.

What draws them to Berkeley?

Dr. Harvey Powelson, chief of the psychiatric clinic at the Student Health Center, said: "Many of these kids keep wandering from campus to campus. They want to be where the action is. Here they can live cheaply in a good climate. They're within walking distance of the campus."

Why can't authorities on and off the campus control nonstudent intruders?

Dr. Arthur M. Ross, an industrial professor who heads a faculty trouble-shooting committee, said, "It is not clear to us, or to the Berkeley police, what tools are available for dealing with them, this may require legislation."

Berkeley police emphasize that they have no responsibility to enforce university rules and that they don't police the campus unless the university's own police force asks assistance.

"We may need some new state laws," Capt. Beall said.

At the main gate of the university, metal plaques imbedded in the brick wall read: "University of California. "Property of the regents of the University of California. Permission to enter or pass over is revocable at any time."

Everybody walks right over them.

To Attend Library Meet

Leon Karpel, director of Mid-Hudson Libraries, the system with 50 members in Dutchess, Putnam, Greene, Columbia and Ulster Counties, and Edward Locke, assitant director, will attend a three-day conference on public library systems, in Binghamton, April 1-3. The Public Library Systems Conference has been called by the Division of Library Extension, New York State Library, to review the goals and problems of systems in New York State.

Crisis on the Campus

Penetrating Look Taken At Berkeley Situation

By HAROLD V. STREETER

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — The arrest of a nonstudent led to the Free Speech Movement on the University of California's troubled Berkeley campus.

A nonstudent triggered an obscenity incident which almost toppled the university's administration.

Nonstudents use loudspeakers provided by the university to harangue campus crowds with their views on the university.

How much of the six-months crisis at Berkeley is attributable to the nonstudens on a campus of 27,000 students?

Very Controversial

It is a most controversial question.

The trouble began last fall when nonstudent Jack Weinberg, 24, was arrested while collecting funds on the campus for the Congress of Racial Equality. A fulltime activist with handlebar moustache, he sat cheerfully in a university police car for 32 hours while students surrounded it.

Mario Savio, then a student but since withdrawn, stood atop the car and harangued the crowd. Savio, 22, a New Yorker with a wild mass of hair, shouted that the university had no right to arrest Weinberg.

The result was a series of sit-in demonstrations, mass arrests and continuing uncertainty over university discipline.

The next uproar was touched off by nonstudent John Thomson, 23. A long-haired New Yorker who says he has shoes but goes barefoot, Thomson paraded the campus with a crude sign. On it was an obscene four-letter word.

Nonstudents Figure

Nonstudents figured prominently in the still unsettled crisis which ensued. It involved the president of the university system, the Berkeley chancellor, the board of regents, the faculty, the state Legislature and the governor.

Six nonstudents and three students were arrested for shouting the obscene word. They contended they were exercising free speech.

Later some were chased off campus for selling a noncampus magazine, "The Spider," which featured the same obscenity.

Savio contended the ban was censorship, but the magazine is on sale in a Student Union shop.

Nonstudents are running the show at the university, says Capt. William Beall of the Berkeley police. One of his officers attends every demonstration and has built up a fat file.

Nonstudents are not running the show, retort free speech leaders. They say police exaggerated the number of nonstudents involved in last December's massive campus sit-in, which brought nearly 800 arrests.

Takes Over Microphone

Acting Chancellor Martin Meyerson declined to answer a written question whether nonstudents were the moving force in the campus troubles.

The nonstudent himself is more talkative.

Wednesday, for example, a long-haired young man in a beret and blue jeans took over a university microphone on the steps of the administration building. He said he was Steve Decanio, a Berkeley graduate, formerly of the University of Oklahoma and San Francisco State College, and now on the staff of "The Spider."

Decanio, one of those arrested in the obscenity case, told the noon crowd: "We cannot allow the content of speech on the campus to be regulated. This is specifically prohibited by the Academic Senate resolution of Dec. 8 and by the U.S. Constitution."

The university, he said, "needs a left-wing radical magazine."

Left and radical are terms readily acceptable to students and nonstudents in several political organizations. These range from various Socialist groups to the "May Second Movement" espousing China's brand of communism.

All such groups must be quartered off campus, but they are represented daily at the main entrance, proclaiming such slogans as "Stop war in Viet Nam."

Number Secret

They collect funds, sell buttons, pass out propaganda.

No one can or will say how many nonstudents are involved.

Said police Capt. Beall, "My impression is that the main leadership is nonstudent. Some are former students, but many never have been affiliated with the university in any way."

This is heatedly disputed by Hal Draper, a university library employe who says he is an independent Socialist.

"After the Sproul Hall sit-in demonstration which led to the mass arrests, one policeman came up with a fanciful figure on outsiders involved," Draper said. "He had to trim it down sharply because it was clearly shown that four out of five were students."

Draper ignored his own implication that 20 per cent were nonstudents.

Goateed Eric Robinson, 21, said he came to Berkeley after being deported from Mexico for picketing the U.S. Embassy to protest American policy in Viet Nam. He is one of many.

What draws them to Berkeley?

Dr. Harvey Powelson, chief of the psychiatric clinic at the Student Health Center, said: "Many of these kids keep wandering from campus to campus. They want to be where the action is. Here they can live cheaply in a good climate. They're within walking distance of the campus."

Why can't authorities on and off the campus control nonstudent intruders?

Dr. Arthur M. Ross, an industrial professor who heads a faculty trouble-shooting committee, said, "It is not clear to us, or to the Berkeley police, what tools are available for dealing with them, this may require legislation."

Berkeley police emphasize that they have no responsibility to enforce university rules and that they don't police the campus unless the university's own police force asks assistance.

"We may need some new state laws," Capt. Beall said.

At the main gate of the university, metal plaques imbedded in the brick wall read: "University of California. Property of the regents of the University of California. Permission to enter or pass over is revocable at any time."

Everybody walks right over them.

To Attend Library Meet

Leon Karpel, director of Mid-Hudson Libraries, the system with 50 members in Dutchess, Putnam, Greene, Columbia and Ulster Counties, and Edward Locke, assitant director, will attend a three-day conference on public library systems, in Binghamton, April 1-3. The Public Library Systems Conference has been called by the Division of Library Extension, New York State Library, to review the goals and problems of systems in New York State.

Mayor and Howard in Tiff Over Kingston's 5th Ward

Common Council Minority Leader James F. Howard (D) 10th Ward, in a statement today, asks Mayor John J. Schwenk to do something about what he considers poor conditions at the Kingston Point landfill refuse disposal area, and the mayor cites Howard for action which left the Fifth Ward without an alderman for nearly three months.

Howard reported conditions, which he said he had found on a Sunday inspection tour of the area, and in his reply the mayor said:

"The last time Mr. Howard showed concern for the residents of the Fifth Ward, it left them without representation in the Common Council for practically three months."

Howard said Council Majority Leader John Machione (R) 12th Ward was with him at the site Sunday.

"At a regular meeting of the Common Council July 7, 1964," Howard said, "a request for $1,300 was made by Mayor John J. Schwenk. After a lengthy discussion and questions by the Democratic alderman, it was learned by great dismay to the residents of the Fifth Ward that this money was for the purchase of a chain link fence for the new landfill project.

"The following promises were made by the present administration:

1. That every day this land was to be covered by at least two feet of fill.
2. Statements were made through the news media of all rubbish that was to be collected and dumped in this project.
3. Private collectors would be checked as to what they were dumping.

"To pass by this refill project everything looks normal. It is hidden by brush and huge piles of fill, but upon entering, this picture is shattered. Beyond the $1,300 link fencing, which surrounds the garages that houses the project equipment, not the project itself, you will find rubbish which includes: discarded tires, bottles, papers, toys, washing machines, refrigerators and parts, and to my dismay, refuse from the Kingston sewage plant, none of which has been covered by fill as promised.

"I was really distressed to think that the people of the Fifth Ward have been so deceived by the mayor.

"I definitely believe that this eyesore and health hazard should be cleared up, and I call upon the mayor to take appropriate action."

In his reply, the mayor referred to Howard's action in signing a petition, which led to a long legal dispute over the post of alderman in the Fifth, and which ended with a decision by the State Court of Appeals favoring the mayor's appointment of William Sinsabaugh, who is to remain in office to the end of this year. Sinsabaugh was named after Anthony J. Alecca resigned last fall citing health reasons.

Search for Girl Ends

TYRONE, Pa. (AP)—An investigation was continuing today into the disappearance of a 6-year-old Tyrone girl but an official search no longer was being made.

The search for Kathy Shea was discontinued Sunday at the request of state police, said R. K. Meredith, civil defense director for the Tyrone area.

The girl disappeared while en route from her home to kindergarten March 18.

NEW YORK (AP) — Rail merger candidates faded after showing some early strength and the stock market moved irregularly early this afternoon.

Gains and losses of fractions to a point or so among key stocks peppered the list. Trading was moderately active.

Immediately following news that examiners of the Interstate Commerce Commission had recommended merger of the New York Central and Pennsylvania railroads, Central rose a point and a half and Pennsy a fraction.

Later the stocks were sold heavily, Central erasing its gain and showing a net loss of half a point while Pennsy was down to a net loss of nearly 2 points.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .3 at 333.8 with industrials up 1.0, rails off .1 and utilities up .1.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up .24 at 891.90.

How It Was Named

Legend has it that the settlement of Lexington, Ky., was named 1775 by a group of hunters who received news of the Battle of Lexington just as they were building a cabin on the site.

To Honor First 'Gray Rider'

Troopers' Association Asks Monument to Col. Chandler

A resolution will be submitted by the New York State Chapter of the National Association of Former State Troopers, in an endeavor to secure a mandate for the appropriation of necessary funds to be used for the erection of a statue eulogizing the memory of the original "Gray Rider."

Old Style Uniform

The figure would consist of a trooper, attired in the old dress, of peg pants and leggings mounted on a horse. It would be sculptured in stone and completed by 1967, which incidentally is the 50th or golden anniversary of the organization of the New York State Police.

It is planned, that this memorial be placed on what is now designated as Route 587, a loop highway running from the City of Kingston to the State Thruway.

A civic delegation in Kingston is planning at this time to have this roadway changed to an appropriate name, honoring the late Colonel George Chandler, first superintendent of the State Police, who organized the state constabulary in Kingston in 1917.

Significant Locale

Additional significance can be afforded this location, historically, because of the fact that at The entire membership of the Association, as well as its many friends, share a dedicated and determined feeling, that the erection of this statue, in a larger sense, is actually small compensation, for 50 years of faithful and honorable service to the citizens of New York State.

In this connection, it must be remembered, that Canada has accordingly paid honored tribute to its "Mountie" and the State of Texas, has also afforded their famous Texas "Ranger", a similar niche, in her renowned history.

The State Chapter officials feel that the people of the state should pay equal homage to their first professional policeman, who also instituted his initial activities while mounted on a horse.

Used As Model

The state police organization became a pattern, which so many other states in this country, both duplicated as well as adopted, in creating the many state police units which are in existence at the present time.

Sponsors of the movement say that although this memorial would be primarily dedicated to the original "Gray Rider" it could become a policeman's shrine, serving to hallow the memory of all peace officers in this state, among whom there have been many who sacrificed their lives in the performance of duty.

"Complete realization is made of the fact that this mandate will be met with unfavorable comment and reaction from many members of the legislature," an organization spokesman said. "Unquestionably, this attitude will be more prevalent at this session than under normal circumstances, especially when the state budget in under such close scrutiny, with the proposed new tax programs.

"Regardless, an appropriation such as this would be a pittance among the many other proposals which will be under consideration," the spokesman said. "Among them, there are undoubtedly, a number which should warrant a great deal less consideration, than this particular project."

A statement released by the State Chapter said that for so many years, the state police were among the most underpaid employes in this state. Along with this situation, in the period between 1930 and 1938, all mandatory salary increases were completely suspended. In those years a trooper was on duty 24 hours a day, with one night off in a week, three off a month, with the exception of the months between May and October.

The association contends that enactment of this mandate would be necessary in this year's session of the legislature, predicated on the fact that from estimates already obtained from individual sculptors, it has been indicated, that the figure would take at least a year to complete.

Kerhonkson P-TA Group Will Meet Tuesday

Edward T. Green, superintendent of Schools for the Rondout Valley Central School District, will address the regular meeting of the Kerhonkson PTA Tuesday, March 30 at 8 p. m. The proposed new "Middle School" will be discussed.

Since this proposition affects the school experiences of the 5th and 6th grade levels, it is hoped there will be a large turnout. All members of the community are invited to attend.

Parents may visit classrooms for parent-teacher conferences from 7:30 to 8 p. m. A short business meeting also will be part of the evening's program. Refreshments, provided by the third-grade mothers, will be served.

Old Thompson

was followed by an alarm from Box 2251, East Strand and Abruyn Street at 4:25 p. m. They mobilized units from Central and Cornell Stations, Wicks, Union, Rapid and Cordts companies with Deputy Chief Robert W. Hardwick in charge.

Max Millens today said he had not completed his check on the fire loss and was unable, at the time, to estimate the extent of it.

Detective Gurnsey Burger and Acting Detective Floyd Krom were assigned to investigate the Hunter Street fire.

A Doctors' ambulance stood by at the Hunter Street fire.

Chile Quake

Santiago, families moved from their shattered homes into the streets for the night.

Shower of Rocks

Devastation was also reported in the towns of San Felipe, Los Andes, La Liqua, Cabildo and Illapel, all north of the capital.

In Santiago, one person was reported killed and about 40 injured as they fled from shaking buildings.

The quake, which registered 10 on the Richter scale of 12, sent avalanches of rocks and debris tumbling down Chile's Andean peaks.

The giant earth shocks knocked out telephone service north of Santiago and badly damaged power lines and radio transmitting equipment.

Cave-ins at a sandpit at Quillota, near Llay-Llay, trapped about 100 miners, but most escaped.

The copper-mining village of El Cobre was a scene of despair and desolation. Minister of Mines Eduard Simian said the area was devastated, covered with water and mud up to 25 feet deep.

Saranac Student Is Oratorical Contest Winner

John Murphy, a student at Pius X High School at Saranac Lake, N. Y. was winner of the Region Two American Legion Oratorical Contest today at Highland Junior-Senior High School at Highland. He thus represents the states of New York, Connecticut, Rhode Island and New Jersey and becomes eligible to compete in the Sectional Finals April 5 in Wolfboro, N. H.

Judges for this morning's competition were Howard C. St. John, Kingston attorney; Dr. Dale B. Lake, president of Ulster County Community College; Richard McCabe, Poughkeepsie attorney; Robert McKinney, dean of Dutchess Community College; Dr. Harold Hodgkinson, dean of Bard College, Annandale-on-Hudson and the Rev. Clarance Brown, chaplain, Ulster County American Legion.

John C. Miller, guidance director at the Highland Junior-Senior High, was contest chairman. Among those present for the contest was Dr. William J. Burns of Albany, past department vice commander, Department of New York.

The 1965 oratorical contest finals will take place April 8 in Oregon at which time the national winner will be decided. The winner will receive a $4,000 scholarship. This is the 28th year of the national AL competition. Last year's competition drew 350,000 aspirants.

42 Bombers

the sources said. Talks on the situation in Peking are being dragged out by the Chinese, they added.

One of the main items involved is antiaircraft missiles, the sources said.

The Chinese move apparently is intended to allow Peking to continue charging Moscow with inadequate support of Hanoi and to force the Soviet Union into a publicized program of aid to the Viet Cong in South Viet Nam. This would strain relations between the Soviet Union and the United States, an aim of Peking's policy.

Snow, Sleet Here Causes Hazardous Road Conditions

Snow mixed with sleet—and a drizzle of rain in some parts—fell on Ulster County communities today — the 10th day of Spring (according to the calendar) and caused hazardous driving conditions outside the City of Kingston.

The storm moved in from the northwest before 7 a. m.

A spokesman for the County Highway Department reported at 11:30 a. m. that all sanding equipment with crews had been ordered out to cover the entire county. Slippery conditions were first reported in the western section of the county and later complaints of similar conditions came in from all parts of Ulster.

The Kingston Department of Public Works reported at 11:35 a. m. that it had not been necessary to send sanding crews into action in the city up until that hour.

One highway mishap attributed to weather conditions was reported by Kingston State Police.

State Trooper Thomas Searles of Kingston sub-station reported Kathleen Pritchitt, 18, of Route 4, Saugerties, escaped injury at 8:55 a. m. today when her car skidded on snow-covered Glasco Turnpike at Mt. Marion and hit a house-trailer. The trooper said the trailer is owned by George Hayes.

Accept Contract

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) —Union leaders accepted a new three - year contract Sunday night, ending an 11-day strike which idled 85 per cent of the nation's glass container industry.

A spokesman for the Glass Bottle Blowers Association said telegrams were being sent to all union locals advising them to return to work as soon as possible. About 32,000 union members struck March 18 and another 8,000 workers were idled by the strike.

in an intense effort to identify capable young people in our area who, for financial reasons, may not even be considering college attendance. They express the hope that every parent and every citizen in the community will join in this effort to identfy young people whose college attendance might be assured through the support provided by the Work Study Program. The increased demands being put upon all of our citizens by our complex society make it clear that all qualified students should seek as much education as possible, they declare. The community, as an agent of the community, feels deeply its commitment to provide a broad range of programs to meet the interests and needs of people of vastly divergent interests, abilities and aspirations. It is believed that the Work Study Program will help the College to attain its goal.

cluded an original song composed for the ceremony by Mrs. Jean T. Landsman, glee club director and Mrs. Ina Roidl, sixth grade teacher. The lyric is as follows:

K stands for kindness he gave willingly; E means eternal his memory will be; N's are for nations in peace may they live; E is for effort he always did give; D stands for dedication given with love and Y stands for you who look down from above.

A flute solo was played by Jacqueline Steltz.

General chairman of the dedication was Hubert Hoderath. Refreshments were served after the ceremony and open house.

Big Family Calls For Insurance, Cash

ROGER E. SPEAR

Q) "We think we are ready to start investing and want your advice. First, however, do you think we have enough insurance and cash reserves for our circumstances? We are in our middle 30's, have seven children—aged infancy to 8—with one child temporarily crippled. We have six months living expenses in the bank and my husband carries $15,000 insurance. Our goal is to provide security for the handicapped child and education for the rest."—D. G.

A) I congratulate you on a wonderful family and offer my sympathy for your handicapped child.

I'm sorry to say that I feel you have insufficient cash reserves and insurance to start an investment program. In my opinion, you should—with your big family—increase your cash reserves up to at least a year's living expenses; and your husband's insurance should be built up to at least $50,000 — which would furnish you safely with no more than $2,500 annual income in the event of his death.

When you have accomplished these two objectives, write to me again and I will be very pleased to suggest investments.

Q) "I have some series H bonds soon to mature. Do they continue to draw interest or must they be renewed? Also, I have $1,200 in series E bonds, must I wait until they mature?" —M. J.

A) All series H saving bonds issued up to 1957 have been guaranteed automatic extension.

I have no doubt that when the 1957 and subsequently issued bonds approach maturity, these, too, will be automatically renewed. Since the lowest denomination in series H is $500, you can exchange only $1,000 of your series E bonds.

This can be done at any time —there is no need to wait for maturity.

Usually, your own bank will take care of the exchange, supplying you with a form which must be filled out before the series E bonds can be switched into series H.

Area Chapter Of Fordham Club Names Chaplain

The Rev. Terrance A. McVeigh, SJ., was named chaplain of the Mid-Hudson Valley Chapter of the Fordham University Club of New York at a recent meeting of the board of directors.

Father McVeigh is currently assistant professor of English at St. Andrews-on-Hudson, Poughkeepsie. He is a graduate of the Fordham Graduate School of Arts and Sciences.

The chapter, organized last December includes Fordham University alumni from Dutchess, Ulster, Putnam and Orange Counties. There are now 460 alumni in this area.

Plans were announced for a post-Lenten party late in April or early May at the board meeting held in the Villager Restaurant, Hudson Plaza, Poughkeepsie. A general membership meeting will be held late in May. Those on the Alumni Federation mailing list will be notified. Anyone not on the list should contact R. V. Frei, 32 Brian Road, Wappingers Falls, 12590.

Officers attending were Joseph Bonura, Kingston, a director; also, Frank Mylod, Poughkeepsie; Michael Gilligan, Newburgh; Richard Dunn, Gardiner, all directors; William J. Ciolko, Poughkeepsie, president; Dr. Richard Kontrimas, Poughkeepsie, vice president; Frei, secretary and John Wolf, Pleasant Valley, treasurer.

The board also discussed the possibility of a bus trip to one of the football games of Fordham in the fall and trips to other Fordham athletic events.

knowledge our constitutional right to petition you."

Craig told newsmen in Atlanta it would be unfair of the President to ignore them since he has talked personally with civil rights leaders.

Comment Made

"We feel that the President has seen left-wing leaders so many times that it is only right that he recognize the right-wing leaders also," Craig said.

The presidential request for a probe picked up Republican backing during the weekend. It came from Sens. Clifford P. Case of New Jersey and Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania plus 21 members of the House.

House Democratic Leader Carl Albert of Oklahoma predicted Congress will uphold the President by acting swiftly on any legislation which he proposes.

Mayor and Howard in Tiff Over Kingston's 5th Ward

Common Council Minority Leader James F. Howard (D) 10th Ward, in a statement today, asks Mayor John J. Schwenk to do something about what he considers poor conditions at the Kingston Point landfill refuse disposal area, and the mayor cites Howard for action which left the Fifth Ward without an alderman for nearly three months.

Howard reported conditions, which he said he had found on a Sunday inspection tour of the area, and in his reply the mayor said:

"The last time Mr. Howard showed concern for the residents of the Fifth Ward, it left them without representation in the Common Council for practically three months."

Howard said Council Majority Leader John Machione (R) 12th Ward was with him at the site Sunday.

"At a regular meeting of the Common Council July 7, 1964," Howard said, "a request for $1,300 was made by Mayor John J. Schwenk. After a lengthy discussion and questions by the Democratic alderman, it was learned by great dismay to the residents of the Fifth Ward that this money was for the purchase of a chain link fence for the new landfill project.

"The following promises were made by the present administration:

1. That every day this land was to be covered by at least two feet of fill.

2. Statements were made through the news media of all rubbish that was to be collected and dumped in this project.

3. Private collectors would be checked as to what they were dumping.

"To pass by this refill project everything looks normal. It is hidden by brush and huge piles of fill, but upon entering, this picture is shattered. Beyond the $1,300 link fencing, which surrounds the garages that houses the project equipment, not the project itself, you will find rubbish which includes: discarded tires, bottles, papers, toys, washing machines, refrigerators and parts, and to my dismay, refuse from the Kingston sewage plant, none of which has been covered by fill as promised.

"I was really distressed to think that the people of the Fifth Ward have been so deceived by the mayor.

"I definitely believe that this eyesore and health hazard should be cleared up, and I call upon the mayor to take appropriate action."

In his reply, the mayor referred to Howard's action in signing a petition, which led to a long legal dispute over the post of alderman in the Fifth, and which ended with a decision by the State Court of Appeals favoring the mayor's appointment of William Sinsabaugh, who is to remain in office to the end of this year. Sinsabaugh was named after Anthony J. Alecca resigned last fall citing health reasons.

Search for Girl Ends

TYRONE, Pa. (AP)—An investigation was continuing today into the disappearance of a 6-year-old Tyrone girl but an official search no longer was being made.

The search for Kathy Shea was discontinued Sunday at the request of state police, said R. K. Meredith, civil defense director for the Tyrone area.

The girl disappeared while en route from her home to kindergarten March 18.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — Rail merger candidates faded after showing some early strength and the stock market moved irregularly early this afternoon.

Gains and losses of fractions to a point or so among key stocks peppered the list. Trading was moderately active.

Immediately following news that examiners of the Interstate Commerce Commission had recommended merger of the New York Central and Pennsylvania railroads, Central rose a point and a half and Pennsy a fraction.

Later the stocks were sold heavily, Central erasing its gain and showing a net loss of half a point while Pennsy was down to a net loss of nearly 2 points.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .3 at 333.8 with industrials up 1.0, rails off .1 and utilities up .1.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up .24 at 891.90.

How It Was Named

Legend has it that the settlement of Lexington, Ky., was named 1775 by a group of hunters who received news of the Battle of Lexington just as they were building a cabin on the site.

To Honor First 'Gray Rider'

Troopers' Association Asks Monument to Col. Chandler

A resolution will be submitted by the New York State Chapter of the National Association of Former State Troopers, in an endeavor to secure a mandate for the appropriation of necessary funds to be used for the erection of a statue eulogizing the memory of the original "Gray Rider."

Old Style Uniform

The figure would consist of a trooper, attired in the old dress, of peg pants and leggings mounted on a horse. It would be sculptured in stone and completed by 1967, which incidentally is the 50th or golden anniversary of the organization of the New York State Police.

It is planned, that this memorial be placed on what is now designated as Route 587, a loop highway running from the City of Kingston to the State Thruway.

A civic delegation in Kingston is planning at this time to have this roadway changed to an appropriate name, honoring the late Colonel George Chandler, first superintendent of the State Police, who organized the state constabulary in Kingston in 1917.

Significant Locale

Additional significance can be afforded this location, historically, because of the fact that at The entire membership of the Association, as well as its many friends, share a dedicated and determined feeling, that the erection of this statue, in a larger sense, is actually small compensation, for 50 years of faithful and honorable service to the citizens of New York State.

In this connection, it must be remembered, that Canada has accordingly paid honored tribute to its "Mountie" and the State of Texas, has also afforded their famous Texas "Ranger", a similar niche, in her renowned history.

The State Chapter officials feel that the people of the state should pay equal homage to their first professional policeman, who also instituted his initial activities while mounted on a horse.

Used As Model

The state police organization became a pattern, which so many other states in this country, both duplicated as well as adopted, in creating the many state police units which are in existence at the present time.

Sponsors of the movement say that although this memorial would be primarily dedicated to the original "Gray Rider" it could become a policeman's shrine, serving to hallow the memory of all peace officers in this state, among whom there have been many who sacrificed their lives in the performance of duty.

"Complete realization is made of the fact that this mandate will be met with unfavorable comment and reaction from many members of the legislature," an organization spokesman said. "Unquestionably, this attitude will be more prevalent at this session than under normal circumstances, especially when the state budget in under such close scrutiny, with the proposed new tax programs.

"Regardless, an appropriation such as this would be a pittance among the many other proposals which will be under consideration," the spokesman said. "Among them, there are undoubtedly, a number which should warrant a great deal less consideration, than this particular project."

A statement released by the State Chapter said that for so many years, the state police were among the most underpaid employes in this state. Along with this situation, in the period between 1930 and 1938, all mandatory salary increases were completely suspended. In those years a trooper was on duty 24 hours a day, with one night off in a week, three off a month, with the exception of the months between May and October.

The association contends that enactment of this mandate would be necessary in this year's session of the legislature, predicated on the fact that from estimates already obtained from individual sculptors, it has been indicated, that the figure would take at least a year to complete.

Kerhonkson P-TA Group Will Meet Tuesday

Edward T. Green, superintendent of Schools for the Rondout Valley Central School District, will address the regular meeting of the Kerhonkson PTA Tuesday, March 30 at 8 p. m. The proposed new "Middle School" will be discussed.

Since this proposition affects the school experiences of the 5th and 6th grade levels, it is hoped there will be a large turnout. All members of the community are invited to attend.

Parents may visit classrooms for parent-teacher conferences from 7:30 to 8 p. m. A short business meeting also will be part of the evening's program. Refreshments, provided by the third-grade mothers, will be served.

Old Thompson

was followed by an alarm from Box 2251, East Strand and Abruyn Street at 4:25 p. m. They mobilized units from Central and Cornell Stations, Wicks, Union, Rapid and Cordts companies with Deputy Chief Robert W. Hardwick in charge.

Max Millens today said he had not completed his check on the fire loss and was unable, at the time, to estimate the extent of it.

Detective Gurnsey Burger and Acting Detective Floyd Krom were assigned to investigate the Hunter Street fire.

A Doctors' ambulance stood by at the Hunter Street fire.

Chile Quake

Santiago, families moved from their shattered homes into the streets for the night.

Shower of Rocks

Devastation was also reported in the towns of San Felipe, Los Andes, La Liqua, Cabildo and Illapel, all north of the capital.

In Santiago, one person was reported killed and about 40 injured as they fled from shaking buildings.

The quake, which registered 10 on the Richter scale of 12, sent avalanches of rocks and debris tumbling down Chile's Andean peaks.

The giant earth shocks knocked out telephone service north of Santiago and badly damaged power lines and radio transmitting equipment.

Cave-ins at a sandpit at Quillota, near Llay-Llay, trapped about 100 miners, but most escaped.

The copper-mining village of El Cobre was a scene of despair and desolation. Minister of Mines Eduard Simian said the area was devastated, covered with water and mud up to 25 feet deep.

Saranac Student Is Oratorical Contest Winner

John Murphy, a student at Pius X High School at Saranac Lake, N. Y. was winner of the Region Two American Legion Oratorical Contest today at Highland Junior-Senior High School at Highland. He thus represents the states of New York, Connecticut, Rhode Island and New Jersey and becomes eligible to compete in the Sectional Finals April 5 in Wolfboro, N. H.

Judges for this morning's competition were Howard C. St. John, Kingston attorney; Dr. Dale B. Lake, president of Ulster County Community College; Richard McCabe, Poughkeepsie attorney; Robert McKinney, dean of Dutchess Community College; Dr. Harold Hodgkinson, dean of Bard College, Annandale-on-Hudson and the Rev. Clarance Brown, chaplain, Ulster County American Legion.

John C. Miller, guidance director at the Highland Junior-Senior High, was contest chairman. Among those present for the contest was Dr. William J. Burns of Albany, past department vice commander, Department of New York.

The 1965 oratorical contest finals will take place April 8 in Oregon at which time the national winner will be decided. The winner will receive a $4,000 scholarship. This is the 28th year of the national AL competition. Last year's competition drew 350,000 aspirants.

42 Bombers

the sources said. Talks on the situation in Peking are being dragged out by the Chinese, they added.

One of the main items involved is antiaircraft missiles, the sources said.

The Chinese move apparently is intended to allow Peking to continue charging Moscow with inadequate support of Hanoi and to force the Soviet Union into a publicized program of aid to the Viet Cong in South Viet Nam. This would strain relations between the Soviet Union and the United States, an aim of Peking's policy.

Snow, Sleet Here Causes Hazardous Road Conditions

Snow mixed with sleet—and a drizzle of rain in some parts—fell on Ulster County communities today — the 10th day of Spring (according to the calendar) and caused hazardous driving conditions outside the City of Kingston.

The storm moved in from the northwest before 7 a. m.

A spokesman for the County Highway Department reported at 11:30 a. m. that all sanding equipment with crews had been ordered out to cover the entire county. Slippery conditions were first reported in the western section of the county and later complaints of similar conditions came in from all parts of Ulster.

The Kingston Department of Public Works reported at 11:35 a. m. that it had not been necessary to send sanding crews into action in the city up until that hour.

One highway mishap attributed to weather conditions was reported by Kingston State Police.

State Trooper Thomas Searles of Kingston sub-station reported Kathleen Pritchitt, 18, of Route 4, Saugerties, escaped injury at 8:55 a. m. today when her car skidded on snow-covered Glasco Turnpike at Mt. Marion and hit a house-trailer. The trooper said the trailer is owned by George Hayes.

Accept Contract

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) —Union leaders accepted a new three - year contract Sunday night, ending an 11-day strike which idled 85 per cent of the nation's glass container industry.

A spokesman for the Glass Bottle Blowers Association said telegrams were being sent to all union locals advising them to return to work as soon as possible. About 32,000 union members struck March 18 and another 8,000 workers were idled by the strike.

in an intense effort to identify capable young people in our area who, for financial reasons, may not even be considering college attendance. They express the hope that every parent and every citizen in the community will join in this effort to identfy young people whose college attendance might be assured through the support provided by the Work Study Program. The increased demands being put upon all of our citizens by our complex society make it clear that all qualified students should seek as much education as possible, they declare. The community, as an agent of the community, feels deeply its commitment to provide a broad range of programs to meet the interests and needs of people of vastly divergent interests, abilities and aspirations. It is believed that the Work Study Program will help the College to attain its goal.

cluded an original song composed for the ceremony by Mrs. Jean T. Landsman, glee club director and Mrs. Ina Roidl, sixth grade teacher. The lyric is as follows:

K stands for kindness he gave willingly; E means eternal his memory will be; N's are for nations in peace may they live; E is for effort he always did give; D stands for dedication given with love and Y stands for you who look down from above.

A flute solo was played by Jacqueline Steltz.

General chairman of the dedication was Hubert Hoderath. Refreshments were served after the ceremony and open house.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING...

Big Family Calls For Insurance, Cash

Q) "We think we are ready to start investing and want your advice. First, however, do you think we have enough insurance and cash reserves for our circumstances? We are in our middle 30's, have seven children—aged infancy to 8—with one child temporarily crippled. We have six months living expenses in the bank and my husband carries $15,000 insurance. Our goal is to provide security for the handicapped child and education for the rest."—D. G.

A) I congratulate you on a wonderful family and offer my sympathy for your handicapped child.

I'm sorry to say that I feel you have insufficient cash reserves and insurance to start an investment program. In my opinion, you should—with your big family—increase your cash reserves up to at least a year's living expenses; and your husband's insurance should be built up to at least $50,000 — which would furnish you safely with no more than $2,500 annual income in the event of his death.

When you have accomplished these two objectives, write to me again and I will be very pleased to suggest investments.

Q) "I have some series H bonds soon to mature. Do they continue to draw interest or must they be renewed? Also, I have $1,200 in series E bonds, must I wait until they mature?" —M. J.

A) All series H saving bonds issued up to 1957 have been guaranteed automatic extension.

I have no doubt that when the 1957 and subsequently issued bonds approach maturity, these, too, will be automatically renewed. Since the lowest denomination in series H is $500, you can exchange only $1,000 of your series E bonds.

This can be done at any time —there is no need to wait for maturity.

Usually, your own bank will take care of the exchange, supplying you with a form which must be filled out before the series E bonds can be switched into series H.

Area Chapter Of Fordham Club Names Chaplain

The Rev. Terrance A. McVeigh, SJ., was named chaplain of the Mid-Hudson Valley Chapter of the Fordham University Club of New York at a recent meeting of the board of directors.

Father McVeigh is currently assistant professor of English at St. Andrews-on-Hudson, Poughkeepsie. He is a graduate of the Fordham Graduate School of Arts and Sciences.

The chapter, organized last December includes Fordham University alumni from Dutchess, Ulster, Putnam and Orange Counties. There are now 460 alumni in this area.

Plans were announced for a post-Lenten party late in April or early May at the board meeting held in the Villager Restaurant, Hudson Plaza, Poughkeepsie. A general membership meeting will be held late in May. Those on the Alumni Federation mailing list will be notified. Anyone not on the list should contact R. V. Frei, 32 Brian Road, Wappingers Falls, 12590.

Officers attending were Joseph Bonura, Kingston, a director; also, Frank Mylod, Poughkeepsie; Michael Gilligan, Newburgh; Richard Dunn, Gardiner, all directors; William J. Ciolko, Poughkeepsie, president; Dr. Richard Kontrimas, Poughkeepsie, vice president; Frei, secretary and John Wolf, Pleasant Valley, treasurer.

The board also discussed the possibility of a bus trip to one of the football games of Fordham in the fall and trips to other Fordham athletic events.

knowledge our constitutional right to petition you."

Craig told newsmen in Atlanta it would be unfair of the President to ignore them since he has talked personally with civil rights leaders.

Comment Made

"We feel that the President has seen left-wing leaders so many times that it is only right that he recognize the right-wing leaders also," Craig said.

The presidential request for a probe picked up Republican backing during the weekend. It came from Sens. Clifford P. Case of New Jersey and Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania plus 21 members of the House.

House Democratic Leader Carl Albert of Oklahoma predicted Congress will uphold the President by acting swiftly on any legislation which he proposes.

HOW TO SEAT GUESTS OF EQUAL IMPORTANCE

Q: Will you please tell me how to determine who is to be seated on the right of the hostess when there are two men of equally importat position prpesent? My husband and I are giving a dinner party for some of his business associates and their wives. Among them will be two vice presidents of large corporations.

A: If one of them has been to your house before and the other not, you would seat the latter on your right. If neither has been to your house, the older of the two gentlemen would be seated on your right and the other on your left.

A Frequent Weekend Guest

Q: Is it obligatory when one is a frequent weekend guest in the house of friends, to write a bread-and-butter letter to the hostess after each visit? To repeat the same things over and over seems rather senseless.

A: To be strictly correct, you should write a bread-and-butter letter after every visit, but I agree with you that it does seem to be overdoing politeness to write a note to a hostess in whose house you stay often. I hardly think she would consider you rude if you did not write a note after each and every visit.

Smoking Manners

Q: Isn't it very bad manners to talk with a cigarette dangling from the side of one's mouth?

A: It most certainly is very bad manners.

53rd Birthday Is Observed Locally By Haddassah

Members and guests of Kingston Chapter of Hadassah celebrated Hadassah's 53rd birthday at a general meeting on March 22 at Temple Emanuel.

The agenda of the business meeting, which was conducted by Mrs. Herbert Gertner, president, included a membership report by Mrs. Walter Susskind, membership chairman.

Mrs. Herbert Greenwald gave a current events report on politics in the Middle East. It was announced that Hadassah would conduct its Spring "New and Nearly New Shop" this week at 271 Fair Street under the chairmanship of Mrs. Al Horowitz. Mrs. Horowitz reviewed the vocational education work done by Hadassah in Israel and emphasized that this work would be promoted by the proceeds of the "New and Nearly New Shop."

Mrs. Irwin Gellen, chairman of the Jewish National Fund Drive, explained that this year there would be a one drive to be preceded by a kick-off breakfast at the home of Mrs. Herbert Gertner. April 6 is the day on which Mrs. Gellen and her coworkers will be on the road to collect the traditional Blue Boxes which assist the Jewish National Fund. Mrs. Carl Bernstein and Mrs. Murray Weiss are serving as Mrs. Gellen's co-chairmen Workers are still needed for this project and anyone who can assist should contact Mrs. Gellen.

A highlight of the meeting was the presentation of a Life Membership to Mrs. Al Horowitz. The presentation was made by Mrs. Oscar London who reviewed Mrs. Horowitz's service and dedication to the work of Hadassah and presented her with a Life Member's pin.

After the business meeting, members were entertained by a skit entitled "The Purim of the Mysterious Stranger." The skit was directed by Mrs. Arnold Pinsley, program chairman for the evening, and the cast included Arnold Pinsly, Harold Newman, Herbert Gertner, and the Mmes. Martin Cantor, Marilyn Carmi, Carl Lipton, Seymour Semilof, Seymour Werbalowsky, and Walter Suskind. Melvin Navy accompanied the cast at the piano. Refreshments which included a birthday cake for Hadassah were served by Mrs. Maurice Crystal.

HAS 90TH BIRTHDAY—Mrs. DeForest Bishop of Stone Ridge celebrated her 90th birthday on Sunday, March 28 with an open house party given at her home by her daughter Mrs. Roy E. Ransom and granddaughters Mrs. Robert Hornbeck and Mrs. Edmond J. O'Hara. Mrs. Bishop also has five great grandchildren: Ray, Carl, Martha, June Hornbeck, Edmond Jr., and Leonard O'Hara, and two great grandchildren, Sean and Tia O'Hara. Mrs. Bishop was feted also on February 22 at an organ recital and reception given in her honor at the Stone Ridge Methodist Church. Mrs. Bishop has been an active member of the church for 55 years. She has served on its official board for several years and has been president of its Women's Society for a total of 20 years. (Freeman photo)

HOW TO SEAT GUESTS OF EQUAL IMPORTANCE

Q: Will you please tell me how to determine who is to be seated on the right of the hostess when there are two men of equally importat position prpesent? My husband and I are giving a dinner party for some of his business associates and their wives. Among them will be two vice presidents of large corporations.

A: If one of them has been to your house before and the other not, you would seat the latter on your right. If neither has been to your house, the older of the two gentlemen would be seated on your right and the other on your left.

A Frequent Weekend Guest

Q: Is it obligatory when one is a frequent weekend guest in the house of friends, to write a bread-and-butter letter to the hostess after each visit? To repeat the same things over and over seems rather senseless.

A: To be strictly correct, you should write a bread-and-butter letter after every visit, but I agree with you that it does seem to be overdoing politeness to write a note to a hostess in whose house you stay often. I hardly think she would consider you rude if you did not write a note after each and every visit.

Smoking Manners

Q: Isn't it very bad manners to talk with a cigarette dangling from the side of one's mouth?

A: It most certainly is very bad manners.

53rd Birthday Is Observed Locally By Haddassah

Members and guests of Kingston Chapter of Hadassah celebrated Hadassah's 53rd birthday at a general meeting on March 22 at Temple Emanuel.

The agenda of the business meeting, which was conducted by Mrs. Herbert Gertner, president, included a membership report by Mrs. Walter Susskind, membership chairman.

Mrs. Herbert Greenwald gave a current events report on politics in the Middle East. It was announced that Hadassah would conduct its Spring "New and Nearly New Shop" this week at 271 Fair Street under the chairmanship of Mrs. Al Horowitz. Mrs. Horowitz reviewed the vocational education work done by Hadassah in Israel and emphasized that this work would be promoted by the proceeds of the "New and Nearly New Shop."

Mrs. Irwin Gellen, chairman of the Jewish National Fund Drive, explained that this year there would be a one drive to be preceded by a kick-off breakfast at the home of Mrs. Herbert Gertner, April 6 is the day on which Mrs. Gellen and her coworkers will be on the road to collect the traditional Blue Boxes which assist the Jewish National Fund. Mrs. Carl Bernstein and Mrs. Murray Weiss are serving as Mrs. Gellen's co-chairmen Workers are still needed for this project and anyone who can assist should contact Mrs. Gellen.

A highlight of the meeting was the presentation of a Life Membership to Mrs. Al Horowitz. The presentation was made by Mrs. Oscar London who reviewed Mrs. Horowitz's service and dedication to the work of Hadassah and presented her with a Life Member's pin.

After the business meeting, members were entertained by a skit entitled "The Purim of the Mysterious Stranger." The skit was directed by Mrs. Arnold Pinsley, program chairman for the evening, and the cast included Arnold Pinsly, Harold Newman, Herbert Gertner, and the Mmes, Martin Cantor, Marilyn Carmi, Carl Lipton, Seymour Semilof, Seymour Werbalowsky, and Walter Suskind. Melvin Navy accompanied the cast at the piano. Refreshments which included a birthday cake for Hadassah were served by Mrs. Maurice Crystal.

HAS 90TH BIRTHDAY—Mrs. DeForest Bishop of Stone Ridge celebrated her 90th birthday on Sunday, March 28 with an open house party given at her home by her daughter Mrs. Roy E. Ransom and granddaughters Mrs. Robert Hornbeck and Mrs. Edmond J. O'Hara. Mrs. Bishop also has five great grandchildren: Ray, Carl, Martha, June Hornbeck, Edmond Jr., and Leonard O'Hara, and two great grandchildren, Sean and Tia O'Hara. Mrs. Bishop was feted also on February 22 at an organ recital and reception given in her honor at the Stone Ridge Methodist Church. Mrs. Bishop has been an active member of the church for 55 years. She has served on its official board for several years and has been president of its Women's Society for a total of 20 years. (Freeman photo)

MR. AND MRS. OTTO KURT SCHEU

Kearney-Scheu Wedding Is Announced; Ceremony in Woodstock Church March 20th

Miss Lorraine Ann Kearney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Kearney of 52 Chapel Street, this city, exchanged marriage vows with Otto Kurt Scheu, son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Scheu of Woodstock.

The wedding ceremony took place on Saturday, March 20, 1965 in Christ Lutheran Church Woodstock. The Rev. Norman C. Krapf officiated with Mrs. Charles Russell as organist and Herman Steitz as soloist.

White gladioli and pompons decorated the church for the occasion.

Mrs. William Waterous of Woodstock was the matron of honor in a floor length gown of crystalline taffeta styled with white fitted bodice, scoop neckline, short sleeves, sheath skirt with cummerbund and floor length panels in French blue. A French blue flower held a four tiered veil. Mrs. Waterous carried a cascade of royal blue daisies.

Serving as attendants were Mrs. Robert Battaly of White Plains, N. Y., sister of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Richard Hilton of Woodstock. Their gowns were identical to that worn by the matron of honor except in white and powder blue. They carried cascade bouquets of light blue daisies.

William Scheffel of Ruby, served as best man for his brother-in-law. Ushering were Robert Ballaly of White Plains, brother-in-law of the bridegroom; and William Waterous of Woodstock.

A reception for 65 guests was given at the Governor Clinton Hotel. Afterwards the couple left on a wedding trip to Washington, and Virgina. For traveling, the bride wore a white two-piece wool suit with black accessories.

Mrs. Scheu is a graduate of Saugerties High School and is employed as a waitress by Ulster Hot Shoppe in Ruby, N. Y. Her husband, an alumnus of Onteora Central School, attended Norwich University and is now employed by IBM in Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Scheu plan to reside in West Hurley.

Rowe Will Discuss Bees at OES Meeting

A Buzzing Business will be the topic of an illustrated lecture by C. Edward Rowe of Rowe's Apiaries Friday, April 2, when Kingston Chapter, 155, O.E.S., honors the Master Masons. The Stars plan an interesting program which will be concluded with a covered dish supper.

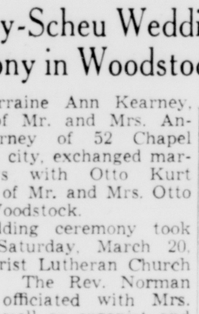

Rowe declares the average citizen does not realize the importance of the honey bee in the production of many of our foods. Many garden vegetables could not be produced in such quantity or of such good quality if it were not for the busy little bee, he declares.

The bee industry, which was considered more of a hobby some years back, has now become a necessary instrument in pollination. It is a very common practice for hives of bees to be used in greenhouses for the purpose of producing fancy flowers as well as improving the stock of others.

Home Extension Service News

High quality eggs are in demand according to Elizabeth D. Overbagh, assistant home demonstration agent, who submits the following article on the egg industry:

Today's egg industry is geared to year around production. Pullets replace laying hens as needed to keep production high. This tends to ensure a fairly constant supply and helps maintain a more uniform price. Cold storage of shell eggs, once practiced extensively, is no longer of economic importance in New York State.

Most retail eggs sold today have been washed in a sanitizing detergent. A film of the sanitizer is allowed to remain on the porous shell to help prevent bacteria from entering. The result: cleaner and higher quality eggs for the market.

Maintaining the original quality of an egg requires careful control of all the conditions which may cause loss in quality.

Responsible egg producers and packers must see that eggs are: gathered promptly, cooled quickly, cleaned, graded for size and quality, packaged and shipped under refrigeration to retail outlets.

Responsible retail store managers make sure that eggs are: refrigerated promptly, stored away from strong odors, displayed in refrigerated cases which are not overloaded and purchased in quantities that insure turnover of stock.

Wise consumers shopping in retail stores: purchase eggs by size and grade from refrigerated displays, buy amounts that can be used promptly, avoid delay in refrigerating eggs and store eggs in covered containers to prevent loss of moisture or absorption of refrigerated odors.

The color of the egg shell is determined by the breed of the hen. Shell color will not affect the quality of the egg or the nutritive value of the contents. Purchase eggs which are lowest in price for size and quality desired, not by the color of the shell.

The quality standard for eggs in New York State are AA, A, B, and C in order of decreasing quality. Few Grade AA eggs appear on the market. Almost 90 per cent of all the retail eggs marketed are Grade A. Eggs of lower grades are wholesome food, but have lost some of the qualities. Grade B and C eggs can be used in most baking or other cooking except where mild, subtle flavors are desired. One exception is that high-quality egg whites (Grade A or better) must be used for a successful angel food cake.

MR. AND MRS. OTTO KURT SCHEU

Kearney-Scheu Wedding Is Announced; Ceremony in Woodstock Church March 20th

Miss Lorraine Ann Kearney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Kearney of 52 Chapel Street, this city, exchanged marriage vows with Otto Kurt Scheu, son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Scheu of Woodstock.

The wedding ceremony took place on Saturday, March 20, 1965 in Christ Lutheran Church Woodstock. The Rev. Norman C. Krapf officiated with Mrs. Charles Russell as organist and Herman Steitz as soloist.

White gladioli and pompons decorated the church for the occasion.

Given in marriage by her brother Raymond Kearney, the bride wore a gown of organza and chantilly lace over silk taffeta. The gown was styled with a fitted lace bodice, scalloped sabrina neckline, long tapered sleeves and a sheath skirt with overskirt of lace. Her veil of English silk illusion was bouffant and she caried a cascade of white orchids with white pompons.

Mrs. William Waterous of Woodstock was the matron of honor in a floor length gown of crystalline taffeta styled with white fitted bodice, scoop neckline, short sleeves, sheath skirt with cummerbund and floor length panels in French blue. A French blue flower held a four tiered veil. Mrs. Waterous carried a cascade of royal blue daisies.

Serving as attendants were Mrs. Robert Battaly of White Plains, N. Y., sister of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Richard Hilton of Woodstock. Their gowns were identical to that worn by the matron of honor except in white and powder blue. They carried cascade bouquets of light blue daisies.

William Scheffel of Ruby, served as best man for his brother-in-law. Ushering were Robert Ballaly of White Plains, brother-in-law of the bridegroom; and William Waterous of Woodstock.

A reception for 65 guests was given at the Governor Clinton Hotel. Afterwards the couple left on a wedding trip to Washington, and Virgina. For traveling, the bride wore a white two-piece wool suit with black accessories.

Mrs. Scheu is a graduate of Saugerties High School and is employed as a waitress by Ulster Hot Shoppe in Ruby, N. Y. Her husband, an alumnus of Onteora Central School, attended Norwich University and is now employed by IBM in Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Scheu plan to reside in West Hurley.

Rowe Will Discuss Bees at OES Meeting

A Buzzing Business will be the topic of an illustrated lecture by C. Edward Rowe of Rowe's Apiaries Friday, April 2, when Kingston Chapter, 155, O.E.S., honors the Master Masons. The Stars plan an interesting program which will be concluded with a covered dish supper.

Rowe declares the average citizen does not realize the importance of the honey bee in the production of many of our foods. Many garden vegetables could not be produced in such quantity or of such good quality if it were not for the busy little bee, he declares.

The bee industry, which was considered more of a hobby some years back, has now become a necessary instrument in pollination. It is a very common practice for hives of bees to be used in greenhouses for the purpose of producing fancy flowers as well as improving the stock of others.

High quality eggs are in demand according to Elizabeth D. Overbagh, assistant home demonstration agent, who submits the following article on the egg industry:

Today's egg industry is geared to year around production. Pullets replace laying hens as needed to keep production high. This tends to ensure a fairly constant supply and helps maintain a more uniform price. Cold storage of shell eggs, once practiced extensively, is no longer of economic importance in New York State.

Most retail eggs sold today have been washed in a sanitizing detergent. A film of the sanitizer is allowed to remain on the porous shell to help prevent bacteria from entering. The result: cleaner and higher quality eggs for the market.

Maintaining the original quality of an egg requires careful control of all the conditions which may cause loss in quality.

Responsible egg producers and packers must see that eggs are: gathered promptly, cooled quickly, cleaned, graded for size and quality, packaged and shipped under refrigeration to retail outlets.

Responsible retail store managers make sure that eggs are: refrigerated promptly, stored away from strong odors, displayed in refrigerated cases which are not overloaded and purchased in quantities that insure turnover of stock.

Wise consumers shopping in retail stores: purchase eggs by size and grade from refrigerated displays, buy amounts that can be used promptly, avoid delay in refrigerating eggs and store eggs in covered containers to prevent loss of moisture or absorption of refrigerated odors.

The color of the egg shell is determined by the breed of the hen. Shell color will not affect the quality of the egg or the nutritive value of the contents. Purchase eggs which are lowest in price for size and quality desired, not by the color of the shell.

The quality standard for eggs in New York State are AA, A, B, and C in order of decreasing quality. Few Grade AA eggs appear on the market. Almost 90 per cent of all the retail eggs marketed are Grade A. Eggs of lower grades are wholesome food, but have lost some of the qualities. Grade B and C eggs can be used in most baking or other cooking except where mild, subtle flavors are desired. One exception is that high-quality egg whites (Grade A or better) must be used for a successful angel food cake.

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO

Freeman Sports Editor

Speaking of Sports:

It was nice to be on the winning side in the Golf Writers Association of America's annual balloting for the William D. Richardson Trophy for outstanding contribution to golf.

Three years running we have been submitting the name of Gene Sarazen, the Squire of Germantown. This time around we hit the jackpot.

The weekend announcement that the legendary man in the knickers has been selected for the 1965 award is recognition long overdue for one of the immortals of the game.

Beyond being an international figure in the sport, Gene Sarazen over the years has been a true friend of Ulster county golf. Many in the area will be happy to hear about the new accolade that has come Gene's way.

Player of the Decades:

Sarazen's remarkable longevity on the fairways is evidence by the history book statistics. He first won the National Open in 1922 and repeated 10 years. His first PGA championship came in 1923, the second 10 years later. In 1923, Sarazen captured the British Open, a title he has often said must be won by any golfer with authentic claim to greatness. Thirty-two and thirty-six years after his first U. S. Open triumph, Gene won the PGA Senior Nationals and world titles, in 1954 and 1958. He was six times a member of the United States Ryder Cup squad.

Sarazen's all-'round greatness and his articulate contributions to the game are sometimes overshadowed by the legendary "double eagle 2" in the 1935 Masters at Augusta. He fired a 220-yard spoon shot into the cup on the 485-yard 15th hole at the Augusta National. One of golf's greatest strokes it enabled Gene to tie with Craig Wood in the 1935 event. The next day he won the playoff by five strokes. Unless you have seen the 15th at Augusta, you can never fully comprehend the significance of that shot.

Innovations at Woodstock:

Woodstock Country Club will try an experiment this season—pairings and starting times for all major club tournaments. This is a first for area clubs. The golf committee feels the new setup will give tournaments greater prestige, identification for tournament players and, most important, is designed for better traffic control than the traditional 9 a. m. to 1 p. m. spread for starting times. . . . Woodstock also plans to combine its men's and women's club Seniors, with three men and a woman player making up the foursomes. The Seniors is for men 50 and over, for women —— and over. . . . The village links also will restore the traditional date for the annual Woodstock Open, the third Friday in August. . . . Herb Waterous, the Wykagyl Country Club head greenskeeper at Rochelle, up for the weekend, said Wykagyl has been playable all winter. Formal opening of the 1965 season scheduled next weekend. Wykagyl gets the Ike tournament in addition to the full-scale Palm Beach Round Robin this summer. . . .

The Nineteenth Hole:

Scuttlebutt has it that Bill Van Aken, the all-time Woodstock Country Club great, may serve without salary as Ulster Community College golf coach this season. . . . Isn't it time to stage an Ulster County Junior championship for boys and girls? . . . Dutchess Golf and Country Club switched to all-medal club championship in 1964 and were highly pleased with the results. We don't think Ulster County is ready for the change-over yet. Whereas Dutchess has many players capable of winning a 72-hole event, at any of the three area layouts—Woodstock, Wiltwyck and Twaalfskill—the result would be a foregone conclusion. It would be Bill Van Aken, George Hughes and Leon Randall against the field. . . . State Liquor Authority is cracking down on abuses of liquor licenses by private clubs, including golf clubs. More on that later.

COLD WEATHER TIP for the early bids: Wind can be deceptive on a chilly spring day. If you're not careful in your selection, most pros warn, you'll take too much club against it. . . . And that isn't good.

St. Mary's Team Gets 83-71 Win

Vince Fisher and Jim Williams rimmed 19 points each to lead St. Mary's of Kingston seniors to an, 83-71, win at St. James Danielson in Danielson, Conn., Sunday.

The upstate New York champions used a 27-point third period to defeat the Norwich Archdiocesan winners.

Aiding Fisher and Williams were Tony Toney and Bruce Ackert with 13 points each.

Philly Has Lead Over Cincinnati

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Philadelphia 76ers do not necessarily need prolific scoring from Wilt Chamberlain. Neither does the so-called disadvantage of playing on an opponent's floor bother them.

The 7-foot-1 Chamberlain scored just 17 points Sunday, but still led his team to an impressive 108-94 victory over the Cincinnati Royals in their semifinal playoffs in the National Basketball Association.

The victory gave Philadelphia a 2-1 edge in the best-of-5 Eastern Division series. The fourth game will be played in Philadelphia Wednesday night and the 76ers can wrap up the series with a victory. Both of Philadelphia's victories, however, have been here.

Baltimore also needs only one more victory to win the best-of-5 Western Division semifinals from the St. Louis Hawks. The Bullets moved into a 2-1 edge with a crushing 131-99 victory over the Hawks at Baltimore Saturday night. The Bullets-Hawks fourth game will be Tuesday night in Baltimore.

Toronto Blanks Red Wings, 4-0

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Toronto's Terry Sawchuk, who has captured the National Hockey League's Vezina Trophy in absentia, wants to share the credit — and the wealth — with his Maple Leaf goalie cronie, Johnny Bower.

If Bower happens to get shortchanged when the hardware is handed out, he can cry all the way to the bank.

The Toronto tandem nailed hockey's top goalie prize in the last game of the regular season when 40-year-old Bower blanked Detroit's league champions 4-0 Sunday night. That margin gave Sawchuk and Bower a 173-175 edge over the Red Wings and rookie Roger Crozier in goals allowed over the season.

The Vezina Trophy—and an accompanying bonus of $1,000 — goes to the goalie who plays the most games for the team least scored upon. Bower had a better goals-against average than Sawchuk but played in only 34 games, two less than Terry.

The Toronto pair agreed earlier to divide the cash if they won and Sawchuk said recently he would not accept the trophy unless Bower's name also was inscribed on it. The league, however, says Sawchuk's name will be the only one on the trophy.

Name or not, Bower will pocket $250 more than Sawchuk — if they split the $1,000 — by virtue of his league-leading defensive record in the second half of the season. Charlie Hodge of Montreal, the 1963-64 Vezina winner, received $250 for leading through the first-half.

Boston beat Chicago 3-1, and Montreal stopped New York 5-3 in Sunday night's other games.

Kart Opening Is Slated, April 4

Competition Kart racing resumes at Kart Wheelers Raceway, Inc. in Clintondale on April 4 at 2 p. m. Practice will begin at 1 p. m. and the track will open at 12 noon.

The raceway will operate in accordance with the International Kart Federation's 1965 rules and regulations. In addition to the regular I.K.F. classes, an additional class for Clinton and 4-cycle engines will be run both for Senior and Junior drivers.

Rosendale Sportsmen Slate Outdoor Film

A film "Wilderness Day" will be shown at the Friday, April 2, meeting of the Rosendale Sportsmen's Association Inc., at the Clubhouse in Tillson.

This is a color film showing two experienced woodsmen canoeing through northern Minnesota and Ontario, Canada. Hints on canoeing, camping and cooking are shown with precautions taken on keeping the wilderness wild for future use by outdoor lovers. Refreshments will be served.

Rec League Cage Title Won by Armstrong's

Armstrong's Eagles survived a late scare to beat Hub Delicatessen, 61-56, last night at the Municipal Auditorium and capture the Rec Basketball league championship.

Second place Ray's Tackle Shop rode a 32-point performance by Jumpin' Joe Uhl to wallop Carroll's Bait Box, 85-61, in the other game.

Carpouzis Is Hot

Hub, which upset Ray's Tackle Shop last Sunday, stayed close to the champions most of the way, thanks to the shooting of George Carpouzis and the board work of Don Komosa, Harry Pratt and Ronnie Lindsay.

The winners had a seemingly safe 10 point lead with less than two minutes to go. But Carpouzis hit on a pair of three-point plays and added another free throw before two foul shots by Bob Smith in the fading seconds clinched the verdict and the championship.

Sam Brown was held to four goals but scored 10 free throws to finish with 18 points for the winners. Larry Brown added 17 and Smith 16. Carpouzis put on a 31-point show for Hub.

Ray's led most of the way against the Bait Box and clinched the verdict by outscoring the losers, 24-15, in the third quarter.

Uhl potted 16 field goals for his total. Chick Boice added 14 markers and Joe Klonowski had a dozen.

Armstrong Captures 4th Round 'A' Title

Armstrong's Eagles stopped Hub Delicatessen, 86-65, to win the YMCA A division fourth round B division honors Saturday night at the Broadway court.

Sam, Larry and Al Brown Jr. contributed to the Armstrong triumph, getting 62 points between them. George Carpouzis rimmed 20 for Hub, which trailed by hefty margins from the start.

Armstrong's will now play Canfield Electric, third round winner, for the second half championship. They will collide on Saturday, April 10.

Judy's blew a 7-point lead in the final three minutes against Stone Ridge. Werner Wustrau paced the winning quintet with 24 points. Chick Boice and John Burris were high for Judy's.

Stone Ridge will oppose Jack's Farber Shop on Wednesday, 8:15 for the fourth round championship.

West Point Baseball Team Has High Hopes

WEST POINT—"If our pitching holds up the way it did a year ago, and we can find adequate personnel to fill up the holes in the outfield and catching, then we should be right in the thick of the Eastern League race again this year." That's the feeling of Coach Eric Tipton as he prepares his Army baseball team for the 1965 season.

Ironically enough, the outfield and catching were the least of his worries last spring. Lettermen were available in those positions, but only one monogram-winner returned to the mound corps. Tipton got some unexpected help from a group of sophomore pitchers, however, and went on to finish second in the Eastern League with a fashionable record 7-2 record.

The pitching staff returns intact, but catcher Bob Michela and veteran outfielders Ed Haydash, Art Kierstead and John Rogers have all graduated. Newcomer Chet Zurawik, a standout on last year's Plebe club, could provide the solution behind the plate. If he can't make the grade, either Randy Keener, Mike Lapolla or Steve Harmon will have to fill in.

Three players on the roster had varsity experience in the outfield in 1964—Bob Jones, Gene Atkinson and Bob Hammond—but none were able to hit better than .180. The answer may lie with sophomores Bob Cenci, Martin Cassity, John Boretti and Dan Schrage, each of whom has been impressive in early drills.

Is Top Pitcher

Junior Barry DeBolt, a hard-throwing righthander, is the spark of the pitching corps. Last year, while compiling a 6-3 won-lost record, he allowed just 55 hits in 75 innings while striking out 89 batters. His ERA was a superb 2.16, good enough to earn him a berth on the all-league team. Mac Hayes (3-0) and Phil Nelson (1-2) are back for another season, while Bruce Hulin and Jim Mirando, relief specialists a year ago, could figure in the starting rotation.

Last year's starting infield is also set with the return of Mike Silliman at first base, Bob Fazen, the team's leading hitter with a .345 average, at second base, captain Tony Pyrz at shortstop and Tom Carll at third base. Sillman, who just reported this week following a successful basketball campaign, could receive a stiff challenge from newcomer Bill Hoagland, while Ken Smith, a slick fielder, may win the starting assignment at third.

The Cadets don't figure to get a break from the schedule, for they're slated to meet Knickerbocker Conference champion Long Island University in the season's opener April 3. The same week they will face powerhouse Ithaca and Princeton, an Eastern League foe.

The complete Army schedule follows: April 3, Long Island; 7, Middlebury; 9, Ithaca; 10, at Princeton; 14, Colgate; 15, NYU; 17, at Yale; 20, Villanova; 23, CCNY; 24, Pennsylvania; 28, Rutgers; 30, St. John's.

May 1, Manhattan; 5, Rider; 7, Brown; 8, Harvard; 10, New York Mets (exhibition); 12, Fordham; 14, Cornell; 15, at Columbia; 21, at Syracuse; 22, at Dartmouth; 29, Penn State.

June 2, Seton Hall; 5, Navy.

Ray's to Oppose Newburgh In Tourney Game

Ray's Tackle Shop makes its first appearance in the Poughkeepsie YMCA Basketball tournament tonight, playing DuPont of Newburgh in a quarter-final game at 7:15 p. m.

In the second game, N.S.O. of Poughkeepsie opposes Vernon Builder of Nyack.

In addition to its regular squad, the local cagers have added Sam Brown of Armstrong's and the Hub duo of George Carpouzis and Harry Pratt to the roster.

Speedway Sets April 4 Opener

Middletown — Plans for the opening of Victory Speedway on Sunday afternoon, April 4, are all completed and the fans can be assured of a field of top notch drivers for the races. The Green Flag for the first race of the season here at Victory Speedway should drop at 2 p. m. that afternoon.

Promoter Enno Van Dam is then switching his racing schedule to its regular Saturday night slot with action aplenty on Saturday, April 10 at 8:30 p. m.

This promises to be another season of terrific action and big combination shows on the lightning fast Victory Speedway Oval. As soon as the combination shows and special events are lined up, the dates will be made public.

Regular Stock Car Racing will continue every Saturday night from the 10th of April right through until late September.

Fair St. Reformed Jr. Protestant Champs

Fair St. Reformed made a clean sweep of Junior Protestant Church league laurels by beating Hurley Reformed, 32-24, in a first round playoff game Saturday at the YMCA gym.

Fair St. won the second half of the league, capturing all seven games played. The champions and Hurley had 6-1 marks in the second half prior to the playoff tilt.

In another game on Saturday, St. James Methodist stopped Redeemer Lutheran, 55-23.

In the playoff tilt, both sides used zone defenses and neither could score much in the first half, which closed in an 11-11 deadlock.

Taps in Rebounds

Mike Hoffman tapped in three rebounds for the winners in the third period as they outscored Hurley, 11-5. They maintained their margin in the final period to win the game and the championship.

Willis Locke paced the winners with 11 points but the others chipped in with good performances. Gary Bellows rimmed 10 markers for Hurley.

Mark Stevens hit for 27 points in the St. James Methodist rout of Redeemer Lutherans. Bruce Stalter's 12 points paced the losers.

An All-Star game will be arranged in the near future against the Fair St. quintet.

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO

Freeman Sports Editor

Speaking of Sports:

It was nice to be on the winning side in the Golf Writers Association of America's annual balloting for the William D. Richardson Trophy for outstanding contribution to golf.

Three years running we have been submitting the name of Gene Sarazen, the Squire of Germantown. This time around we hit the jackpot.

The weekend announcement that the legendary man in the knickers has been selected for the 1965 award is recognition long overdue for one of the immortals of the game.

Beyond being an international figure in the sport, Gene Sarazen over the years has been a true friend of Ulster county golf. Many in the area will be happy to hear about the new accolade that has come Gene's way.

Player of the Decades:

Sarazen's remarkable longevity on the fairways is evidence by the history book statistics. He first won the National Open in 1922 and repeated 10 years. His first PGA championship came in 1923, the second 10 years later. In 1923, Sarazen captured the British Open, a title he has often said must be won by any golfer with authentic claim to greatness. Thirty-two and thirty-six years after his first U. S. Open triumph, Gene won the PGA Senior Nationals and world titles, in 1954 and 1958. He was six times a member of the United States Ryder Cup squad.

Sarazen's all-'round greatness and his articulate contributions to the game are sometimes overshadowed by the legendary "double eagle 2" in the 1935 Masters at Augusta. He fired a 220-yard spoon shot into the cup on the 485-yard 15th hole at the Augusta National. One of golf's greatest strokes it enabled Gene to tie with Craig Wood in the 1935 event. The next day he won the playoff by five strokes. Unless you have seen the 15th at Augusta, you can never fully comprehend the significance of that shot.

Innovations at Woodstock:

Woodstock Country Club will try an experiment this season—pairings and starting times for all major club tournaments. This is a first for area clubs. The golf committee feels the new setup will give tournaments greater prestige, identification for tournament players and, most important, is designed for better traffic control than the traditional 9 a. m. to 1 p. m. spread for starting times. . . . Woodstock also plans to combine its men's and women's club Seniors, with three men and a woman player making up the foursomes. The Seniors is for men 50 and over, for women —— and over. . . . The village links also will restore the traditional date for the annual Woodstock Open, the third Friday in August. . . . Herb Waterous, the Wykagyl Country Club head greenskeeper at Rochelle, up for the weekend, said Wykagyl has been playable all winter. Formal opening of the 1965 season scheduled next weekend. Wykagyl gets the Ike tournament in addition to the full-scale Palm Beach Round Robin this summer. . . .

The Nineteenth Hole:

Scuttlebutt has it that Bill Van Aken, the all-time Woodstock Country Club great, may serve without salary as Ulster Community College golf coach this season. . . . Isn't it time to stage an Ulster County Junior championship for boys and girls? . . . Dutchess Golf and Country Club switched to all-medal club championship in 1964 and were highly pleased with the results. We don't think Ulster County is ready for the change-over yet. Whereas Dutchess has many players capable of winning a 72-hole event, at any of the three area layouts—Woodstock, Wiltwyck and Twaalfskill—the result would be a foregone conclusion. It would be Bill Van Aken, George Hughes and Leon Randall against the field. . . . State Liquor Authority is cracking down on abuses of liquor licenses by private clubs, including golf clubs. More on that later.

COLD WEATHER TIP for the early bids: Wind can be deceptive on a chilly spring day. If you're not careful in your selection, most pros warn, you'll take too much club against it. . . . And that isn't good.

St. Mary's Team Gets 83-71 Win

Vince Fisher and Jim Williams rimmed 19 points each to lead St. Mary's of Kingston seniors to an, 83-71, win at St. James Danielson in Danielson, Conn., Sunday.

The upstate New York champions used a 27-point third period to defeat the Norwich Archdiocesan winners.

Aiding Fisher and Williams were Tony Toney and Bruce Ackert with 13 points each.

Philly Has Lead Over Cincinnati

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Philadelphia 76ers do not necessarily need prolific scoring from Wilt Chamberlain. Neither does the so-called disadvantage of playing on an opponent's floor bother them.

The 7-foot-1 Chamberlain scored just 17 points Sunday, but still led his team to an impressive 108-94 victory over the Cincinnati Royals in their semi-final playoffs in the National Basketball Association.

The victory gave Philadelphia a 2-1 edge in the best-of-5 Eastern Division series. The fourth game will be played in Philadelphia Wednesday night and the 76ers can wrap up the series with a victory. Both of Philadelphia's victories, however, have been here.

Baltimore also needs only one more victory to win the best-of-5 Western Division semifinals from the St. Louis Hawks. The Bullets moved into a 2-1 edge with a crushing 131-99 victory over the Hawks at Baltimore Saturday night. The Bullets-Hawks fourth game will be Tuesday night in Baltimore.

Toronto Blanks Red Wings, 4-0

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Toronto's Terry Sawchuk, who has captured the National Hockey League's Vezina Trophy in absentia, wants to share the credit — and the wealth — with his Maple Leaf goalie cronie, Johnny Bower.

If Bower happens to get short-changed when the hardware is handed out, he can cry all the way to the bank.

The Toronto tandem nailed hockey's top goalie prize in the last game of the regular season when 40-year-old Bower blanked Detroit's league champions 4-0 Sunday night. That margin gave Sawchuk and Bower a 173-175 edge over the Red Wings and rookie Roger Crozier in goals allowed over the season.

The Vezina Trophy—and an accompanying bonus of $1,000 — goes to the goalie who plays the most games for the team least scored upon. Bower had a better goals-against average than Sawchuk but played in only 34 games, two less than Terry.

The Toronto pair agreed earlier to divide the cash if they won and Sawchuk said recently he would not accept the trophy unless Bower's name also was inscribed on it. The league, however, says Sawchuk's name will be the only one on the trophy.

Name or not, Bower will pocket $250 more than Sawchuk — if they split the $1,000 — by virtue of his league-leading defensive record in the second half of the season. Charlie Hodge of Montreal, the 1963-64 Vezina winner, received $250 for leading through the first-half.

Boston beat Chicago 3-1, and Montreal stopped New York 5-3 in Sunday night's other games.

Kart Opening Is Slated, April 4

Competition Kart racing resumes at Kart Wheelers Raceway, Inc. in Clintondale on April 4 at 2 p. m. Practice will begin at 1 p. m. and the track will open at 12 noon.

The raceway will operate in accordance with the International Kart Federation's 1965 rules and regulations. In addition to the regular I.K.F. classes, an additional class for Clinton and 4-cycle engines will be run both for Senior and Junior drivers.

Rosendale Sportsmen Slate Outdoor Film

A film "Wilderness Day" will be shown at the Friday, April 2, meeting of the Rosendale Sportsmen's Association Inc., at the Clubhouse in Tillson.

This is a color film showing two experienced woodsmen canoeing through northern Minnesota and Ontario, Canada. Hints on canoeing, camping and cooking are shown with precautions taken on keeping the wilderness wild for future use by outdoor lovers. Refreshments will be served.

Rec League Cage Title Won by Armstrong's

Armstrong's Eagles survived a late scare to beat Hub Delicatessen, 61-56, last night at the Municipal Auditorium and capture the Rec Basketball league championship.

Second place Ray's Tackle Shop rode a 32-point performance by Jumpin' Joe Uhl to wallop Carroll's Bait Box, 85-61, in the other game.

Carpouzis Is Hot

Hub, which upset Ray's Tackle Shop last Sunday, stayed close to the champions most of the way, thanks to the shooting of George Carpouzis and the board work of Don Komosa, Harry Pratt and Ronnie Lindsay.

The winners had a seemingly safe 10 point lead with less than two minutes to go. But Carpouzis hit on a pair of three-point plays and added another free throw before two foul shots by Bob Smith in the fading seconds clinched the verdict and the championship.

Sam Brown was held to four goals but scored 10 free throws to finish with 18 points for the winners. Larry Brown added 17 and Smith 16. Carpouzis put on a 31-point show for Hub.

Ray's led most of the way against the Bait Box and clinched the verdict by outscoring the losers, 24-15, in the third quarter.

Uhl potted 16 field goals for his total. Chick Boice added 14 markers and Joe Klonowski had a dozen.

Armstrong Captures 4th Round 'A' Title

Armstrong's Eagles stopped Hub Delicatessen, 86-65, to win the YMCA A division fourth round B division honors Saturday night at the Broadway court.

Sam, Larry and Al Brown Jr. contributed to the Armstrong triumph, getting 62 points between them. George Carpouzis rimmed 20 for Hub, which trailed by hefty margins from the start.

Armstrong's will now play Canfield Electric, third round winner, for the second half championship. They will collide on Saturday, April 10.

Judy's blew a 7-point lead in the final three minutes against Stone Ridge. Werner Wustrau paced the winning quintet with 24 points. Chick Boice and John Burris were high for Judy's.

West Point Baseball Team Has High Hopes

WEST POINT—"If our pitching holds up the way it did a year ago, and we can find adequate personnel to fill up the holes in the outfield and catching, then we should be right in the thick of the Eastern League race again this year." That's the feeling of Coach Eric Tipton as he prepares his Army baseball team for the 1965 season.

Ironically enough, the outfield and catching were the least of his worries last spring. Lettermen were available in those positions, but only one monogram-winner returned to the mound corps. Tipton got some unexpected help from a group of sophomore pitchers, however, and went on to finish second in the Eastern League with a fashionable record 7-2 record.

The pitching staff returns intact, but catcher Bob Michela and veteran outfielders Ed Haydash, Art Kierstead and John Rogers have all graduated. Newcomer Chet Zurawik, a standout on last year's Plebe club, could provide the solution behind the plate. If he can't make the grade, either Randy Keener, Mike Lapolla or Steve Harmon will have to fill in.

Three players on the roster had varsity experience in the outfield in 1964—Bob Jones, Gene Atkinson and Bob Hammond—but none were able to hit better than .180. The answer may lie with sophomores Bob Cenci, Martin Cassity, John Boretti and Dan Schrage, each of whom has been impressive in early drills.

Is Top Pitcher

Junior Barry DeBolt, a hard-throwing righthander, is the spark of the pitching corps. Last year, while compiling a 6-3 won-lost record, he allowed just 55 hits in 75 innings while striking out 89 batters. His ERA was a superb 2.16, good enough to earn him a berth on the all-league team. Mac Hayes (3-0) and Phil Nelson (1-2) are back for another season, while Bruce Hulin and Jim Mirando, relief specialists a year ago, could figure in the starting rotation.

Last year's starting infield is also set with the return of Mike Silliman at first base, Bob Fazen, the team's leading hitter with a .345 average, at second base, captain Tony Pyrz at shortstop and Tom Carll at third base. Sillman, who just reported this week following a successful basketball campaign, could receive a stiff challenge from newcomer Bill Hoagland, while Ken Smith, a slick fielder, may win the starting assignment at third.

The Cadets don't figure to get a break from the schedule, for they're slated to meet Knickerbocker Conference champion Long Island University in the season's opener April 3. The same week they will face powerhouse Ithaca and Princeton, an Eastern League foe.

The complete Army schedule follows: April 3, Long Island; 7, Middlebury; 9, Ithaca; 10, at Princeton; 14, Colgate; 15, NYU; 17, at Yale; 20, Villanova; 23, CCNY; 24, Pennsylvania; 28, Rutgers; 30, St. John's.

May 1, Manhattan; 5, Rider; 7, Brown; 8, Harvard; 10, New York Mets (exhibition); 12, Fordham; 14, Cornell; 15, at Columbia; 21, at Syracuse; 22, at Dartmouth; 29, Penn State.

Ray's to Oppose Newburgh In Tourney Game

Ray's Tackle Shop makes its first appearance in the Poughkeepsie YMCA Basketball tournament tonight, playing DuPont of Newburgh in a quarter-final game at 7:15 p. m.

In the second game, N.S.O. of Poughkeepsie opposes Vernon Builder of Nyack.

In addition to its regular squad, the local cagers have added Sam Brown of Armstrong's and the Hub duo of George Carpouzis and Harry Pratt to the roster.

Speedway Sets April 4 Opener

Middletown — Plans for the opening of Victory Speedway on Sunday afternoon, April 4, are all completed and the fans can be assured of a field of top notch drivers for the races. The Green Flag for the first race of the season here at Victory Speedway should drop at 2 p. m. that afternoon.

Promoter Enno Van Dam is then switching his racing schedule to its regular Saturday night slot with action aplenty on Saturday, April 10 at 8:30 p. m.

This promises to be another season of terrific action and big combination shows on the lightning fast Victory Speedway Oval. As soon as the combination shows and special events are lined up, the dates will be made public.

Regular Stock Car Racing will continue every Saturday night from the 10th of April right through until late September.

Third in All-Events

Rose Schatzel Leading State Tournament Singles With 619

ROSE SCHATZEL

Kingston's four-time New York State woman's bowling champion, Rose Schatzel, has taken the lead in the singles division and is third in all-events in the 32nd annual renewal at Troy and Latham over the weekend.

Mrs. Schatzel put together games of 213, 200 and 206 to pace the singles with a 619 score. In 1952, she captured the state title with a score of 616 in that event.

The Queen rolled 545 in the team event with Ferraro's Bowlerama squad and added 547 in the doubles for a 1716 all-events total, six pins higher than her championship total in 1952.

Mrs. Schatzel, who holds three state all-events titles in addition to one singles crown, achieved an unprecedented repeater in all-events, with 1728 in 1951 and 1710 in 1952. She won her third title with a 1773 total in 1957.

In other action of the 10-weekend tourney, Chioda Insurance of Buffalo grabbed the Class B team lead with a 2,454.

Elsie Towne and Pat Lamb of Bridgewater struck the alleys for 1,048 and the lead in the Class B doubles. Katherine Carman and Fran Rathbone of Prattsville had led with a 1,015.

Albanion Betty Brady rolled a 589 to grab the Class B singles lead from Mary Ann Dedoszak of Rochester who carded a 566.

Mid-Hudson Major

Jack Ferraro Raps 707

Jack Ferraro stroked a league leading 707 and Schovel Tree Service increased its Mid-Hudson Major lead to six games with a whitewash of A and N Vending Friday night.

Ferraro, who is waging a tight battle with Lou Campi Sr. for individual honors in the circuit, slammed 254, 228 and 225 for his total.

Schovel rapped 1025, 1120 and 1038 for 3183 as Chris Gallo added 644, Larry Petersen 622 and Jake Charter 621. Bill Kern hit 622 for the losers.

In another local match, Schoentag's lost two games to Galloway's Mustangs.

High individual single for the night was Vince Carpino's career first perfect game, the second this year in the league.

Schovel has a 53-31 mark against 47-37 for second place Tompkins and Baxter Insurance. Three Brothers Egg Farm is eighth with a 42-42 record and Schoentag's is 13th at 35-49.

In addition to Ferraro's 707, Carpino supplied the other big triple. He hit 700 on the nose.

Joe Balsis Is Pockets Champion

NEW YORK (AP)—Joe Balsis of Minersville, Pa., is the new world's pocket billiards champion.

Balsis defeated the defending champion, Luther Lassiter, 150-70 Sunday night and finished with a record of 12-2 for the eight-day tournament. Lassiter, winner the last two years, was third.

Lassiter finished in a tie with Jimmy Moore of Albuquerque, N.M., in games won and lost with 10-4 but Moore was given second place on the most balls.

Lassiter, from Elizabeth C[illegible] N.C., needed a victory in the final match to tie Balsis and force a one-game showdown. But he proved no match for the Pennsylvanian.

Final standings included:

Irving Crane of Rochester, N.Y., and Luther Butera of Pittstown, Pa., with 8-6 records.

Top Coach

BOSTON (AP) — Red Auerbach has been selected Coach of the Year for the first time in his 19 years of guiding a National Basketball Association team.

He'll celebrate by putting his record-breaking Boston Celtics, seeking a seventh straight world title, through a grueling practice today.

Auerbach drew 21 of the votes cast by 27 basketball writers. Fred Schaus of Los Angeles got four and Dave DeBusschere of Detroit two.

Ithaca Duo Has Ist in Doubles

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — Ron Amici and Skip Poole both of Ithaca, moved into first place in doubles scratch play at the completion of opening weekend play at the 40th annual New York State Men's bowling tournament here.

Amici and Poole, who had 1,257 pins, were fourth in doubles handicap with 1,329 pins. William Sullivan and Ange Santucci of Yorkville lead doubles handicap with 1,336.

The tournament, which began Saturday, will continue weekends through May 30 and offers $136,239 prizes.

Lindy's Restaurant No. 2 from Rome was on top in team handicap play with 3,249. The Jenny Five, of Rochester, with 3,043 pins, leads in team scratch competition.

John Juliano, of Rochester, leads in both scratch and handicap divisions of singles play.

Clemente Reports

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Florida seemed a little more like the Sunshine State to the Pittsburgh Pirates today. Roberto Clemente was back in a Pittsburgh Pirates' baseball uniform.

Clemente, in bed for more than a month in Puerto Rico with what was believed to be malaria, worked out Sunday before the exhibition game with Baltimore and there is a good chance he'll be ready for opening day.

The 1964 National League batting champion said he has regained 10 pounds but still is 10 pounds underweight.

Third in All-Events

Rose Schatzel Leading State Tournament Singles With 619

ROSE SCHATZEL

Kingston's four-time New York State woman's bowling champion, Rose Schatzel, has taken the lead in the singles division and is third in all-events in the 32nd annual renewal at Troy and Latham over the weekend.

Mrs. Schatzel put together games of 213, 200 and 206 to pace the singles with a 619 score. In 1952, she captured the state title with a score of 616 in that event.

The Queen rolled 545 in the team event with Ferraro's Bowlerama squad and added 547 in the doubles for a 1716 all-events total, six pins higher than her championship total in 1952.

Mrs. Schatzel, who holds three state all-events titles in addition to one singles crown, achieved an unprecedented repeater in all-events, with 1728 in 1951 and 1710 in 1952. She won her third title with a 1773 total in 1957.

In other action of the 10-week-end tourney, Chioda Insurance of Buffalo grabbed the Class B team lead with a 2,454.

Elsie Towne and Pat Lamb of Bridgewater struck the alleys for 1,048 and the lead in the Class B doubles. Katherine Carman and Fran Rathbone of Prattsville had led with a 1,015.

Albanion Betty Brady rolled a 589 to grab the Class B singles lead from Mary Ann Dedoszak of Rochester who carded a 566.

Mid-Hudson Major

Jack Ferraro Raps 707

Jack Ferraro stroked a league leading 707 and Schovel Tree Service increased its Mid-Hudson Major lead to six games with a whitewash of A and N Vending Friday night.

Ferraro, who is waging a tight battle with Lou Campi Sr. for individual honors in the circuit, slammed 254, 228 and 225 for his total.

Schovel rapped 1025, 1120 and 1038 for 3183 as Chris Gallo added 644, Larry Petersen 622 and Jake Charter 621. Bill Kern hit 622 for the losers.

In another local match, Schoentag's lost two games to Galloway's Mustangs.

High individual single for the night was Vince Carpino's career first perfect game, the second this year in the league.

Schovel has a 53-31 mark against 47-37 for second place Tompkins and Baxter Insurance. Three Brothers Egg Farm is eighth with a 42-42 record and Schoentag's is 13th at 35-49.

In addition to Ferraro's 707, Carpino supplied the other big triple. He hit 700 on the nose.

Joe Balsis Is Pockets Champion

NEW YORK (AP)—Joe Balsis of Minersville, Pa., is the new world's pocket billiards champion.

Balsis defeated the defending champion, Luther Lassiter, 150-70 Sunday night and finished with a record of 12-2 for the eight-day tournament. Lassiter, winner the last two years, was third.

Lassiter finished in a tie with Jimmy Moore of Albuquerque, N.M., in games won and lost with 10-4 but Moore was given second place on the most balls.

Lassiter, from Elizabeth C[illegible] N.C., needed a victory in the final match to tie Balsis and force a one-game showdown. But he proved no match for the Pennsylvanian.

Final standings included:

Irving Crane of Rochester, N.Y., and Luther Butera of Pittstown, Pa., with 8-6 records.

Top Coach

BOSTON (AP) — Red Auerbach has been selected Coach of the Year for the first time in his 19 years of guidi[illegible] a National Basketball Association team.

He'll celebrate by putting his record-breaking Boston Celtics, seeking a seventh straight world title, through a grueling practice today.

Auerbach drew 21 of the votes cast by 27 basketball writers. Fred Schaus of Los Angeles got four and Dave DeBusschere of Detroit two.

Ithaca Duo Has Ist in Doubles

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — Ron Amici and Skip Poole both of Ithaca, moved into first place in doubles scratch play at the completion of opening weekend play at the 40th annual New York State Men's bowling tournament here.

Amici and Poole, who had 1,257 pins, were fourth in doubles handicap with 1,329 pins. William Sullivan and Ange Santucci of Yorkville lead doubles handicap with 1,336.

The tournament, which began Saturday, will continue weekends through May 30 and offers $136,239 prizes.

Lindy's Restaurant No. 2 from Rome was on top in team handicap play with 3,249. The Jenny Five, of Rochester, with 3,043 pins, leads in team scratch competition.

John Juliano, of Rochester, leads in both scratch and handicap divisions of singles play.

Clemente Reports

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Florida seemed a little more like the Sunshine State to the Pittsburgh Pirates today. Roberto Clemente was back [illegible] a Pittsburgh Pirates' baseb[illegible] uniform.

Clemente, in bed for more than a month in Puerto Rico with what was believed to be malaria, worked out Sunday before the exhibition game with Baltimore and there is a good chance he'll be ready for opening day.

The 1964 National League batting champion said he has regained 10 pounds but still is 10 pounds underweight.

YOU'RE A
CADILLAC OWNER
YOU'LL WANT TO
ONE

of the finest "custom built" homes you'll find. Architecturally designed to blend into its tree shaded environment on a 1½ acre tract, on exclusive Forest Hills Drive. Breath-takingly handsome, contemporary in design, it combines elegance with practicability. From the moment you enter this lovely foyer you'll be excited by what you see. You'll be impressed by its comfortable big living room with a beautiful fireplace, formal dining room, wall to wall carpeting, opening through huge glass sliding doors onto an enclosed screened patio which overlooks a beautiful green forest. You'll love livability afforded by the 4 large bedrooms, 2½ complete baths and the beautiful kitchen and dining area with built-in range, oven and dishwasher. The children will enjoy the lovely family room enhanced by a brick fireplace and bookcases. We would love to show you this delightful home. Priced at $43,500.

The noted American poet, Oliver Wendell Holmes, was born Aug. 29, 1809.

Cold Weather Will Continue Through April 4

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Extended forecasts, prepared by the U.S. Weather Bureau, from 7 a.m. Tuesday to 7 a.m. Sunday:

Eastern New York — Cold weather will continue through most of the period with temperatures averaging 5 degrees below normal. Precipitation will include a few flurries at the beginning of the period and some snow and rain toward the end the week. Total water content of precipitation will range from one quarter to one half inch.

Western New York — Temperatures will average 5 to 7 degrees below normal. It will be cold at the beginning of the period, followed by a warming trend about Thursday or Friday and turning colder Saturday. Precipitation will average one quarter to one half inch melted as rain or snow about Friday and snow flurries Saturday.

Temperature normals — Daytime highs, middle 40s to low 50s. Night time lows, middle 20s to low 30s.

Winter Lingering Across the State

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Winter continued to linger across New York State today with snow, up to five inches, in the Eastern and Central sections and sleet and freezing rain in the west.

Five inches of snow was reported in Rome and up to four inches was on the ground in the Albany area.

Schools were closed in many areas where driving was listed as hazardous. Several flights into the Rochester airport were cancelled because of the icy conditions.

The snow was followed across the state by freezing rain. A few more snow flurries were forecast for tonight, however.

19 Are Killed

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — Nineteen persons were reported killed and 33 injured early today when a commuters' train crashed into a derailed freight train.

driven by Lydia LaForge, 31, Box 288, Kingston, was driving a car south on the highway when the vehicle left the west side of the pavement, reentered the highway and hit a tree. The driver sustained lacerations of the head and a possible fractured pelvis.

Passengers in the car were Jean Struber, 35, Box 134, New Paltz, who received lacerations of the neck, and John Markle, 56, of 47 Prospect Street, New Paltz, who was treated for abrasions and lacerations of the face and a cervical fracture of the spine.

Lost Control

Sergeant Suttlehan reported a car operated by James Peterson, 24, of 123 Johnson Street, Newburgh, was traveling south on Prospect Street north of Western Avenue, Marlboro, at 8:05 p. m. Sunday, when the driver lost control as the car hit a bump and went off the right side of the pavement and overturned three times.

According to an investigation by Trooper B. E. Lehr, Peterson escaped injury. Passengers in his car were, Henry Peterson, 36, of 145 Grand Street, Newburgh, who received a possible cerebral concussion, and Joseph Fisher, 17, of Marlboro, who sustained lacerations of the forehead. Henry Peterson was taken to St. Luke's Hospital, Newburgh.

DEATHS

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—John J. McClure, 78, one of the last of the nation's old-time political bosses, died Sunday. McClure had led Delaware County Republican forces since 1907 and was influential in state politics. His only tour in public office was two terms as a state senator—from 1928 to 1933.

MILTON, Mass. (AP) — Dr. Alexander Forbes, 82, physiologist, geographer and grandson of Ralph Waldo Emerson, died Saturday. Dr. Forbes had taught at Harvard University and at the University of Liverpool.

CHICAGO (AP) — Dr. Robert Talbot McElvenny, 90, a pioneer in the field of hip and spine surgery, died Saturday. He was on the staff of Wesley Memorial Hospital since 1941, and at his death was senior attending surgeon.

Diver Helping Police Is Believed Drowned

WEBB CITY, Mo., (AP) — A scuba diver disappeared Sunday while trying to help police recover a car from an abandoned lead and zinc mine.

Roy Hunt, 23, was presumed drowned.

Police believe the car was the one that killed Benjamin Carl, 13, in front of his home in Webb City in a hit-and-run accident last Nov. 18.

Divers found the car on a ledge under about 70 feet of water.

Local Official Will Participate In GOP Seminar

Mrs. Raymond F. LeFever, vice-chairman of the Ulster County Republican Committee, has been invited to attend a national seminar on political organization which is being presented by the Republican National Committee. The seminar will be held at the Sheraton-Park Hotel in Washington, D. C. on March 31 through April 3 and will involve top Republicans from all over the nation.

Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson, Ulster County Republican Chairman, in announcing the invitation today said that two of the nation's leading Republicans who will address the seminar will be former Vice President Richard Nixon and the 1964 GOP standard-bearer, Barry Goldwater.

Assemblyman Wilson stated that Mrs. LeFever has also been given the honor of being chosen to officially greet Mr. Nixon upon his arrival in Washington and escort him to the seminar. There will also be a New York State Republican banquet on the night of April 1 at which Mr. Nixon will be the principal speaker.

The Ulster County chairman further stated that at the same time as the Republican seminar there will also be a meeting of the National Federation of Republican Women and that Mrs. Walter Dunham of Kingston will represent the Ulster County Women's Republican Club at the meeting. Former Vice President Nixon will also be the principal speaker at the meeting of Republican Women.

During both the seminar and Republican Women's meeting there will be a series of workshops and discussion groups to map out plans for the 1966 Congressional campaigns and to discuss general strategy for the 1968 presidential race. Speaking at these workshops will be top Republican senators and congressmen as well as Richard Nixon, Barry Goldwater and the new Republican National Chairman, Ray Bliss.

Both Chairman Wilson and Mrs. LeFever said that the meetings should do much to strengthen the Republican party and allow the party to present a united front in the 1966 and 1968 elections.

Three Are Held For Grand Jury On Drug Charges

Two Woodstock residents and one from Kingston were arrested Sunday on charges of possession of marijuana. All were held for grand jury action.

Mrs. Kayros De La Vega, 24, of 79 Yerry Hill Road, Woodstock, a native of Mexico City, was charged with possession of marijuana, possession of a hypodermic syringe and two needles. She was arrested by Ulster County Investigator Thomas Mayone and Deputy Sheriff James Freer.

Also from Woodstock was William Shann 3rd, 22, of Birchwood Terrace, Woodstock. He was charged with possession of marijuana, hypodermic needles and syringe. He was arrested by Deputy Sheriffs Bernard Ellsworth and Wolven.

Robert J. Cavano, 19, of 128 Broadway, Kingston, was charged with possession of marijuana.

Cavano was arrested in his car and it was reported by the authorities that a quantity of marijuana was found under the seat of the car.

All three were taken before Justice of the Peace Charles B. Farley of Town of Woodstock where they waived and were held for grand jury action. All were remanded to jail. Also assisting in the investigation were Woodstock constables.

Nevada's Comstock Lode produced $145 million worth of gold and silver ore between 1859 and 1869.

Middletown Bus Trip Scheduled Wednesday

The regular monthly chartered bus to Middletown State Hospital will leave from the parking lot of the Park Diner, Kingston, Wednesday, March 31, at 11:40 a. m.

Persons wishing to visit a patient at the hospital, may use the bus without prior reservation. The scheduled time to be back in Kingston is 5:15 p. m.

In addition to stopping in Rosendale and New Paltz, the bus will also stop for passengers on the route through Wallkill and Montgomery, if a request is made in advance to Ulster Countoy Association for Mental Health, 27 East O'Reilly Street, Kingston.

Rights Leaders Plan Move to Impeach Wallace

SELMA, Ala. (AP) — Civil rights leaders say they will begin a move in about two weeks to have Gov. George C. Wallace impeached and to turn all of Alabama into one mass demonstration in their battle to register Negro voters.

"We're going to start our next campaign at the top and go down to the botom," said the Rev. James Bevel in a speech to a Negro rally Sunday night.

He told the group that the drive to get Wallace out of office would be under way by mid-April.

The civil rights movement also will expand shortly to the steel city of Birmingham, the port city of Mobile and to every town and hamlet in Alabama, said Bevel, who is one of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.'s top spokesmen.

Unused Weapon

During World War II, the U.S. Army developed for the Air Force a monster 21-ton bomb for use in raids against the Axis, but it was not even test-dropped until 1947, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

WHAT TO DO AFTER AN ACCIDENT
How many times have we heard advice on this subject? There's a good reason why. Our actions immediately after an accident can do much to determine its eventual settlement. If medical attention is required to either ourselves or others, we must without delay see that it is provided. We must maintain clear thinking — try to etch photographically in our minds the events leading to the accident. The next step is so very important — inform your insurance agent of the mishap promptly. After we are informed we remove much of the worry from our client's shoulders. We stand beside him — offering our assistance in every way. Call us about your auto policy — you'll be glad you did.

Both Chairman Wilson and Mrs. LeFever said that the meetings should do much to strengthen the Republican party and allow the party to present a united front in the 1966 and 1968 elections.

Three Are Held For Grand Jury On Drug Charges

Two Woodstock residents and one from Kingston were arrested Sunday on charges of possession of marijuana. All were held for grand jury action.

Mrs. Kayros De La Vega, 24, of 79 Yerry Hill Road, Woodstock, a native of Mexico City, was charged with possession of marijuana, possession of a hypodermic syringe and two needles. She was arrested by Ulster County Investigator Thomas Mayone and Deputy Sheriff James Freer.

Also from Woodstock was William Shann 3rd, 22, of Birchwood Terrace, Woodstock. He was charged with possession of marijuana, hypodermic needles and syringe. He was arrested by Deputy Sheriffs Bernard Ellsworth and Wolven.

Robert J. Cavano, 19, of 128 Broadway, Kingston, was charged with possession of marijuana.

Cavano was arrested in his car and it was reported by the authorities that a quantity of marijuana was found under the seat of the car.

All three were taken before Justice of the Peace Charles B. Farley of Town of Woodstock where they waived and were held for grand jury action. All were remanded to jail. Also assisting in the investigation were Woodstock constables.

Nevada's Comstock Lode produced $145 million worth of gold and silver ore between 1859 and 1869.

Middletown Bus Trip Scheduled Wednesday

The regular monthly chartered bus to Middletown State Hospital will leave from the parking lot of the Park Diner, Kingston, Wednesday, March 31, at 11:40 a. m.

Persons wishing to visit a patient at the hospital, may use the bus without prior reservation. The scheduled time to be back in Kingston is 5:15 p. m.

In addition to stopping in Rosendale and New Paltz, the bus will also stop for passengers on the route through Wallkill and Montgomery, if a request is made in advance to Ulster County Association for Mental Health, 27 East O'Reilly Street, Kingston.

Rights Leaders Plan Move to Impeach Wallace

SELMA, Ala. (AP) — Civil rights leaders say they will begin a move in about two weeks to have Gov. George C. Wallace impeached and to turn all of Alabama into one mass demonstration in their battle to register Negro voters.

"We're going to start our next campaign at the top and go down to the botom," said the Rev. James Bevel in a speech to a Negro rally Sunday night.

He told the group that the drive to get Wallace out of office would be under way by mid-April.

The civil rights movement also will expand shortly to the steel city of Birmingham, the port city of Mobile and to every town and hamlet in Alabama, said Bevel, who is one of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.'s top spokesmen.

Unused Weapon

During World War II, the U.S. Army developed for the Air Force a monster 21-ton bomb for use in raids against the Axis, but it was not even test-dropped until 1947, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

WHAT TO DO AFTER AN ACCIDENT

How many times have we heard advice on this subject? There's a good reason why. Our actions immediately after an accident can do much to determine its eventual settlement. If medical attention is required to either ourselves or others, we must without delay see that it is provided. We must maintain clear thinking — try to etch photographically in our minds the events leading to the accident. The next step is so very important — inform your insurance agent of the mishap promptly. After we are informed we remove much of the worry from our client's shoulders. We stand beside him — offering our assistance in every way. Call us about your auto policy — you'll be glad you did.
